HALIFAX GIVEN EDEN'S PLACE IN SPITE OF LABOR'S OBJECTION TO HIM

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain Appoints New Foreign Secretary After Adjournment of Parliament.

OPPOSITION CITES 33-YEAR PRECEDENT

As Peer, New Cabinet Member Cannot Speak in Commons — Assistant Named to Appear There for Him.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 25. — Viscount Halifax, hitherto Lord President of the Council and former Viceroy of India, was formally named Foreign Secretary today in spite of the Labor party's sharp warning that the appointment would raise a question of precedent.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced Halifax, who was his emissary on a special visit to Reichsfuehrer Hitler last November, would take over the post vacated by Anthony Eden, who declined to follow Chamberlain's policy of friendly adjustments with Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy.

R. A. Butler, former Undersecretary for India, was named parliamentary Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, to represent the Foreign Office in the House of Commons.

Chamberlain, however, will deal with all important matters of foreign policy in Commons, since Halifax, as a peer, cannot answer questions in that house.

The announcement that King George "was pleased to approve" Lord Halifax's appointment was made after Commons had adjourned for the week-end.

Laborite Gives Notice.

Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, gave notice of a constant campaign against Halifax, who has been acting head of the Foreign Office since Eden's resignation Sunday night.

After Chamberlain announced he was ready to decide on Eden's successor, Attlee brought up the precedent that the Foreign Minister is chosen from the House of Commons rather than the House of Lords.

Attlee said: "May I ask the Prime Minister if he realized that presently foreign affairs are a burning issue in this country and, if this House is to be shut down in not having a Foreign Secretary to answer questions, it raises a very big constitutional issue?"

Chamberlain said he was "bearing those considerations in mind."

William Wedgwood Benn, recalling the 33-year-old precedent said: "We know now the Prime Minister is going to appoint a Foreign Secretary in another house, and is holding up the announcement until this house has risen today."

Attlee said he would ask for time in which to discuss such an appointment.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Prime Minister in 1905, tried to establish the precedent that the Foreign Secretary always should be a member of the lower house. Nevertheless, since the World War two peers have occupied that post, the Marquess of Curzon in 1920-24 and the Earl of Reading in 1931. For 70 years before 1905 the Foreign Secretary nearly always had been a peer.

Lord Halifax had a long conference today with the Earl of Perth, British Ambassador to Italy, home to get instructions for the coming talks with Italy, and it was understood the import of the speech last night of Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria was canvassed fully.

Lords Back Chamberlain.

The House of Lords indorsed the new foreign policy of Prime Minister Chamberlain last night after Lord Halifax defended it.

This policy is that Britain shall establish friendship with Italy immediately.

Aroused by the opposition's suggestion that fear dictated Britain's new policy, Halifax declared:

"I am not afraid of war in the sense that I fear defeat, because I know the temper of this country and I know that this country would never embark on war unless it thought it both right and inevitable. I also know that, having embarked on war, it would not let go until, as usual, it had won," he said.

Lord Strabolgi, Laborite, most caustic critic of the Government's course, made it clear he was not sorry the new policy had forced

U. S. WHEAT SUBSIDY SET AT 12 CENTS A BUSHEL

Tentative Amounts Include 2.4 Cents a Pound for Cotton and One Half Cent to 1½ Cents for Tobacco.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Farmers who comply with the new crop control program this year will receive a Government subsidy of 2.4 cents a pound on cotton and 12 cents a bushel on wheat, Agriculture Department officials decided tentatively today.

Payments for tobacco may be half a cent to one and a half cents a pound, and for rice .125 cents a pound.

The subsidies would be paid from the $500,000,000 fund for benefits to farmers diverting land from soil depleting to soil-building crops.

The tentative rate for potatoes has been set at 3 cents a bushel, and peanuts .2 cent a pound. No rate has been fixed yet for corn.

The farm program inaugurates a new method of making payments to co-operating growers. Last year they were paid on the basis of the amount of land they diverted from the major soil-depleting crops.

Cotton growers, for example, received 5 cents a pound on the normal production of each acre of land taken from cotton, up to 35 per cent of their base acreage.

This year growers will be paid the subsidy rate on all crops produced on acreages allotted them for each major crop.

Cotton growers who knowingly plant in excess of their acreage allotment will be denied subsidies, providing marketing quotas are invoked. Otherwise, 5 cents a pound would be deducted for their surplus production.

Growers of other crops will be penalized through deductions if they plant in excess. For instance, the program would penalize wheat growers 96 cents a bushel, rice growers a cent a pound, tobacco growers fom 5 to 15 cents a pound and potato growers 30 cents a bushel for that portion of their crop produced on land in excess of acreage allotments.

18 MORE AT KANSAS CITY INDICTED FOR VOTE FRAUD

George Ryan, First Republican Precinct Captain to Be Accused in Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 25.—Indictments resulting from Kansas City's 1936 election scandals were increased to 19 9today by a Federal grand jury which accused 18 more persons.

The new list included the first indictment brought against a Republican precinct captain, George O'Neil. Previously Republican election workers had been indicted but the precinct captains named all were Democrats.

The new indictments included one against Mrs. Frances Ryan, leader o fthe Twelfth Ward for the Pendergast faction of the Democratic organization. Mrs. Ryan previously had been indicted on a similar charge as a result of investigation of another precinct in the same ward.

Indicted with O'Neil were all the Republican election workers in his precinct. All the charges are vote fraud conspiracy.

Fifty persons have been convicted to date in the vote fraud trials. Six obtained reversals and the right to be retried.

RELIEF CLIENT KILLS WELFARE EXECUTIVE

Stabs Him to Death With Spindle in Office at Hoboken, N. J.

By the Associated Press.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Feb. 25.—Harry L. Barck, in charge of relief administration in Hoboken, was stabbed to death today in his office, police said, by a relief client.

Police held a man they identified as Joseph Scutellaro, 36 years old, an unemployed carpenter and mason, on a charge of atrocious assault and battery.

Barck, 74, was stabbed in the chest.

Mrs. Eleanor Hartmann of the office staff said when Barck reached his office today 20 relief clients were waiting in the outer office to be interviewed.

Scutellaro was the third in line and while he was in Barck's office, Mrs. Hartmann told the police, she heard raised voices and then heard Barck scream. When she ran into the office and found Barck in a corner behind his desk, holding his chest. He died before an ambulance arrived.

Scutellaro walked past her, but was arrested by a policeman on duty outside the door.

Nearby Barck's desk police said they found a sharp-pointed spindle. Police reported Scutellaro said he caught up the spindle from the desk and plunged it into Barck's chest.

ROOSEVELT'S SALE OF PRESS CONFERENCE NOTES CRITICISED

Hoffman of Michigan Says in House President Takes Advantage of His Office.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Representative Hoffman (Rep.), Michigan, criticised President Roosevelt in the House today for selling some of the transcripts of his semi-weekly press conferences.

"Using his presidential office as his advertising agency—and this without cost to him personally," Hoffman said, "the President retains a monopoly, prevents those who are engaged in the business of reporting and writing from using their information and sells his manuscript to a syndicate for, it is said, something like $100,000.

"He uses the presence of the reporters to window-dress his remarks; then sells his observations.

"The President barks at the rich, but he bites the poor. He speaks against exorbitant and unholy profit but he has no scruples about taking from his writings a profit which he never earned, which he receives solely because he holds office as chief executive.

"Are we shortly to be advised through full-page advertisements of the brand of cigarettes the President smokes?"

DR. THOMAS B. FUTCHER DIES

Stricken on Routine Round of Duty at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 25. — Dr. Thomas B. Futcher, 67 years old, recognized as one of the foremost diagnosticians of the country, died unexpectedly while on a routine round of duty at the Johns Hopkins Hospital today where he had worked since 1894.

A native of St. Thomas, Ontario, and a graduate of the University of Toronto, he became a resident surgeon here in 1894 and joined the faculty of Johns Hopkins University two years later. During the World War, he served as a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Canadian Army medical corps. He was elected president of the Association of American Physicians in 1931.

SEMINOLE CHIEF EXECUTES TRIBE'S TROUBLE-MAKER

Indian Council Delegates to Gouty Old Osceola Duty of Getting Rid of John Billy.

SON DRIVES HIM TO OFFENDER'S CAMP

Summons Condemned Brawler From Cabin and Patriarch Kills Him With Shotgun Blast.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25.—A Seminole Indian tribe apparently invoked their own law in the Everglades yesterday and executed a troublesome member, John Billy, who had been disciplined for many malefactions before, including the fatal stabbing of a fellow Indian in a drunken brawl several years ago.

His executioner, authorities said, was John Osceola, one of the six chiefs of the Seminole nation. The operators of the Indian camp related that the Seminoles had been holding tribal council on recent nights and Stuart K. Smith of the State Attorney's office expressed the theory they had delegated the 78-year-old chief to do the act.

Investigators found Osceola, barefooted and wearing the gaudy shirt and skirt of Seminole striping, sitting cross-legged in the midst of camp puffing a pipe and receiving the acclaim of his people.

The Indians were close-mouthed, but from the stories Jones Jelks, a Negro eyewitness, and others, Smith and Patrolmen Rawleigh Hill and A. W. Fairbrother reconstructed the killing in this manner:

The gouty old chief, who uses crutches, had his son, Billy Osceola, lift him into a truck and drive him from his Musa Isle village to a nearby camp on the bank of the Miami River where John Billy had been living. There, they said, the younger Osceola summoned John Billy from his hut and the chief killed him with one blast of the shotgun. Billy had been shot at such close range his clothes were scorched.

F. J. Scott, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, was summoned from the reservation at Dania, north of here, but he said that the local courts had jurisdiction over the case since the shooting did not occur on reservation territory.

With a grandson, Henry Cypress, for interpreter, the chief was taken to police headquarters and then released by Circuit Judge Worth W. Trammel in custody of Attorney O. B. White pending an inquest.

TWENTY LASHES, SIX MONTHS FOR BEATING HIS WIFE

Man Who Quarreled Over Cards Sent to Rarely-Used Whipping Post in Baltimore.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 25. — Clyde Miller, 37 years old, a printer, who pleaded guilty of beating his wife in a quarrel over a card game, was sentenced today to 20 lashes at the whipping post, unused for years as a criminal punishment here, and to serve six months in the House of Correction.

"I must have lost my head," Miller said, as he faced Judge J. Abner Sayler in the Criminal Court.

"You are a fine specimen of a man to pick on a little woman like that," the Judge said.

"In order that you may know and appreciate what it means, you will get a taste of the same kind of punishment. The sentence of the Court is six months in the House of Correction and also 20 lashes with the whip at the whipping post."

ARMY OFFICERS IN BLUE AGAIN

Wear New Uniforms at Reception; Gen. Craig Copies Grant.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—United States Army officers appeared at a White House reception last night in blue dress uniforms for the first time since the war.

Led by Gen. Malin Craig, in a midnight blue uniform he designed himself, army officers above the rank of Major wore either the new roll collar blue dress uniform, which will be mandatory next October, or the optional blue evening dress uniform cut like a tail suit. "I spent a year studying all uniforms," Gen. Craig explained. "This is the old Gen. Grant uniform, except that it has a shorter skirt. And I left off the aigulettes and lemon sash tonight." He said that the four white stars on the sleeve also were new—inspired by the English crown idea.

GEN. PERSHING RALLIES AFTER PERIOD OF COMA

Heart and Blood Pressure Improved but His Condition Is Said to Be Still Critical.

HOPE GIVEN UP LAST EVENING

Later He Partly Regains Consciousness — Shows Signs of Recognizing Those at the Bedside.

By the Associated Press.

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 25. — Gen. John J. Pershing, whose condition became so serious last night physicians predicted the end was near, continued to rally today and an official bulletin said his heart and blood pressure were improved.

"Gen. Pershing's rally continues," said the 9:15 a. m. bulletin issued by Dr. Roland Davison. "He is now better than he has been since early yesterday afternoon." The bulletin, however, contained the statement that "his condition must still be regarded as critical."

At 1 p. m. Dr. Davison issued a bulletin saying Gen. Pershing had shown "some slight mental perturbation," but expressing satisfaction "with the progress he has made."

Blood pressure and heart action still were quite satisfactory, Dr. Davison said, and there had been a slight rise in body temperature above normal.

"We are still forced to give a very guarded prognosis," the physician continued, "but we are encouraged."

Heart Stimulants Given.

Gen. Pershing, who lapsed into unconsciousness at 9 o'clock last night, rallied under the administration of heart stimulants and "partly regained consciousness."

His temperature was normal and he rested well during the early morning. He rallied enough at one time to show signs of recognizing those at his bedside.

The General, 77 years old, who saw 42 years of active army service before retiring, had failed rapidly during the night. Dr. Davison, one of three physicians in attendance, said, "I doubt if he can last very long." Occasionally a stethoscope was applied to the weakening heart. An unsuccessful attempt was made to get him to drink water. Intravenous feeding was abandoned.

President Roosevelt telegraphed encouragement to Gen. Pershing yesterday. The message was read to the general before he lapsed into unconsciousness. The telegram was not made public.

Doctors Decide to Leave.

The staff of physicians despaired of Gen. Pershing's life early in the evening. Dr. Verne Mason, who was called from Los Angeles to consult with Dr. Davison and Lieutenant-Colonel S. U. Marietta of San Antonio, Tex., made plane reservations to return home. Marietta left this morning.

Dr. William Kerr, heart specialist of the University of California Medical School, San Francisco, who was called but missed a plane connection, was advised not to come, that his arrival would be too late.

Miss May Pershing, his only sister and devoted companion of recent years, spent much of the night sitting by the bed holding the General's hand. One of her old friends, Mrs. W. E. Hardy of Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. William R. Mathews, wife of a Tucson publisher, spent the night at the hospital.

Warren Pershing, an only son, paced the corridors and occasionally stepped into the room for a glimpse of his father.

Sergt. C. C. Shaeffer, the General's orderly for 10 years, said, "I am soon going to lose the best friend in the world. I'll be saying good-by and going back to Washington pretty quick now."

In Bed for 10 Days.

Indisposed since Feb. 5 and confined to his bed for 10 days, the commander of the American expeditionary forces in the World War held his own until Monday, when he suffered a relapse.

First reports were that he suffered only from rheumatism, but physicians admitted after his removal to a hospital that a heart complication was the cause of alarm. Even then they insisted he would recover.

Wednesday the doctors decided he had suffered "acute damage" to heart muscles, but said a prolonged rest in bed would bring recovery.

From that time on, however, each bulletin indicated Gen. Pershing was losing ground, slowly at first, then more rapidly.

Passed Six Winters in Tucson.

Always a lover of the outdoors and the West, Gen. Pershing turned in his last years to the land where

VON OSSIETSKY'S NOBEL PRIZE MONEY STOLEN

German Pacifist Got Only 16,500 of 100,000 Marks—Lawyer Accused.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—Kurt Wannow, a Berlin lawyer, was arraigned today on a charge of embezzling the greater part of the 1935 Nobel Peace Prize awarded to Carl von Ossietsky, German pacifist.

Ossietsky gave Wannow power of attorney in January, 1937, to collect the prize of 100,000 marks at Oslo, Norway. After considerable technical difficulties, the transfer was made through the Reichsbank to Wannow.

It is alleged that the attorney charged 20,000 marks commission for his services and spent much of the remainder for various purposes, leaving only 16,500 marks.

The president of the court where Wannow was arraigned declared this prosecution disposed of "atrocity stories" published abroad at the time—that the Nazi Government was trying to confiscate the award.

Ossietsky, a pacifist editor, was confined to a concentration camp as soon as Adolf Hitler attained power in 1933. He was released in 1936 when it became known he was to receive the Nobel Prize.

At that time he was suffering from what his friends said was incurable tuberculosis and was too ill, Nazi sources said, to go to Oslo personally to accept the prize. At last reports, he had been taken to a private sanitarium.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SUGGESTS PRETTY GIRLS AS LOBBYISTS

President's Wife Offers Plan to Get Higher Relief Appropriations for District.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt believes "young and pretty girls" would be ideal lobbyists for the campaign to get higher relief appropriations for the District of Columbia.

She told the district's "voteless League of Women Voters" yesterday that the girls could invite Congressmen on personally conducted tours of jails, relief headquarters and hospitals to see conditions for themselves.

Mrs. Roosevelt predicted the youthful reactions of the girls would be enthusiastic enough to convey a similar feeling to the lawmakers who have power to remedy conditions.

U. S. ARRANGES TO BUY HELIUM PROPERTIES

It Will Pay $537,000 for Girdler Corporation Holdings in Kansas.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Purchase by the Goverment of the helium properties of the Girdler Corporation of Louisville, Ky., for $537,000 has been approved by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, it is learned today. Helium would then be available in the United States at cost for medical and scientific purposes, Interior Department officials said today.

Although the Federal Government had a monopoly on the production of helium except for the Girdler properties near Dexter, Kan., the sale of the gas to individuals was prohibited by the helium act of Sept. 1, 1937, until arrangements could be made for the purchase of the Girdler interests. At the time of the passage of the act, Girdler officials demanded $600,000 for their properties.

The act also provided, however, for the appointment of three appraisers of the Girdler properties, one to be selected by the Secretary of the Interior, one by the Girdler Corporation and the third by these two. Investigations and negotiations have been conducted for several months.

Interior Department officials said today that, although the funds for paying the Girdler officials were not yet available, the sale of Government helium from other sources could be started at once.

The Government is able to supply helium for medicinal and scientific purposes at its Amarillo plant at approximately $8 a 1000 cubic feet. The Girdler Corporation has been charging at the rate of $176 a 1000 cubic feet. Government officials predict that when the Amarillo plant is run at capacity, the cost can be brought down to $4 a 1000 cubic feet.

GENERAL MOTORS CUTS PAY OF ALL SALARIED EMPLOYES

Ten Per Cent for All Getting Up to $10,000, More for Those in Higher Brackets.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of General Motors Corporation, today announced reductions of 10 per cent in the pay of salaried employes receiving up to $10,000 annually and larger reductions on salaries of executives receiving higher pay. Adjustment of compensation of salaried employes, Sloan said, was made necessary by the present contraction in sales, and follows substantial reductions in earnings of the corporation's hourly workers.

"Executives receiving salaries of more than $10,000 annually will receive a reduction of 20 per cent additional on any excess over $10,000 and up to $50,000. Executives receiving over $50,000 annually will receive an additional reduction of 30 per cent on the excess over $50,000 annually."

BITTER FIGHT IN JAPANESE DIET ON WAR CONTROL BILL

Cabinet and Parliament Deadlocked — Measure Imposing Regulation on Private Lives Assailed as Unconstitutional.

SITUATION GRAVE, MINISTER SAYS

Opponents Charge Government With Attempting to Follow Italy and Germany in Dictatorial Mobilization Plan.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Feb. 25.—The Japanese Cabinet and Parliament were in a bitter deadlock today over a dictatorial war control bill.

A situation amounting to a Cabinet crisis crystallized between the Diet and the Cabinet over the measure, which lower house members said, was copied after Fascist laws of Germany and Italy.

The Government was determined to obtain approval for the general mobilization bill, which would impose wartime regulation of Japanese business, finance, property and private lives.

Because of the crisis, Japan approached the anniversary of the army uprising of Feb. 26, 1936, with grave apprehension.

Adding to the concern was the Chinese bombardment Wednesday of the Japanese island of Formosa, and fears that one of the main islands of this thickly-settled empire might be subjected to air raids.

After heated debate, the mobilization measure was sent for consideration late this afternoon to a 45-member committee.

Representatives continued savage attacks against what they termed the "Nazi style" bill in their arguments today. One, Hideo Ikeda, declared:

"What now lies before us is an extremely mysterious bill—like dog's meat imposed upon us as mutton."

Minister Calls Situation Grave.

"The situation is very grave," said the War Minister, Gen. Gen Sugiyama, speaking on the general mobilization bill. "The fate of the nation hangs on this occasion."

Before Parliament met today after the turbulent session which ended in recess yesterday, Admiral Nobumasa Suyetsugu, Minister of Home Affairs, summoned high war officers to his official residence.

He is reported to have declared: "If the two parties (Minseito and Seiyukai, major political parties) fail to understand the seriousness of this bill, the Government must be prepared to face them with extreme determination in order to obtain its passage."

During the night, both the Government and Parliament leaders held extended conferences. Minseito and Seiyukai chieftains mapped their strategy in night-long sessions at party headquarters.

One of the most outspoken opponents of the general mobilization bill was Ryozo Makino, a member of the Seiyukai. He bluntly accused the Government of copying Fascist technique when he assailed the bill in Parliament late yesterday.

Declares Plan Is Ultra-Legal.

"General mobilization," he said, "is an ultra-legal fact, forcing the people unconditionally to offer their lives and their persons to the state. The Government has taken its example from the general mobilization laws of Italy and Germany. Those countries have transgressed their Constitutions."

"Japan's imperial Constitution," the representative said, "has kept consideration for this point. During wartime, the policy of Japan belongs to the prerogatives of the Emperor. Article 31 of the Constitution guarantees this."

The article he mentioned corresponds to the Anglo-Saxon Bill of Rights. The general mobilization bill would, among other things, prohibit the right of assembly and freedom of speech in time of war or national emergency.

To wild cheering, Makino and Takao Saito, Minseito leader, declared the bill would emasculate completely Japan's Constitution and rob the people of their basic rights.

Disorders and heckling greeted both Suyetsugu and Sugiyama when they replied to questions on the measure.

Defends Bill As Necessary.

Sugiyama defended it as a necessity in the present war with China and said existing laws controlling

CHINESE PLANES FIGHT JAPANESE ABOVE AIR BASE

INVADERS SAY THEY DOWNED 30 CRAFT

Defenders Also Claim Victory, Asserting They Destroyed 8 of Raiding Machines.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25.—A spectacular air battle was fought today over Nanchang, Chinese air base in Kiangsi province, in which both Japanese and Chinese claimed victory.

The Japanese naval command here reported "more than thirty" Chinese warplanes "of Russian and American manufacture" were shot down by a Japanese fleet of 50 planes, striking at the "nerve center of the Chinese air force."

The Chinese in reports from Hankow asserted they shot down eight of 59 Japanese planes making the raid. They mentioned no losses of Chinese aircraft.

The raid was considered retaliation by Japan for Wednesday's Chinese air raid on Japanese Formosa, in which the capital, Taihoku, and two other cities were bombed. Nanchang, 450 miles from Taihoku, has been mentioned as a possible base for that raid.

Japanese Report of Fight.

The Japanese communique said that when the raiding force approached Nanchang "approximately 40 Chinese combat planes of Russian and American manufacture arose and gave combat."

"While Japanese combat planes engaged the Chinese with devastating effects, our bombers raided the airdrome," said the communique. It asserted that a direct hit "completely destroyed" the headquarters of the Chinese National Aviation Commission.

Numerous hangars, barracks and repair shops also were reported to have been demolished. The attack was termed "one of the most successful air raids since the outbreak of hostilities." The Japanese said they lost two planes.

The Japanese also reported that eight Chinese planes were shot down in a raid on an airdrome at Nanyang, in Kwangtung Province.

Chinese reports to Hongkong, however, asserted six Japanese planes had been shot down in air combat over northern Kwangtung.

Seeking probable bases used in the Formosa raid, the Japanese air fleets also have raided Foochow, Amoy and Canton, on China's southeastern coast, during the last two days.

A Japanese navy spokesman admitted four Japanese planes failed to return from an air raid on Canton.

25 New Chinese Army Divisions Being Organized.

Twenty-five new Chinese divisions, Chinese said today, are being organized and equipped for a counter offensive against Japanese armies trying to swallow the vast Central China Lunghai area.

While these fresh legions are being whipped into shape from the man power reservoir of this nation of 400,000,000, Chinese are holding back the Japanese mechanized army's attempt to establish a base for crossing the Yellow River north of the Lunghai railway.

Chinese List Heavy Damage in Air Raid in Formosa.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, Feb. 25.—Chinese aviation officials announced today that the Chinese air raid on the Japanese island of Formosa Wednesday was more destructive than originally reported.

The Air Corps director expressed particular satisfaction that "every participant was Chinese." (Tokio reports yesterday had expressed official Japanese conviction that foreign pilots took part in the raids.)

Damage listed by Chinese included destruction of a considerable number of planes at the Taihoku military airport, serious damage to the Shinchiku civil airdrome, which forced temporary suspension of the new Japanese South Seas air route, and partial destruction of Formosa's biggest power house.

NAZIS HOPE TO BREAK FRENCH-SOVIET ACCORD

German Press Says Paris Must Choose Between London and Moscow.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—The German press, pointing editorials at the British trend to co-operation with Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy in efforts to reach a European peace understanding, hints at Germany's hope to smash the French-Russian alliance.

"France must at last choose between London and Moscow," the controlled press declares.

"France must make a fundamental decision," one commentator puts it. "Will she go hand in hand with British foreign policy or not?"

Czechoslovakia is much more likely to give in to German demands once France has been weaned away from its alliance with Russia and once negotiations for a four-Power pact are well under way, Nazi strategists believe.

The shift in British foreign policy is expected to bring France along into the alliance with Italy and Germany, which Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy are understood to have outlined when they met in Berlin last fall. Otherwise, Nazis say, France will be forced into isolation in Western Europe with Russia its only hope in the East.

In this connection, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain, who broke with former Foreign Minister Anthony Eden in the British Cabinet crisis, is the great hope of the Nazis from Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop down to the lowliest village party member.

Seen through German eyes, Chamberlain is a "fearless man with aims of his own," in contrast to Eden who was "the prisoner of the League of Nations and collective security ideology."

Foreign Office circles give every indication of believing Chamberlain will keep France hitched firmly to the British diplomatic cart. Acting on that assumption, Germany now is trying to make clear to France that the logical consequence of siding with Britain is to give up the Soviet alliance.

With possible severance of the French-Russian alliance in the offing, Hitler can well afford to drop Czechoslovakia for tactical reasons.

Union of all Germans still is the dream, however, of Nazism—and Czechoslovakia has 3,500,000 German-speaking people.

Hitler is a man of sudden decisions and although France today apparently ranks before Czechoslovakia in Hitler's mind, the reverse may be true tomorrow.

Press Comment in Vienna on Schuschnigg's Speech.

VIENNA, Feb. 25.—The Vienna Tageblatt observes that "the Chancellor (Kurt Schuschnigg) defined clear boundaries in political activity. To those who seek to cross those boundaries he has called thunderously, so far and no farther."

The Catholic Reichpost, pointing to Schuschnigg's assertions yesterday that Austria's independence was guaranteed by the accord of 1936 with Italy and Germany as well as the recent Berchtegaden talks, says:

"True freedom is achieved only on the basis of mutual trust. So it is tremendously effective for Schuschnigg to assert so the world could hear, that he has faith in the word and signature of the German Chancellor."

Bellingham Paper Suspends.

By the Associated Press.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Feb. 25.—Publication of the Bellingham Evening News ended with yesterday's issue. Publication was interrupted last June 2 by a strike of the local unit of the American Newspaper Guild. It was resumed Dec. 2 following a settlement. The publisher said increased costs forced the closing.

HALIFAX NAMED TO EDEN'S PLACE DESPITE PROTEST

Eden out of office of Foreign Secretary.

"Eden should have resigned two years ago," he said.

He attacked the suggestion that Rome was dictating Chamberlain's action and said, "The last Roman legion left this country in 411 A. D., and we haven't taken our orders from Rome since and have no intention of doing so now."

But he accused Italy of "murdering British seamen" in the Mediterranean with airplanes and pilots supplied to Spanish insurgents.

Neglect of France Charged.

Lord Addison, Labor, declared that France had been neglected in an "innovation of a risky kind." Alluding to reports that financial credits might be advanced to Italy, he contended Italy's credit was shaky. He charged the Government with trying to placate enemies by abandoning friends.

The Marquis of Londonderry, a friend of Germany, favored a pact among France, Britain, Italy and Germany for "making peace."

In the House of Commons, Opposition Liberal Geoffrey Mander taunted the Prime Minister, asking:

"Do I understand the Passo Romano (Italy's version of the goosestep) will not be compulsory in this country?"

Winston Churchill, wartime Cabinet Minister, speaking to the Constitution Club as an "old servant of the crown," repeated his fear of the consequences of Chamberlain's "awful responsibility." But he made plain that he would not join the Laborite's cry for the Prime Minister's resignation.

"It makes my blood run cold," he said, "to think what might happen if the Labor party should unfortunately regain power."

Chamberlain again refused in Parliament to disclose the subjects of the conversations with Italy to be held shortly in Rome and went ahead with his plans.

He saw King George shortly before the Earl of Perth.

Negotiations With Germany.

Germany's reported acceptance of the British plan for withdrawal of foreign fighters in the Spanish civil war has paved the way for German entrance into the Chamberlain peace talks. The Anglo-German negotiations are expected to develop with Joachim von Ribbentrop's return from Berlin to take formal leave of King George. Von Ribbentrop, former Ambassador to London, became German Foreign Minister in the recent Nazi shakeup.

Because the Italian talks, dealing in part with Mediterranean and Suez Canal status quo, may affect Egypt, the Egyptian Government has asked to be allowed to participate.

Calls were issued today for mass demonstrations of loyalty to Eden. His followers said more than 3000 meetings in England, Scotland and Wales had been arranged in his behalf, largely through local branches of the League of Nations union.

MADRID SHELLED; MAIN REBEL DRIVE HALTS IN ARAGON

Central City Attacked by Artillery After Two Weeks of Calm—Loyalist Guns Reply.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France, Feb. 25.—The Spanish insurgent command halted its main Aragon army for rest today, after movements around Teruel to protect that conquered city.

Insurgent advices, however, say troops are in position for a renewed drive later toward the Mediterranean.

Government military dispatches say loyalist artillery shelled enemy infantry leaving Teruel for the north, and that insurgent planes machine-gunned 1500 men at Concud and attacked trucks taking troops and munitions along the road between Teruel and Zaragoza.

Madrid was shelled twice last night after two weeks of calm. Government batteries replied and terminated the conflict after 30 minutes.

Before the main Aragon drive was halted, insurgent shock troops reached the "gate to Valencia," the mountain pass of Escandon.

Insurgent tacticians ordered the troops to advance into the rugged hills on both sides of the highway to Sagunto, southeast of Teruel. The hills are defended by strong Government barricades.

Gen. Jose Varela, commanding the offensive, sought thus to avoid what he called a "death trap" between the precipitous La Clavela mountains to the southwest and the barren hills above the Valbona River valley to the northeast.

Two sectors had been created in that front, each about six miles long.

On the left flank, one extended from the Sagunto highway, the Government's last broad communication line to Valencia, back to Formich and the Escriche River valley. On the right flank, the other spread toward the southwest and west into the hills above the Guadalaviar River valley.

No advance along the highway itself, insurgent military advices say, will be attempted beyond Escandon until Navarrese cavalry units report the hills on both sides have been swept clear.

Insurgents say one column of the offensive aimed between Barcelona and Valencia, the Government's main strongholds, has broken through Castralvo, on the Sagunto highway about 15 miles southeast of Teruel.

WAR CONTROL BILL IN JAPAN AROUSES BITTER OPPOSITION

business, foreign trade and finance were not strong enough. At one point he said: "The Government does not intend to restrict the people's freedom or oppress private interests."

Makino objected that further discussion was useless because "the Government's attitude is one of rashness and indiscretion."

Even newspapers which have been regarded as most friendly to the Government criticised Cabinet members' replies to questions on the bill as "lukewarm and obscure."

One newspaper said: "None of the Cabinet members was capable of giving a satisfactory reply. Even the Justice Minister, who knows the law well enough, showed ignorance of this bill."

The bill would empower the Government even to expropriate personal property and completely to suppress newspapers. The bill also contains strict, specific restrictions on foreign trade and internal and external banking.

FRENCH DEPUTIES IN STORMY DEBATE ON ITALIAN POLICY

Vote Due Tomorrow Night on Chautemps' Plan to Follow Britain on Reconciliation.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 25.—Premier Camille Chautemps asked the Chamber of Deputies today for a strong vote of confidence on his plan to seek reconciliation with Italy.

Hostility between Right and Left evoked bitter epithets and almost led to blows. Friends held the Communist, Renaud Jean, and the Rightist, Andre Daurer, in their seats after Jean had called Daurer "spy and traitor" and the Rightist had retorted with "servant of Moscow."

Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos and Francois de Tessan, Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, followed the debate closely, striving to keep the majority lined up behind the Chautemps government.

Chamber debate on foreign affairs beginning at 9:30 a. m. was ordered by the Premier to continue for two days, to give time to the 29 deputies who had asked for permission to speak.

British Envoy Hears Debate.

Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador to France, paid a call on Chautemps and Delbos in the Chamber of Deputies today.

Sir Eric entered the chamber at the height of debate on French Foreign policy which may determine if France is to follow Britain's lead in "realistic" European appeasement.

Immediately he went into whispered conference with Chautemps and Delbos. Deputies said it was the first time in years that an Ambassador had talked with a French Premier in the Chamber.

Last night's speech by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria drew the praise of Ernest Pezet, Popular Democrat, the first of the Deputies to speak.

Urges "Anschluss for Peace."

Pezet commended Schuschnigg's "courage and dignity in protecting his country's independence," and interpreted the German influence in Austria as directed toward "anschluss, or union, for war" which France, with its Central European allies, must counter with "anschluss for peace."

"We must not appear to tremble before the German menace," he told the handful of Deputies who had gathered for the start of the speechmaking. To this there were replies: "We are not trembling at all!"

Pezet continued:

"We are ready to assure peace with all sacrifices. But there is one which we cannot make: That is our national honor and territorial security."

Eighteen of the Deputies listed for debate today represented all of the party groups.

Francois de Champeaux, Radical Independent, warned France not to "overestimate the potential effectiveness of Russian military assistance" such as the Soviet Union has promised in its mutual aid pact with France.

The Deputy said he considered "impossible" any hope that a Russian "steamroller" could be relied upon to furnish aid in event of war.

Mandate Is Expected.

A chamber vote on confidence in Chautemps' Radical Socialist Government was expected Saturday night.

Government supporters said they felt sure the Cabinet would win a mandate to follow Britain's policy in negotiations for a settlement with Italy. The request for such a mandate came after political party leaders refused to form a national union government, thus strengthening Chautemps' hand.

Suggestions that France might follow British Premier Neville Chamberlain's policy in dealing with Italy have come from Delbos. They have been coupled with intimations by deputies that if Italian negotiations work out well, conversations with Germany might be started.

The Premier's increased prestige was demonstrated when the second section of his labor code, concerning collective industrial contracts, was adopted by a 442-108 vote as compared with the 383-218 vote for the first section less than a week ago.

Eden Dubious of Premier's Policy But Will Do Nothing to Thwart It

Despite Chamberlain's Denial, Believes Italy Made "Now or Never" Demands, He Says in Speech.

By the Associated Press.

LEAMINGTON, England, Feb. 25.—Anthony Eden tonight declared his unshaken conviction in a policy of firmness toward Europe's dictators and said that "It is with the great democracies of Europe and America that our natural affinities lie."

Addressing his Warwickshire constituents, the former Foreign Secretary asserted his firm belief that Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy—which caused Eden's resignation Sunday—would "fail to contribute to European appeasement."

But Eden dashed the hopes of the Labor and Liberal opposition that he might form the nucleus for an attack on the National Government by declaring:

"The Government has embarked on its course.

'They have decided to employ a certain approach to Anglo-Italian friendship. The decision has been made. Parliament has indorsed it.

Wishes Government Success.

"Very well. The Government must then go ahead on the course which they have chosen and neither by word nor deed do I desire now to say anything to make their task more difficult. On the contrary, I most sincerely wish them success in their endeavors."

Eden said he would stand by history's verdict as to whether he or Chamberlain was right. But he appealed at the same time for national and Conservative party unity.

"We must stand by our conception of international order, without which there can never be lasting peace. Nor must we for a minute weaken in our faith in parliamentary government and individual liberty. These are the things that count."

Favors Standing Firm.

"In the sphere of international affairs it is the Government's duty to be vigilant and firm," he declared. "It is well to lay old animosities, but not of course at the expense of old friendships."

Defending his position against "precipitate" action in starting Anglo-Italian friendship talks, Eden said he believed that "it is perfectly possible to stand firm and obtain the same results, if they are to be obtained, without the risks attendant on the present course."

Asserting that he was "unshakenly convinced" that his resignation was "in the national interest," Eden declared: "If I had not resigned it would have been my duty to stand up in the House of Commons and say: 'I believe this to be the best method for dealing with the problem of Anglo-Italian relations. There are risks in it, but I believe it will succeed and that in the end it will contribute to European appeasement.'

Questions Premier's Denial.

"Unhappily I cannot believe this—indeed, I believe exactly the opposite—so how could I recommend such a course to the House of Commons?"

To have remained in the Cabinet ond to have conducted negotiations "the outcome of which may have the gravest consequences for our position in the world," Eden said, would have made him a "hypocrite and my conduct unfair to Parliament and to the nation."

He said he still believed, in spite of the Prime Minister's denial in the House of Commons, that "certatin communications received from a foreign Government (Italy) were 'now or never.' . . ."

Chamberlain had denied that Italy's communications had been threatening, as Eden insisted.

HULL NOTIFIES JAPAN OF AMERICANS' RIGHTS

U. S. to Hold Mikado's Men Responsible for Any Violations in China.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Secretary of State Hull said today this Government had presented a straightforward note to Japan declaring that Japan will be held responsible for any damage to Americans and their property in China.

In the note, the United States refused to accept Japan's warning to Americans to leave Central China and to mark their property.

Hull told Japan that there rests on American officials and other American nationals in China no obligation whatsoever to take precautionary measures requested on behalf of the contending forces toward safeguarding American lives and interests.

Hull added that this Government had voluntarily advised its nationals to leave certain Chinese areas and that these warnings had been observed. He said that would continue to be a voluntary practice.

Nevertheless, he said in his note, the obligation remains on the military authorities to exert the utmost precaution so that American nationals and property shall not be injured by their military operations.

If and where American nationals and property are injured in consequence of the operations of armed forces, Hull declared, this Government will be compelled to attribute to the government controlling those armed forces responsibility for the damages.

In brief, the policy as laid down by Hull today, was that the United States urges its citizens to leave danger areas, but upholds their right to remain if they desire. It denies the right of Japan to urge them to leave, or to injure them, or their properties if they refuse to follow such urging, either by the United States or by Japan.

He said conditions with regard to Americans in China are improving.

Japanese military commanders, principally in the big cities, are improving law and order in those localities, he said.

MISSOURI BOARD HEARING CHARGES AGAINST DENTISTS

Six in St. Louis Accused of Unprofessional Practice in Regard to Advertising.

DR. A. J. RUST SR. FIRST DEFENDANT

Witness Identifies Street Car Sign of Dental Laboratory—Technical Defense Indicated.

Hearing by the Missouri Dental Board of charges of unprofessional practice by six St. Louis dentists was begun today at Hotel Statler. The six are charge in the first hearing of the kind, with violating the new dental practice law, effective last March 15, which was aimed chiefly at restricting the advertising claims and methods of dentists in the State.

The first complaint to be heard was that against Dr. A. J. Rust Sr., who operates dental offices at 620 Washington avenue and 6203 Easton avenue and a third in Kansas City.

The others cited, whose cases will be heard serially after that of Dr. Rust, are his son, Dr. A. J. Rust Jr.; Dr. T. E. Collins, employed at Rust's Washington avenue office; Dr. Harry E. Dowell and Dr. William Osberghaus, whose office is at 4 North Seventh street, and Dr. L. Kirby, 7185 Manchester avenue, Maplewood.

Charges Against Them.

Charged against them are various violations of the provisions of the law which forbid misleading advertisements, published claims of professional superiority, listing of prices, offer of free services, guarantees of painless operations, the use of "glaring" electric signs, or representations of teeth or bridge work as part of advertisements.

The first witness for the board was Bruce Dougan, manager of the Western Advertising Co. office here, who identified a photograph as that of a sign on the front end of a Delmar street car advertising Dr. Rust as a dentist. He testified $300 a month "or more" was spent on such advertising, and that signs were carried on about 200 street cars.

His contact in procuring the advertising business, however, was with Dr. Rust Dentist Laboratories, a corporation, he asserted. While he was not able to state with what individual he dealt in the advertising transaction, he conceded that from time to time he did talk to the elder Dr. Rust about copy for the signs.

In cross-examination, counsel for Dr. Rust stressed testimony by the witness that the dealings of his company involved a corporate account, and not an account with any individual, apparently paving the way for a technical defense to that effect.

Dr. Collins Takes Stand.

Dr. Collins, who first was advised by defense counsel not to take the witness stand but to stand on his constitutional right against self-incrimination, finally was sworn as a witness. He testified he had worked a year and half for Dr. Rust, receiving a salary of "more than $40 a week and less than $50." He emphasized that he was employed by Dr. Rust, not by the corporation.

Describing the offices on Washington avenue, he said there were five dental treatment rooms, in each of which he worked at one time or another, but that the laboratory, where plate work, inlays, X-ray work and similar operations weer performed, was in a separate office. The elder Dr. Rust, he testified, was there only occasionally, but spent much time in the Wellston office on Easton avenue and often went to Kansas City in connection with the work of the office there. The younger Dr. Rust, he added, was seldom in the office.

He declared he never saw the elder Dr. Rust do any dental work beyond taking impressions for plates, and said that he himself did virtually all the other work. Insisting that he did not recall any patient who said he had come to the office because of advertising, he declared that all his patients were referred by others upon whose teeth he had worked.

When an advertising card bearing the name of Dr. Rust and showing the representation of a set of false teeth, was shown to him, he said he could recall that some persons who visited the office said they had seen such advertising. But, he added, in every such instance he had referred them to the laboratory corporation.

The witness identified a photograph of the street front of the office showing a neon sign — Dr. Rust, Dentist—and a sign on the glass door bearing a list of names of dentists, headed by that of the elder Dr. Rust and including his own name. The others named in the door sign were no longer in the office, he said.

Early in the afternoon session, Dr. Rust Sr. was called to the witness stand, but declined to take the oath, on the advice of his lawyer, Joseph E. Burris of Kansas City, that he could not be forced to testify against himself. George C. Willson of St. Louis, counsel for

But Burris stood firm, and after a long and bitter discussion between counsel, Burris walked out of the room, saying he was "going downstairs to buy some chewing gum." A recess was declared, and at its conclusion, Willson announced the board would proceed with other witnesses.

Dr. W. B. Owen Presides.

Dr. W. B. Owen of Maryville, president of the board, is presiding at the hearing, at which all the other members of the board are present. They are Dr. Winfrey W. English of Joplin, vice-president; Dr. Reuben R. Rhoades of Jefferson City, secretary; Dr. J. E. Huff, Kansas City, and Dr. Elbert B. Owen, St. Louis.

After the charges had been filed against the dentists, injunction suits were filed in their behalf to restrain the board from conducting the hearings. They were dismissed finally and on Feb. 12 it was agreed by board and respondents that the cases would be taken to hearing. Under the law the board has the power of suspending or revoking licenses for violation of the law.

WALTER M. CRUNDEN WEDS HIS SECRETARY

Bride Is Former Miss Violet Ruth Moore, 25; Honeymoon in Florida.

Walter M. Crunden, chairman of the board of the Central States Life Insurance Co., and president of the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co., and his secretary, Miss Violet Ruth Moore, were married yesterday, six months after his first wife obtained a divorce.

His bride, 25 years old, became his secretary about two years ago, after three years of employment by the Crunden-Martin company. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Moore, 6626 Vermont avenue. Crunden is in his early 50s.

In 1913, five years after his graduation from Yale University, he married Miss Alice Tweedy of Milwaukee in London, England. They have a daughter, Miss Edwina Crunden, 23 years old. They were separated in March, 1936, and about six weeks after their divorce last August she was married in New York to Dr. Gerard Hutchinson Cox of Glen Cove, L. I., a physician.

The ceremony yesterday was performed in Zion Methodist Church, Virginia and Koeln avenues, by the pastor, the Rev. Andrew E. Swedberg. Mr. and Mrs. Crunden went to Florida for their honeymoon. The bride has been active in the affairs of the church. Among those at the ceremony were her brother, Troy Moore, and Crunden's sister, Mrs. Festus J. Wade.

WOMAN, 75, INJURED WHEN AUTO UPSETS AFTER COLLISION

Mrs. Agnes Dunn Taken to St. John's Hospital; Second Car Hits Pedestrian.

Mrs. Agnes Dunn, 75 years old, 5225 Maple avenue, suffered head, back and leg injuries when the automobile in which she was riding overturned after colliding with another machine at Locust street and Leonard avenue at noon today. She was taken to St. John's Hospital.

Mrs. Dunn was a passenger in a car driven by her daughter, Miss Dorothy Dunn, which collided with a car operated by William Bascom, 4465 Forest Park boulevard. The Bascom car continued on a short distance after the accident and struck George Cole, Negro, 3502 Bell avenue, who suffered minor injuries. Neither Miss Dunn nor Bascom were hurt.

Japan Releases Foreigners' Goods.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25.—The Japanese announced today they would permit removal of foreign cargo from merchants' wharves outside of the International Settlement. It was estimated about $300,000 worth of American goods still remains in Japanese-occupied territory.

JEWELRY WINDOW ROBBERIES SOLVED

Six Arrested, $1500 in Goods Recovered— Actual Glass-Smasher Still Sought.

The series of nine jewelry store window smashings since Dec. 7, in which a total of $4788 in jewelry was stolen, has been cleared up with the arrest of six persons, four of whom admit participation, and recovery of about $1500 in stolen goods, police announced today. Another man, said to have been the actual window-smasher, is being sought.

Police got their first lead, Detective Sergeant James Sanders told reporters, when three detectives, Joseph O'Brien, Robert Heckel and Thomas Shannon, learned that some of the stolen jewelry with in an apartment in the 4000 block of Delmar boulevard.

Raiding the apartment they found $800 in stolen jewelry and arrested two men and a woman, who, after extended questioning admitted they bought the jewelry from the window smasher and told where they had sold some of it. They named also a 16-year-old youth, who, after his arrest, admitted he drove an automobile for the window-smasher. Two other men were arrested later on statements by the first three that they had received some of the goods.

The two men and woman arrested in the Delmar boulevard apartment, who gave their names as Clifton Withers, Leo Donat and Miss Kay Morgan, were released last night on $1000 bond each, pending application for warrants charging receiving, possession and disposition of stolen property.

The youth held in the House of Detention for juvenile authorities, said he came here from a small Missouri town and met the window-smasher in a rooming house on Westminster place, where both stayed. He said he agreed to help the older man, as he was hungry and had no job.

Their custom, he said, was to drive by a jewelry store in early morning hours and wait until no one was around. Then the older man would throw a brick through the window or break the glass with a revolver butt. The boy said he received a total of about $100 from the other for his help, obtaining from $5 to $25 for each robbery.

Police have recovered about $700 in stolen articles from persons throughout the city, who were named, police said, by Withers, Donat and Miss Morgan as having innocently bought the goods.

The stores robbed and the value of jewelry stolen, were: Woltman's Jewelry & Optical Co., 5003 Union boulevard, $187.50 stolen; Aehle Jewelry Store, 4914 Maryland avenue, $321; Richard Woltman Jewelry Store, 2029 East Grand avenue, $85; Hess & Culbertson Jewelry Co., 826 Olive street, $735; Herman Brien Jewelry Store, 3110 Morganford road, $200; Union-May-Stern Co., Twelfth boulevard and Olive street, $575; Mermod, Jaccard & King Jewelry Co., Ninth and Locust streets, $1500; Edwin J. Gallant Jewelry Co., 810 Washington avenue, $831; and Wehmueller-Hamilton Jewelers, 715 Locust street, $360.

GEN. PERSHING RALLIES AFTER FALLING IN COMA

he began his army career. He had passed his last six winters in Tucson and from his hotel window could look out over the mountains where he chased warring Apache Indians on his first assignment.

He made his last formal review of troops in January, 1937, at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., standing with Col. W. F. Robinson, commanding officer, to take the salute of the Twenty-fifth Infantry.

On his arrival this winter he was hoarse and suffering from a cold. His usual morning horseback rides were eliminated, and his automobile trips were fewer and shorter and finally were discontinued.

He did not visit Fort Huachuca, and when time came for the annual winter rodeo, to which he had invited two of his old cronies, Gen. Charles G. Dawes and Gen. James G. Harbord, he was confined to bed. Dawes and Harbord departed last week-end, confident Pershing would be out of bed soon.

LORD PLUNKET AND WIFE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Pilot Also Loses Life When Craft Hits Ground in Fog at Hearst Ranch in California and Burns.

ANOTHER PASSENGER SERIOUSLY INJURED

James Lawrence, Son of Sir Walter of London, Cut When Thrown Out of Cabin by Impact.

By the Associated Press.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal., Feb. 25.—An airplane bearing visitors to the William Randolph Hearst ranch crashed in flames in the fog near the estate's airport yesterday, killing Lord Terence Conyngham Plunket, Lady Plunket, and the pilot, T. J. Phillips.

James Lawrence. son of Sir Walter Lawrence of London, was injured seriously. The three victims were trapped in the flaming wreckage, and died before rescuers could reach them. Lawrence, whose face was badly cut and his ankle broken, was thrown clear of the plane, but burning gasoline ignited his clothing. An ambulance took him to San Luis Obispo.

Coroner C. W. Palmer said the tragedy occurred when Phillips was trying to land on the fog-blanketed airport.

Plane Circled and Crashed.

"The plane arrived over the airport about 4 p. m.," Palmer said. "The pilot circled around once and crashed in the fog when he tried to come down."

The plane, a Vultee, owned by Hearst's San Francisco and Los Angeles newspapers, hit about a mile and a half south of the airport. Investigators expressed doubt that the lives of the three could have been saved had the plane struck on the airport proper, so quickly did the flames consume it. One wing struck the ground, throwing the plane into a ground loop.

Lord and Lady Plunket, who arrived in Hollywood two weeks ago, left there with Lawrence and the pilot about 2 p. m. for San Simoen, the publisher's large estate some 250 miles north of Los Angeles.

Coroner Palmer said no date had been set for an inquest.

Lord Plunket an Irish M. P.

Lord Plunket was an Irish member of Parliament and his wife a lady-in-waiting for Queen Elizabeth of England.

Lord and Lady Plunket, close friends of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and Lawrence arrived in New York several weeks ago and flew west, where they were the guests of Douglas Fairbanks Sr. at his Santa Monica home.

Lord Plunket was born on July 12, 1899, served in the British army in the World War and succeeded to his title in 1920. Two years later he and Dorothe Mabel Lewis Barnato, daughter of Fanny Ward, American actress, and the late Joseph Lewis, were married. Her Ladyship was the widow of Capt. Jack Barnato, Royal Air Corps flyer, who was killed in a crash. Plunket's son, Terence William Span Plunket, 14, will succeed to the title.

Pilot Phillips left the Monrovia (Cal.) Police Department two years ago to became a pilot for Hearst. He leaves a widow and a 9-year-old daughter.

A. B. SPRECKELS JR. HURT, PILOT KILLED

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., Feb. 25.—Robert Hancock, 50-year-old California airplane pilot, was killed early today in a take-off crash that injured his employer, Adolph B. Spreckels Jr., San Francisco heir to a sugar fortune. Spreckels, two women and another man were injured. Passengers in the plane besides Spreckels were Lois Clarke de Ruyter Spreckels Clinton, his 26-year-old former wife; Mrs. Alex Young, 30, of San Francisco, and Rex Leslie, 35, San Francisco.

Dr. Louis Lombardi of St. Mary's Hospital in Reno said Mrs. Clinton was the most seriously hurt. She suffered a serious head injury and possible internal injuries. The others suffered cuts and bruises.

About 100 feet in the air the plane fell. It hit the ground with its motors racing and the fuselage buckled in the middle.

The party left San Francisco last night, arriving in Reno soon after midnight. After spending the early morning here, they were taking off at about 5 a. m. for San Francisco when the plane crashed.

Hancock, married only two months ago, had been flying in San Francisco Bay area more than 12 years. He was private pilot for Spreckels.

CONTRIBUTION OF $65,717 TO BOY SCOUT CAMPAIGN

Amount Is 67 Per Cent of Goal; Last Report Meeting to Be Held Monday.

Contributions of $65,717 have been obtained in the 1938 Boy Scout financial campaign, it was announced yesterday at a report meeting at Hotel York. The amount is 67.1 per cent of the $97,775 sought.

Joseph E. Vollmar, general chairman of the drive, announced the last regular report meeting would be held at a luncheon Monday at the hotel. After that, a final city-wide solicitation will be made, ending Thursday evening with a dinner for campaign workers at Missouri Athletic Association, 407 Washington avenue.

Yesterday's meeting was for the Central District, with August E. Gilster, chairman, presiding. It was reported that 11 team captains had secured contributions in excess of the quotas for their groups. Previously three captains had exceeded their quotas. Monday's report meeting will be for the North and South Divisions, which are expected to report substantial contributions.

ROCK ISLAND LIMITED TRAIN DERAILED NEAR TRENTON, MO.

Nine of 10 Cars Jump Track; Six Persons Slightly Injured.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, Mo., Feb. 25. — The Rock Island Railroad's Golden State Limited, fast eastbound passenger train, was derailed last night at Reed Station, 24 miles southwest of here. Six persons were slightly injured and others were shaken and bruised.

The wreck occurred at 11 o'clock, shortly after the train had left Kansas City after arriving from California. Nine of the 10 cars left the track and three cars were thrown on their side.

C. J. Brown, general manager at Kansas City, said a broken rail was supposed to have caused the derailment. The wreckage was cleared in a few hours and the 80 passengers continued to Chicago in another train sent from Kansas City.

The injured: Mrs. Lester Behing of Milwaukee, Wis.; Felix Arredo of Chicago; Agatha Huffine of Allison, Ia.; Mrs. Claudia Williams, Negro, of Chicago; Mrs. Rose Behling of Oconto, Wis.; Robert Lewis, Negro dining car waiter of Chicago.

Record U. S. Wine Consumption.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25.—More than 65,000,000 gallons of wine were consumed last year in the United States, a record, Harry A. Caddow, secretary of the Wine Institute, reported today. The previous record was 60,400,000 gallons in 1936, and the pre-prohibition peak, 56,629,000 in the fiscal year 1914-15.

Special Diet and Carfare Provided for Sick Persons on Relief, Following Complaints

Tom K. Smith Tells What Is Being Done to Meet St. Louis Needs—Does Not Contend Funds Are Adequate.

A detailed exposition of the State Social Security Commission's program for meeting relief needs in St. Louis was given to the Post-Dispatch today by Tom K. Smith, chairman of the commission's St. Louis advisory board.

His statement was not offered as a reply to recent criticisms by the Social Planning Council and other organizations that relief grants are inadequate, but in some respects it disputed the merit of complaints. In others it accepted them as based on fact.

Smith did not contend that the present relief fund is adequate to meet the need, nor would he express an opinion as to how much more was needed, or whether it should be provided by the city or State. At present, the only available relief money comes from the Social Security Commission which, for February, allotted $165,500 to St. Louis.

Special Diets Provided.

The commission, Smith said, has undertaken to meet the food, fuel and clothing needs of those on relief. As an outgrowth of recent conferences he has held with heads of private charitable agencies, to determine what needs were not being met, the commission recently resumed provision for special diets for the sick on relief rolls, and payment of their street car fare to clinics.

Needs which the commission has not undertaken to meet, Smith said, are the payment of rents and the provision of household equipment such as stoves, cooking utensils and furniture.

The lack of special diets for the sick, and of payment for transportation to clinics were two of the specific complains raised in recent criticisms of relief policies. Smith said it had been the intention of the commission to meet these needs, and that they had been met since attention was directed to them.

Deficiencies in Clothing.

Clothing needs have not been fully met, Smith agreed, until very recently. In telling of these deficiencies he emphasized that the commission's administrative facilities in St. Louis had been overtaxed, beginning in December, and continuing through most of this month, by the task of investigating more than 15,000 applications for W P A employment, in addition to the regular volume of relief work.

What needs the commission is meeting, he said, are being met according to the relief standard which has been in effect in recent years.

That standard, relief administrators are generally agreed, is none too high. Its designation as the "minimum possible budget" accurately describes its limitations. It is a standard of living on which it is possible to subsist, but persons required to exist at that level for protracted periods are likely to suffer in health and morale.

Determining the Minimum.

In determining the "minimum possible budget" in any particular case there is a degree of elasticity which allows for the judgment of the relief worker as to what is needed. In clothing the "minimum possible" is that required for decency and warmth; in fuel the amount varies with weather conditions. In food the budget is more or less stable.

The food budget is calculated at $7.34 a week for a typical family of five, including three children. This allows $1.57 for a man, $1.36 for a woman, $1.89 for a 14-year-old boy, $1.47 for a 6-year-old girl, and $1.05 for a 2-year-old infant.

In many instances it is possible for relief recipients to earn a little money to supplement what is received as relief. Or they may receive, besides their relief budgets, allotments of food from the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation. This month the commodities distributed were rice, potatoes, shortening and oranges. The amounts allotted in the average case had an estimated retail value of $2.76. Last month the commodities distributed were potatoes, canned and dry skimmed milk, dried peas, eggs and canned apples and tomatoes.

Takes Up Each Point.

Smith, president of the Boatmen's National Bank, and winner of the St. Louis Award in 1932 for his services as chairman of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, discussed point by point the statistical information offered by the Social Planning Council in refutation of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's recent statement that "food and fuel" relief allowances were on a par with those of a year ago.

No deserving applicant for relief, Smith said, had been denied assistance. Most of the 3044 applications rejected in January, he said, were those of persons seeking, not relief, but W P A employment. Many who applied did not understand the eligibility requirements, one of which is that an applicant must be not only jobless, but also in need of relief.

The January total of 11,176 "relief cases," Smith said, included nearly 3000 persons certified for W P A jobs, who received relief allowances of "$3 or $4" to tide them over temporarily. The "regular" relief case load in January, he added, was 8330. This represented a decrease of 2484, in comparison with January a year ago, despite greater unemployment this year. The decrease, Smith said, was attributable to expansion of W P A employment.

Comparison Misleading.

The comparison of average relief costs per case—$14.14 for January of this year, and $24.09 for January of last year—is misleading, Smith said, because the figure this year includes the small relief allowances to W P A workers, which tended to pull the average down. And, of course, relief allowances this year included nothing for rent.

Smith was unable to say what was the average allowance for the 8330 "regular" relief cases, explaining that research and statistical operations have been curtailed temporarily because of the pressure of other work at the St. Louis office.

Another consequence of this situation is that it delayed the transfer from the relief rolls of those families eligible for allowances under the State's aid-to-dependent-children program, also administered by the Social Security Commission. About 1500 families, now on the relief rolls, are eligible for these allowances.

Mayor's Conference Discusses Needs, Takes No Action.

Mayor Dickmann's relief conference at City Hall today provided two hours of conversation regarding the plight of the needy but adjourned without action. About 25 men and women, representing 13 church, civic and labor groups, attended.

There was much talk of a resolution to call on Gov. Stark for a special session of the Legislature to appropriate additional relief funds, but no one put the motion.

Spokesmen for the Social Planning Council, League of Women Voters, Urban League, Workers' Alliance, Building Trades Council, C I O Industrial Union Council and other organizations, criticised the inadequacy of relief funds. Tom K. Smith, chairman of the State Social Security Commission's St. Louis Advisory Board, answered questions and told what was being done with available funds.

STRIKE VOTE MEETING ISSUE AT FORD HEARING

Three Witnesses Show They Attended, Company Contends Session Was Packed.

Circumstances under which a C I O union local voted a strike at the Ford Motor Co.'s St. Louis assembly plant last Nov. 7 continued to be an issue at a National Labor Relations Board hearing today.

The plant, closed since Feb. 17 because of the business slump, was to have reopened Monday, but the management announced today the shutdown would be extended until the following Monday, March 7.

Although counsel for the company contend that the meeting was "packed" with General Motors employes and that only a handful of Ford workers attended, Trial Examiner Tilford E. Dudley continued to enforce his ruling that the subject was immaterial to any issue in the case. Union witnesses testified early in the hearing that only 16 of the more than 600 men voting were against the strike.

Three of the 12 witnesses questioned by Ford counsel yesterday were shown, through offers of proof, to have attended the meeting. One of the witnesses voted for the strike and the other two against, counsel declared.

Questions on Two Meetings.

Dudley, in replying to numerous objections to the ruling, has declared that a tsrike could be called by as few as two employes. However, he has permitted the company to question witnesses in an attempt to show that two "strike vote" meetings were called in October, but that no vote was taken because 'too many" Ford employes were present. The company has charged that most employes were not informed of hte Nov. 7 meeting.

Other offers of proof were made when Dudley held that testimony regarding acts of violence and threats to Ford workers was immaterial except when covered by the company's pleadings. Such testimony will be received, Dudley said, only when witnesses are able to identify one or more of the 39 men the company says it will never reinstate because of wrongful acts.

Under an exception to the rule, Eugene Grimm, a subforeman, was allowed to testify that he suffered a fractured vertebra Nov. 24, the day the strike was called, when he tripped over a piano wire stretched across the coach steps at his home.

Other Damages Described.

Company counsel also offered to prove that a harmful chemical was placed in the gasoline tank of a non-striking employe's automobile, and that the windows in another employe's car were smashed by stones. An offer of proof was made to show that a bottle of stench fluid was thrown against the home of a non-striker.

Harold F. Tunsing, foreman of the repair department, testified that Ben Bunk, one of the group of 39, remarked that "it would be just too bad for me if I didn't join the union last summer." The witness denied he attempted to discourage employes from joining the C I O local.

C I O MAN SWIFT FIRED QUOTES BOSS' WARNING

Testifies He Was Told He Would Be Laid Off Unless He Joined 'Inside' Union.

Testimony that a C I O union employe at Swift & Co.'s packing plant, in National Stockyards, was warned by his foreman that he would be laid off if he failed to join the plant "inside" union, was given at the National Labor Relations Board hearing at East St. Louis today on charges that the company discriminated against the C I O union in favor of the inside group.

Alec Warchol, a cutter, testified his foreman told him on one occasion, after repeated hints that he drop the C I O: "If you don't sign up with the Employes' Protective Association by 1 o'clock, I'll have to lay you off—that's the company's policy."

The witness said he persisted in refusing to join and that later a superintendent told him he would be fired at the first opportunity. On Aug. 6, he continued, he was fired, for "slowing down the work." He has not been rehired since, he said.

At yesterday's session it was testified that a woman representative of the E P A, which the Labor Board charges is company-fostered, went through the pork-trimming department every day for three weeks, soliciting memberships.

The witness, Mrs. Antonia Czaicka, a pork trimmer and member of the United Packing House Industrial Workers' Union, testified she refused to join the association and instead wore her C I O button when at work. The woman representative, Della Foley, then warned her, "You'll be sorry; you'll go out of here and not come back," the witness said. That night Mrs. Czaicka was laid off, she testified.

Three weeks after the layoff, which occurred July 2, three of the eight women employes laid off were rehired, but Mrs. Czaicka, who had worked for the company 5½ years, was not rehired until Jan. 15 and then her job lasted only two weeks, she testified. Some of the women rehired before she was had much less sesiority, she said.

William Bates, laborer and C I O member, gave similar testimony, and added that when he asked his department superintendent for reemployment, the superintendent told him, "You're on the wrong side of the fence; if you were on the right side, you might be working here now."

9 MONTHS FOR AUTO KILLING

Ellis Finch, Negro Driver, Sentenced to Workhouse.

Ellis Finch, a Negro, who drove away after his automobile struck and killed John McGarrity, also a Negro, at Delmar boulevard and Belt avenue last Aug. 25, was sentenced to nine months in the Workhouse by Circuit Judge William B. Flynn today when he pleaded guilty of manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident.

In jail since the accident, Finch, who gave his address as 1617 Stockard avenue, Richmond Heights, was arrested after a motorist who saw McGarrity knocked down pursued the car and overtook it in Pine Lawn. McGarrity, 70 years old, was a janitor at 5512 Delmar.

PARKED AUTO PADLOCK VOTED BY ALDERMEN

Measure, Effective When Signed, Directed Against Out-of-Town Drivers.

The Board of Aldermen passed today a bill which will permit police to padlock automobiles parked illegally. The measure carries an emergency clause, and will become effective when signed by Mayor Dickmann, who is expected to approve the bill Monday.

The bill had been approved yesterday by the Aldermanic Traffic Committee and was voted upon today after rules had been suspended. The new ordinance is directed against out-of-town drivers, who may be inclined to ignore police sticker notices authorized under a new ordinance.

A driver finding his car locked would be forced to go to police to have it unlocked, and would be subject to a small fine. The bill also would authorize police to tow away parked automobiles constituting a traffic hazard and provides for a $10 fee for the redemption of the machine.

The Traffic Committee set March 10, at 2 p. m., for a public hearing or a bill, which would change the parking limit in the downtown district from one hour to two hours. The bill was introduced by Alderman Harry Israel, who said owners of smaller stores without garages for the accommodation of customers' automobiles, wanted the two-hour parking period because of the sticker law.

Director of Streets and Sewers Frank J. McDevitt was requested to check the no parking and loading zones to determine whether they were legally established and necessary. Committee members believe it may be possible to abolish some of the zones to provide more parking space downtown.

A bill to prohibit the sale of fireworks in the city was introduced today by Alderman William J. Warnick of the Twenty-eighth Ward. It would permit the sale of fireworks only to organized groups which had obtained permits to hold displays at special gatherings, and would allow dealers to engage in a wholesale trade in fireworks with purchasers outside the city.

Warnick was the sponsor of a similar bill, which was passed by the board last year but was vetoed by Mayor Dickmann because of legal defects. The Alderman said the defects had been corrected in the new bill.

PHILADELPHIA SALES TAX PASSED OVER MAYOR'S VETO

Council Also Votes Levy on Goods Bought Outside City by Residents.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—City Council passed last night, over Mayor S. D. Wilson's veto, the amended sales tax and its companion ordinance, a personal property tax on goods purchased outside of Philadelphia and taken into the city.

Both ordinances technically become effective March 1, but legality of the sales tax is questioned in two suits to be argued today. One suit was filed by Mayor Wilson and his wife as taxpayers, the other by a group of department stores.

Mayor Wilson told council he vetoed the amended 2 per cent sales tax for the same reasons he vetoed the original measure. The council had amended the measure to remove legal objections. He called the levy illegal, and said that it struck at the poor, protected the rich, and would drive hundreds of business establishments out of the city.

COL. JAMES ROOSEVELT BEGINS HIS FIRST MILITARY TRAINING

President's Son Takes Plane to Cuba to Serve With Marine Corps Reserve.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Lieutenant-Colonel James Roosevelt, the President's son and secretary, left in a marine plane today en route to Cuba to start his first active military training as a Marine Corps reserve officer.

For two weeks he will undergo training ashore and aboard a warship which is required of reserve officers.

Three battleships comprising the navy's training squadron, and a half dozen destroyers are now in the Caribbean.

Young Roosevelt's marine commission dates from Nov. 13, 1936. It was disclosed by his appearance in uniform aboard the ship that took the President to the Pan-American Conference at Buenos Aires shortly afterward. Secretary Swanson said he was made an officer "in accordance with standard procedure."

FICIAL TO URGE EVOKING LICENSE OF DR. B. P. BEBEE

gistrar to Make Request of State Board of Health —Grand Jury Votes Two Indictments.

After the grand jury voted two ny indictments against Dr. Bert Bebee on charges based on il- l operations upon women, El- S. Rosenthal, registrar of the Louis Bureau of Vital Statistics, nounced today that he intended make formal recommendation at the State Board of Health re- ke the physician's license to prac- e.

Rosenthal said he had asked the lice to make a complete summary its record of the physician, in- lving frequent arrests for ques- ning in illegal operations at his ce at 3214 South Grand boule- d.

However, the police informed the gistrar that the record would not furnished without formal re- est to that effect from the Board Health. Accordingly, Rosenthal id he would make his recommen- tion for license revocation with- t including the police record.

The indictments voted yesterday ulted from investigations of the aths of Miss Olive A. Cash, 2809 ssouri avenue, on Jan. 17, and of ss Lena Ledford, East Alton ade school teacher, last Oct. 10. the Cash case he was charged th attempting to perform an il- gal operation, and in the Ledford se with manslaughter. In the rmer case he already was held on warrant charging false certifica- n of death.

Died in Doctor's Office.

Miss Cash, who was 35 years old, ed in Dr. Bebee's office and was uried under a certificate by the hysician that death was due to cute heart disease with bronchial sthma as a contributing cause.

Registrar Rosenthal, scrutinizing e certificate, became suspicious the circumstances of Miss Cash's eath when he noticed that Dr. ebee had not treated her prior to e day she died. The body was humed and an autopsy was per- med which was said to have sed doubts as to the cause of ath. Meanwhile, a police investi- tion was begun.

At the inquest, Mrs. Ida Crowley, 28A Lemp avenue, testified that e accompanied Miss Cash to the hysician's office and that she gave r. Bebee $75 which Miss Cash had ven her with the request that she y the bill. Bebee, she testified, ve her back $5, saying the charge ould be $70.

Returned $50 of $70.

A short time after Miss Cash had en conducted into the private of- ce, she said, Dr. Bebee appeared, ld her her friend had died under esthetic and returned $50, which e put in Miss Cash's purse.

"She just wilted like a flower," quoted Bebee as saying, snap- ng his fingers as he said the ords. She added that she asked if "had done anything to her," eaning Miss Cash, and that Bebee replied in the negative.

Jack Cash, brother of the woman who died, testified that when he found, after being summoned to Bebee's office, that there was only 50 in his sister's purse, he remarked on the circumstance to the physician, who, he said, then gave him $20 from his pocket. Sobbing he told his story, he testified Dr. bee asked him to take his sister's body away in his automobile, but that when he demurred, an undertaker was summoned.

Inquest Verdict Named Bebee.

Miss Ledford died in St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, of lobar pneumonia said by attending physicians to have been the result of an illegal operation. A Madison County Coroner's jury declared in its verdict that the operation was performed by Dr. Bebee and ordered its finding sent to the St. Louis Circuit Attorney for action. Charles Conroy of Wood River, testified at the inquest that he took the school teacher to the physician's office a month before her death and paid Bebee to perform the operation. Bebee denied having ever seen ither of them.

n November, 1932, Bebee was amed in a Coroner's verdict of homicide in the death of Mrs. Rose Hoffman of peritonitis resulting from an illegal operation. He was exonerated later but Julius H. Stean, attendant in his office, pleaded guilty of manslaughter and was fined $500.

DRIVER INDICTED FOR LEAVING SCENE AFTER KILLING WOMAN

ward Bremer Arrested 10 Days Ago in Death of Mrs. Charles Gerak Nov. 7.

In indictment charging Edward Bremer, 3237 California avenue, with leaving the scene of an accident was voted yesterday by the grand jury. Arrested 10 days ago, Bremer admitted to police he was the driver who sped on after his automobile had killed Mrs. Charles Gerak, 4016 Meramec street, while she was crossing Gustine avenue in the 3800 block last Nov. 7.

Bremer was questioned after an acquaintance of his had told police dents had been removed from the fenders of Bremer's car and that Bremer was highly nervous. In his statement, Bremer said Mrs. Gerak appeared suddenly in front of his car, and, after striking her, he became excited and continued on. He 21 years old and a machine operator in a hinge factory.

FFICIAL TO URGE EVOKING LICENSE OF DR. B. P. BEBEE

gistrar to Make Request of State Board of Health —Grand Jury Votes Two Indictments.

After the grand jury voted two ny indictments against Dr. Bert Bebee on charges based on il- l operations upon women, El- r S. Rosenthal, registrar of the Louis Bureau of Vital Statistics, nounced today that he intended make formal recommendation t the State Board of Health re- ke the physician's license to prac- e.

Rosenthal said he had asked the lice to make a complete summary its record of the physician, in- lving frequent arrests for ques- ning in illegal operations at his ce at 3214 South Grand boule- d.

However, the police informed the gistrar that the record would not furnished without formal re- est to that effect from the Board Health. Accordingly, Rosenthal d he would make his recommen- tion for license revocation with- including the police record.

The indictments voted yesterday ulted from investigations of the aths of Miss Olive A. Cash, 2809 ssouri avenue, on Jan. 17, and of s Lena Ledford, East Alton de school teacher, last Oct. 10. the Cash case he was charged th attempting to perform an il- al operation, and in the Ledford se with manslaughter. In the rmer case he already was held on warrant charging false certifica- n of death.

Died in Doctor's Office.

Miss Cash, who was 35 years old, d in Dr. Bebee's office and was ried under a certificate by the ysician that death was due to ute heart disease with bronchial thma as a contributing cause.

Registrar Rosenthal, scrutinizing e certificate, became suspicious the circumstances of Miss Cash's ath when he noticed that Dr. bee had not treated her prior to e day she died. The body was humed and an autopsy was per- med which was said to have sed doubts as to the cause of ath. Meanwhile, a police investi- tion was begun.

At the inquest, Mrs. Ida Crowley, 28A Lemp avenue, testified that e accompanied Miss Cash to the ysician's office and that she gave . Bebee $75 which Miss Cash had ven her with the request that she y the bill. Bebee, she testified, ve her back $5, saying the charge uld be $70.

Returned $50 of $70.

A short time after Miss Cash had en conducted into the private of- ce, she said, Dr. Bebee appeared, ld her her friend had died under esthetic and returned $50, which e put in Miss Cash's purse.

"She just wilted like a flower," quoted Bebee as saying, snap- g his fingers as he said the rds. She added that she asked if "had done anything to her," eaning Miss Cash, and that Bebee plied in the negative.

Jack Cash, brother of the woman ho died, testified that when he ound, after being summoned to Bebee's office, that there was only 0 in his sister's purse, he remarked on the circumstance to the hysician, who, he said, then gave im $20 from his pocket. Sobbing he told his story, he testified Dr. bee asked him to take his sister's ody away in his automobile, but hat when he demurred, an undertaker was summoned.

Inquest Verdict Named Bebee.

Miss Ledford died in St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, of lobar pneumonia said by attending physicians to have been the result of an illegal operation. A Madison County Coroner's jury declared in its verdict that the operation was performed by Dr. Bebee and ordered its finding sent to the St. Louis Circuit Attorney for action. Charles Conroy of Wood River, testified at the inquest that he took the school teacher to the physician's office a month before her death and paid Bebee to perform the operation. Bebee denied having ever seen ither of them.

n November, 1932, Bebee was amed in a Coroner's verdict of homicide in the death of Mrs. Rose Hoffman of peritonitis resulting from an illegal operation. He was exonerated later but Julius H. Stean, attendant in his office, pleaded guilty of manslaughter and was fined $500.

DRIVER INDICTED FOR LEAVING SCENE AFTER KILLING WOMAN

Edward Bremer Arrested 10 Days Ago in Death of Mrs. Charles Gerak Nov. 7.

In indictment charging Edward Bremer, 3237 California avenue, with leaving the scene of an accident was voted yesterday by the grand jury. Arrested 10 days ago, Bremer admitted to police he was the driver who sped on after his automobile had killed Mrs. Charles Gerak, 4016 Meramec street, while she was crossing Gustine avenue in the 3800 block last Nov. 7.

Bremer was questioned after an acquaintance of his had told police dents had been removed from the fenders of Bremer's car and that Bremer was highly nervous. In his statement, Bremer said Mrs. Gerak appeared suddenly in front of his car, and, after striking her, he became excited and continued on. He is 21 years old and a machine operator in a hinge factory.

$2000 FUND FOR LOYALIST FORCE IN SPAIN SOUGHT

Movement Started by Local Chapter of Friends of Abraham Lincoln Brigade.

The St. Louis branch of the Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, a group organized to aid Americans fighting with the Loyalist forces in Spain, plans to raise $2000 here in the next three months. This undertaking was started last night with a meeting of about 25 persons at the Forest Park Hotel. Contributions are being received by Miss Mary C. Taussig, 5038 Washington boulevard, treasurer of the organization.

New activity on the part of Spanish governmental forces might be expected now that the once dormant Catalan industrial plants were working night and day to produce munitions, said Louis Gonzales, 3816 Monroe avenue, East St. Louis, the speaker of the evening.

The prominence of the Anarchists and other radical elements in the Spanish Government is being exaggerated, he went on. The republican government is the result of the tyrannical pressure of the upper levels of the old Spanish society on the great mass of the people. This was inevitable, he said, if the country's resources were to be developed for the benefit of all under the protection of a democracy similar to that of the United States.

REHEARING DENIED NEGRO SEEKING TO ENTER MISSOURI U.

Attorneys for Lloyd Gaines Previously Indicated Appeal to U. S. Supreme Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25.—A motion for the rehearing of an appeal in which the Missouri Supreme Court recently held Negroes were not entitled to admission as students in the University of Missouri or other white schools of the State, was overruled today by the Supreme Court en banc.

The test case, which attracted considerable attention because it was the first time the issue had been raised in nearly a century of the university's history, was brought by Lloyd L. Gaines, Negro, of St. Louis. He sought a writ of mandamus in Boone County Circuit Court to compel university officials to admit him as a student in the law school of the university. The Circuit Court denied the writ and this ruling was affirmed by the Supreme Court last December, on an appeal by Gaines.

Counsel for Gaines in the test case included Charles H. Houston of New York, Negro lawyer, who is counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. They indicated previously they might appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

SENATE REFUSES TO KILL ITEM FOR NEW T V A DAM

Rejects Vandenberg's Proposal to Eliminate $2,763,000 From Independent Offices Bill.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. — The Senate refused today to strike from the $1,400,000,000 independent offices bill a $2,763,000 item to start construction of the Gilbertsville (Ky.) dam, part of the Tennessee Valley Authority program.

Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, asked that the item be eliminated. It was inserted by the Senate Appropriations Committee after the bill had passed the House.

Senator Norris (Independent), Nebraska, sponsor of most T V A legislation, opposed the removal in a lengthy speech.

FARMER ACCUSED OF PEONAGE

Accused of Forcing Negroes to Work Out Debt.

By the Associated Press.

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 25.—A peonage indictment was returned today by a Federal grand jury against Thomas Jefferson Blair, 36-year-old Loxley (Ala.) farmer.

District Attorney Francis H. Inge said the indictment charged Blair forced a Negro, Jim Daly, his wife, Leilia Daly and son, Angus Daly, to work for him for two years. Inge said Blair reported the Negroes were working out a debt to him.

'MARRIAGE MILL' HART LOSES COURT PLEA

Denial of Writ at Jefferson City Restores Order Against His Operations.

Justice of the Peace George R. Hart, operator of a St. Louis County "marriage mill," failed today in his effort to interfere with the county's suit to stop his wedding business.

The Supreme Court of Missouri, at Jefferson City, denied his application for a writ of prohibition to restrain Circuit Judge John J. Wolfe from proceeding with an injunction suit filed Feb. 15 by Prosecuting Attorney M. Ralph Walsh.

This action by the Supreme Court left Judge Wolfe free to proceed. A temporary restraining order had been issued by Judge Wolfe, prohibiting Hart or his agents from performing marriages in the county or having them performed.

Later in the morning Hart filed at Clayton an application for a change of venue from Judge Wolfe's court, alleging prejudice on the part of the Court. No date for hearing on the application was set by Judge Wolfe immediately.

Hart's attorney, William J. Becker, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the denial of the writ made the restraining order effective again and that, therefore, Hart could not perform marriages for the time being.

No opinion was filed by the Supreme Court and no vote was recorded.

A temporary stop order was obtained by Hart from the Supreme Court Feb. 15, which kept Judge Wolfe from holding a hearing set for last Monday.

Walsh alleged that Hart's activities at his establishment at St. Charles and Natural Bridge roads were a public nuisance, bringing the county into disrepute. Hart has operated as a Justice of the Peace since last summer and also, for the last month, as a minister of the "Holiness" or "Union" Church. The Prosecutor's suit would apply to weddings performed by Hart in either capacity.

PLAN TO TRANSFER W P A YOUTHS TO THE ARMY FAILS

18,000 in New York City Circularized, But Recruiting Is Shut Down.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Col. L. B. Magruder, acting recruiting officer for the Second Corps Area, disclosed last night that a conference had been held in New York with W P A officials to establish a system of voluntary transfer of young men from W P A rolls to service with the army, navy or marine corps.

Col. Magruder, in charge of recruiting for upstate New York, Delaware, New Jersey and Puerto Rico, said 18,000 W P A workers in New York City, all eligible for service in the army, were circularized by W P A officials.

"We didn't get anywhere," Magruder said, "because at about that time the War Department suspended recruiting. The army was full. I suppose the navy had the same experience." Magruder said the plan originated with Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commandant of the Corps Area, and Lieutenant-Colonel Brehon B. Somerville, New York City W P A Administrator. It was discussed six weeks ago in New York.

HARDWARE RETAILERS ELECT HERMANN MAN AS PRESIDENT

George C. Eberlin Chosen at Convention; B. H. Gude, St. Louis, Managing Director.

George C. Eberlin of Hermann, Mo., was elected president of the Missouri Retail Hardware Association yesterday at the close of the fortieth annual convention at Hotel Jefferson.

Other officers are: Bernard H. Gude, St. Louis, managing director; Herbert E. Brown, Trenton, vice-president; J. W. Giesler, St. Louis, treasurer; Peyton C. Clark, St. Louis, secretary, and Frank A. Becherer, St. Louis, assistant secretary.

Directors are Adolph Riggs Jr. of Kennett, E. E. Wachter, St. Louis; H. C. Mell, Farmington; R. E. Williams, Silex; G. O. Busch, Union, and Milo Walz, Jefferson City. Members of the Executive Advisory Committee are Gude, J. D. Reynolds of Carthage and William Bahn of Cape Girardeau.

BRITISH BAR CRITICISM OF FASCISTS FROM RADIO

Col. Josiah Wedgwood Kept Off Air After Refusing to Delete Remarks.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Col. Josiah Wedgwood, Laborite member of Parliament, was barred from the radio by the British Broadcasting Corporation yesterday after he refused to delete criticism of Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany and Premier Mussolini of Italy.

Wedgwood and Dr. Alfred Salter, also a Laborite member of Parliament, were scheduled for a debate, on the subject "The Way to Peace."

"Owing to the unfortunate crisis in imperial affairs, a few criticisms which I happened to place in my manuscript on Mussolini and Hitler have caused my contract to be canceled," Wedgwood said. A British Broadcasting Corporation spokesman said, "We had hoped he would see his way to modify the draft of his talk. It had nothing to do with political events of the last few days."

YOUTHS BEAT MAN TO DEATH

Officer of Printing Firm Victim of Chicago Attack.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—A beating administered by three youths caused the death early today of Edward C. Richard, 59 years old, vice-president of Schmidt Brothers, Inc., a printing firm.

Richard was waylaid in front of his home last night and died of concussion of the brain without regaining consciousness. Detectives think he was slugged when resisting a holdup attempt. Mrs. Frieda Bray witnessed the attack. She said the youths appeared to be 16 to 18 years old.

Two Escaped Prisoners Caught.

By the Associated Press.

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Feb. 25.—Two escaped prisoners, Jacob Wright and his brother, Herbert, both of St. Louis, were captured late yesterday by Sheriff Claude O. Garrett 10 miles east of here. Neither was armed. They broke from the Howell County jail here early yesterday morning. Each was under 15-year prison sentence for theft of merchandise from a West Plains wholesale warehouse.

JOPLIN MAYOR'S OUSTER DENIED

Supreme Court Declines to Review Judge's Refusal to Remove Him.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25.—The Missouri Supreme Court refused today to review a ruling by Circuit Judge Thomas W. Martin declining to remove Mayor Arthur Maher of Joplin from office on allegations he was negligent in performing duties relating to the enforcement of the criminal laws.

The writ was sought by the Attorney-General's office. Maher was tried at Lamar on a change of venue last September. There was no opinion in the case, the Court merely denying the writ.

Resolution Against Traffic Fixing.

A resolution calling for an educational campaign and the co-operation of city officials toward elimination of the practice of "fixing" traffic cases was approved by the St. Louis County League of Municipalities at a meeting at Webster Groves City Hall last night. The resolution was offered by Mayor Edwin F. Chapman of Webster Groves.

BODE OUSTER SUIT FAILS; STATE GAME CHIEF KEEPS POST

Supreme Court Rejects Plea He Is Ineligible Because He Was Not Resident of Missouri.

JUDGES UNANIMOUS IN THEIR CONCLUSION

But They Divide, Four to Three, on the Reasoning by Which They Arrive at Decision.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25.—The Missouri Supreme Court today upheld the appointment of Irwin T. Bode as State Director of Conservation, denying an application to oust him which was filed by Attorney-General Roy McKittrick on the theory that he was ineligible because he had not resided in the State for one year preceding his appointment.

The seven judges were unanimous in the view that Bode was eligible under the law to hold the office, but they divided four to three in giving two opinions.

Bode was appointed last October by the new State Conservation Commission. At the time he was chief conservationist of the United States Bureau of Biological Survey at Washington, and before taking that position had been head of the Game and Fish Department of Iowa. He is 46 years old.

Democratic politicians were displeased that the commission had gone outside the State to get a man for the $6000-a-year job. The appointment was first challenged by Attorney James T. Blair Jr., active in Democratic politics at Jefferson City, formerly a State Representative, who filed suit in the Cole County Circuit Court to enjoin payment of Bode's salary and expenses. McKittrick then filed the ouster suit.

McKittrick's Allegations.

McKittrick alleged the appointment violated section 10 of article 8 of the State Constitution which provides that no person shall be elected or appointed to any civil or military office of the State unless he shall have been a resident of Missouri for one year preceding the election or appointment.

The Commission contended this was not applicable to Bode because the Constitutional amendment adopted at the general election in 1936 creating the Commission and the position of Director of Conservation gave the Commission power to determine the qualifications of the office.

The court's majority opinion, written by Judge Ernest S. Gantt, adopted this view, saying the provision of the amendment as to qualifications superseded the general constitutional provision. This opinion, holding that the position was a public office in the meaning of the Constitution, was concurred in by Judges William F. Frank, Charles T. Hays and James M. Douglas.

In a separate opinion Judge George R. Ellison held that the position was not a "public office" in the meaning of the Constitution, and that for this reason the commission was free to select the appointee without regard to the constitutional provision. Concurring were Judges Ernest M. Tipton and C. A. Leedy Jr.

Intent of Amendment.

The constitutional amendment was designed to make the Conservation Commission entirely free from political influences, and for this reason was opposed by many Democratic office holders and politicians.

The commission, of which E. Sydney Stephens is chairman, was advised by Gov. Stark to go outside the State if necessary to find a properly qualified director to carry out the provisions of the constitutional amendment for protection of fish, game and other wildlife resources. Bode assumed the office last Nov. 15.

MAN ADMITS KILLING WOMAN; LEADS POLICE TO HER GRAVE

Father of 6 Says He Shot Companion "for Going Around With Another Man."

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH AMBOY, N. J., Feb. 25.—Frank Wendelek, a laborer, Prosecutor Charles Morris said, calmly admitted yesterday killing eight months ago of a woman tavern owner and casually puffed on a cigar as police dug up her body from a shallow grave to which he led them.

The victim was Mrs. Myrtle White, who disappeared last June 10. Wendelek is married and is the father of six children ranging in age from 3 to 26.

The man, arrested at Eddystone, Pa., Wednesday, at first denied he was Wendelek, Morris said, but finally broke down under questioning and admitted he shot Mrs. White and buried her body "because she started going around with another man."

Returned to New Jersey, he directed officials to a lonely section where he pointed to a spot, where the body was found.

W P A DITCH DIGGER TO MAKE DEBUT AS OPERA SINGER

Will Sing Leading Role in "La Traviata" at New York Hippodrome Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—A W P A ditch digger, 23-year-old Gerano Cardi-Nale, will make his grand opera debut tonight, singing the leading role of Alfredo in Verdi's "La Traviata" at the Hippodrome.

Wearing new $3 shoes and a borrowed tuxedo with 11 cents in his pocket, he rehearsed his role last night.

His audience tonight isexpected to include Mayor LaGuardia and, of course, Cardi-Nale's mother and the eight other children in the family.

For eight years Cardi-Nale shined shoes, delivered ice, peddled fruit, collected junk, sang in burlesque and dug ditches to pay the rent while he took singing lessons.

$100,000 Remodeling Job.

A permit for remodeling the Coca-Cola Co. building at Michigan and Davis avenues at a cost of $100,000, was issued by the City Building Department yesterday. Interior fire escapes and other improvements will be added to the four-story plant, which was purchased by the present owners last November for $240,000. The building was formerly occupied by the Best-Clymer Co., manufacturer of preserves and jellies.

LOOTED BANK FACES MERGER, LIQUIDATION

Belleville Depository Cashier Wuller Robbed Must Make Decision Tomorrow.

Whether the Belleville Bank & Trust Co., closed by Cashier George E. Wuller's theft of $209,500, is to be merged with another bank or liquidated in receivership must be determined by tomorrow, it was learned today from persons who have participated in negotiations for a merger.

The merger proposal, offered to each of the other four banks in Belleville, contemplated a contingent fund of $200,000 to protect a bank which might assume the closed bank's assets and liabilities, from any loss. Half of this fund would be provided by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and half by the directors of the closed bank.

If the merger cannot be effected, liquidation in receivership would be the alternative. In that event stockholders of the closed bank would be liable for an assessment equal to the par value of their stock holdings, which total $150,000. This double liability provision is a feature of the Illinois banking laws.

Loss and Possible Recovery.

The gross impairment in the bank's total resources is $339,500, represented by Wuller's theft of $209,500, and a shrinkage of $130,000 in the market value of bonds held as assets of the bank. Offsetting this will be whatever may be recovered on Wuller's bond, and whatever he may be able to offer in restitution. He has agreed to make restitution, so far as he can.

The bank's surplus and undivided profit accounts, placed at $73,832 in its Dec. 31 statement, would be a further offset against the gross impairment to reduce whatever claim may be made against stockholders, either through the contingent fund in the merger proposal or through assessments on the double liability of their stock.

Bond Increased $75,000.

When the bank closed, Jan. 27, it had in force a $100,000 blanket bond as protection against embezzlement. Prior to Dec. 8 the amount of the bond was only $25,000. A question which remains to be determined is what part of the total theft took place after Dec. 8 and under the provisions of the larger bond in force since that date. The best available estimate is that the recovery under the bonds may be betwen $50,000 and $60,000.

About 3000 depositors who had $2,800,000 in the bank are protected to the extent of $5000 each by Federal insurance of their accounts. Depositors whose claims are $5000 or less will lose nothing, whether the bank is merged or liquidated. Nearly all deposits are fully protected.

Wuller is under $25,000 bond on a State charge of embezzlement, but the Federal grand jury which meets next month at Danville will investigate his shortage.

MAN HELD AFTER DEMANDING $1000 FROM CLARK GABLE

Iowa Farmhand Exonerates Widow, Whose Name He Signed to Note for Spite.

By the Associated Press.

POCAHONTAS, Ia., Feb. 25. — Gaylord Forsyth, 30-year-old farmhand arrested by Federal agents investigating a $1000 extortion note sent to Clark Gable, was held in jail today pending action by the United States District Attorney.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said the Fonda (Ia.) man had admitted writing the note telling the movie actor to pay $1000 "if you value your life or your future." The name of Mrs. Alice Schnetter, a widow living with her parents near Fonda, was signed to the note. Both Forsyth and Mrs. Schnetter said the latter knew nothing about the note. Forsyth, the bureau said, signed Mrs. Schnetter's name out of spite because she had ignored his attentions.

Forsyth was seized yesterday at the home of his mother.

TWO PATROLMEN REDUCED IN RANK FOR DRINKING

Admit Making Round of County Taverns; Put in Probationary Class for Two Months.

Patrolmen Julien L. Mottin and Floyd Sliter of the Page Boulevard District were reduced to the rank months each by the Police Board yesterday after they pleaded guilty of drinking intoxicating liquor in violation of police regulations.

The charges grew out of an evening on which the officers made a round of St. Louis county taverns. The reduction in rank will result in $50 loss of pay to each officer. of probationary patrolmen for two

ROW OVER DEMOCRATS' PENNSYLVANIA SLATE

Guffey Out of Race for Governor but Party Troubles Are Not Solved.

By the Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 25.—A slate-making squabble is causing dissension among Pennsylvania's Democrats. State Chairman David Lawrence, emerging last night from a long conference of 15 Democratic leaders, announced there were indications the State Committee would indorse a slate suggested a week ago, but observers agreed that the party's troubles were far from solved.

Despite Senator Joseph F. Guffey's withdrawal as a gubernatorial possibility after an interview with President Roosevelt yesterday, at least five others who would like to follow Gov. George H. Earle remained to be reckoned with. The latest to be injected into the picture was William C. Bullitt of Philadelphia, Ambassador to France.

Guffey's Stand in Doubt.

Guffey withdrew from the gubernatorial race at Roosevelt's specific request. Whether the New Deal Senator would also support the slate tentatively approved by his Pennsylvania forces remained uncertain.

Lawrence was asked after the conference in Harrisburg whether he thought the Senator would now back that slate in full.

"I would rather not answer that question," Lawrence replied, adding: "The indications are that the recommendations of the State Committee will be given to Gov. Earle for the United States Senate, to Charles Alvin Jones for Governor, to Leo C. Mundy for Lieutenant-Governor and to Thomas A. Logue for secretary of internal affairs."

Jones is a Pittsburgh lawyer and Alleghany County Solicitor.

The storm in the party broke over the Jones choice for Governor after a previous caucus in Harrisburg brought forth that tentative slate. Guffey opposed him. So did C I O Chief John L. Lewis.

William P. Gallagher, chief clerk of the State House of Representatives, who has attended all the conferences, said he thought the slate would go through without a hitch at the committee meeting called for 2:30 p. m. today.

"You can drop the word 'tentative,'" he said.

Others were not so certain. They pointed to Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy, Luther A. Harr, former secretary of banking and now Philadelphia City Treasurer, and Attorney-General Charles J. Margiotti. None has announced a willingness to drop out of the gubernatorial race.

Suggesting of Bullitt.

The Philadelphia record says Bullitt's name was suggested to Rosevelt in yesterday's Washington conference and that the President expressed a willingness to release him from the diplomatic service. Lawrence said Bullitt's name was not mentioned in Harrisburg last night.

Lewis has given no indication he will back down in his demand that the gubernatorial indorsement be given to Kennedy, in order to place a labor leader in a prominent place on the ticket. Kennedy is secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers.

While the Democrats were having troubles, interest in the political race picked up among the Republicans last night with the announcement of State Senator G. Mason Owlett that he would seek the Republican nomination to succeed United States Senator James J. Davis. Owlett is a member of the Republican National Committee.

SINCLAIR LEWIS PRAISES PRESIDENT OF CHICAGO U.

Robert Hutchins "Great Man Who Thinks Professors More Important Than Athletic Coaches."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Sinclair Lewis nominated Robert Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, last night to be the next President of the United States.

"He is an authentically great man," the novelist told a distinguished audience in Constitution Hall. "He is actually such an anarchist as to believe that professors are more important than athletic coaches; that examinations are not an infallible test of knowledge; that the wisdom of Shakespeare, the Bible, Hilton and Aristophanes still stands higher than the wisdom of Dale Carnegie."

Integrity, ideas, executive ability, executive experience—the 39-year-old educator has all of these, Lewis said. Speaking earnestly, Lewis pictured Hutchins as an outstanding liberal, perhaps a second and greater Woodrow Wilson."

PROPOSES WAR ON STRAY CATS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. — The American Wildlife Institute proposed today a campaign against stray cats.

Henry P. Davis, executive secretary, estimated every stray cat annually kills at least 50 valuable song, game and insectivorous birds. He proposed cat catchers and places to keep the cats after they are caught.

Railway Mail Clerk Pensioned.

James T. Church, 6024A Michigan avenue, a railway mail clerk, retired on a pension at the completion of his regular run today after 41 years of service. He is 62 years old, a former president of the Missouri-Kansas-Colorado division of the Railway Mail Association. Throughout his entire service he has been assigned to the Missouri Pacific Railroad route between St. Louis and Kansas City.

Busses to Replace Traction Line.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 25.—The Toledo Edison Co. announced yesterday that busses will replace trolleys in the Lake Shore Railway Co. traction service between Toledo and Cleveland within the next 60 days. The Ohio Utilities Finance Co., owned by the Toledo Edison Co., filed notice in United States District Court here yesterday that it had transferred the assets of the Lake Shore Electric and its subsidiary, the Sandusky, Fremont & Southern, to the Toledo company.

ROOSEVELT PREFERS WARSHIPS TO PLANES

Says at Press Conference Antidote Is Generally Found for New Inventions.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—President Roosevelt said today in a discussion of the relative merits of airplanes and battleships that always in the past when any new weapon of warfare was invented an antidote had been discovered for it.

Roosevelt had been asked at his press conference what he thought of talk in some quarters that the increasing effectiveness of aircraft had greatly limited the usefulness of great warships.

He said that in the whole history of warfare new weapons had usually been hailed as changing the whole course of offense and defense but that no single weapon had long remained supreme.

He Gives Some Examples.

In this connection he mentioned the Monitor famous Civil War fighting ship, the development of torpedo boats late in the last century, and the development of submarines. For each of these, he said, some adequate defensive weapon was evolved.

In the case of the airplane, he said, defensive weapons were the anti-aircraft gun and the defense airplane.

Asked whether he thought battleships had increased or decreased in efficiency, the President replied that they had both increased and decreased since the World War.

Another correspondent inquired whether the chief executive had seen reports on rumored secret army and navy tests of armaments, specifically with regard to water and aircraft and whether he was in accord with the findings.

Roosevelt said he had been seeing such tests since 1913, and that with regard to the argument over the relative efficiency of air and water craft his recent recommendations to Congress were the best answer.

In his special message on defense he recommended an $800,000,000 warship construction program.

Department of Defense.

The chief executive indicated he thought little of suggestions for a single department of defense. He said the present system was working very well.

The suggestion for a single department, he recalled, goes back to pre-World War days and he added that during the war the present system worked quite effectively.

Another inquirer asked whether the President had noted any evidence of friction between the army and navy. The questioner explained there were reports at the Capitol that the navy found it easier to get appropriations than the army. Roosevelt, chuckling at this remark, said the services were working together better today than at any previous time.

Job Survey System Effective.

The President indicated that the system used in making the unemployment survey last Novemberr had proved so effective it might be used again when unemployment statistics were needed.

The chief executive said that the figures produced as a result of the November study, statistics on which are now being released, would be useful in evolving the general program of government.

He said there was, for instance, the youth movement whose advocates insist that the great need for aid is for young people under 25 years old.

Another pressure group, he said, wants the emphasis put on aid to people over 45.

Roosevelt, recalling that the unemployment census would show into what age category most of the jobless fall, said this study gave the Government facts to go on.

State Figures Soon.

It was his understanding, he said, that Census Administrator John D. Biggers would be releasing state unemployment figures daily for the next month.

In connection with these statistics, he said, he talked recently with Isador Lubin, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, who said he knew of no instance where results of so vast a tabulation had been available so soon, or at such low cost.

The chief executive observed that the census seemed well worth while and supplied a method of making quick checkups.

STATES CONTEST RIGHT OF U. S. TO COAST LAND

Oppose Bill to Give Government Titles to Submerged Oil Reserves.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Officials of five states testified yesterday passage of a pending bill to give the Government title to submerged coastal lands would be a violation of their sovereign rights. They attacked the measure after a Navy Department official told the House Judiciary Committee the bill would give the Government valuable oil reserves for national defense.

The lands particularly mentioned were sections of the California coast. Representative Scott (Dem.), California, testified that former President Herbert Hoover was a principal stockholder of the Pacific Dock Co. of Long Beach, which holds land to which the Government is seeking title.

Scott also told the committee that the Long Beach oil land situation was the root of political turmoil between the Republican and Democratic parties of the State. He declared that the Republican administration of the State had never shown any interest in securing the land for the people until the Government had entered the picture as a claimant to the property.

Gulf States Oppose Bill.

Attorney-General Gaston Porterie of Louisiana, voicing the opposition of the Gulf States to the bill, declared that areas acquired by the United States from France or Spain gained their sovereignty as they became states.

"An attempt at this late date to change the agreement between the states and bring about evasion of well-established legal precedent will help to undermine that fealty and loyalty that the various states have for the agreement, known as the Federal Constitution," he said. "Naval oil reserves can readily be acquired by purchase from private owners or from the various states."

Referring to confusion as to who actually owned title to submerged lands for three miles from the shores of the nation, Porterie declared:

"I don't think there should be any serious doubt about the general recognition among all countries as to who is the sovereign of those territories. If there is any doubt the states should declare sovereignty now, and make it 30 miles. The old limit was set by the range of the cannon of that time."

Says Right Has Been Recognized.

Assistant Attorney-General Warren Gilman of New York said the Government had always recognized the rights of the state to the land off its shores. He pointed out that the War Department has always examined permits for construction in harbors only to determine if it hurt navigation, and in doing so recognized the right of the state to grant or reject those permits after approval by the department.

Lawrence Truett, Assistant Attorney-General of Florida, and Fred C. Elliott, Florida engineer, said their opposition to the bill was based on arguments similar to those of states carved out of the Louisiana Territory.

Greek Rice, representing the Mississippi Attorney-General, said that any question of ownership should be carried to the courts.

Attorney Robert Stuart of the Texas State Teachers' Association suggested that the bill be shelved to save the appearance of a "cloud" over the title of Texas school children to millions of acres of valuable oil lands. He said the public domain of Texas rests with the public school fund.

A Justice Department representative, William B. Jones, said he thought the question should be taken to the courts.

CONSUMER GROUPS WANT TRADE PRACTICE INQUIRY

Representatives Ask Roosevelt for Thorough Investigation of Price Control.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Representatives of consumer groups, criticising present proposals for monopoly inquiries as inadequate, recommended to President Roosevelt yesterday a thorough investigation to determine the effect of economic practices and controls on commodity prices.

"Not until such a detailed analysis is available," said Miss Helen Hall, of New York, chairman of the Consumers' National Federation, "can effective remedial legislation be planned in the public interest."

Members of the delegation said Senator La Follette (Prog.), Wisconsin, had indorsed the suggestion and several Congressmen had volunteered to introduce legislation to provide for the investigation. A committee of five, headed by Miss Hall, who saw President Roosevelt, urged him to support their demands for creation of a permanent consumers' agency in the Federal Government.

Divorced From E. T. Ustick Jr.

A divorce was granted yesterday by Circuit Judge Charles B. Williams to Mrs. Varda May Ustick from Edward T. Ustick Jr., stationery salesman. It was based on general indignities and provides for payment of $600 alimony in gross. Ustick did not contest. They were married in 1926 and separated five years later. He is a son of the late Edward T. Ustick, chairman of the board of the George D. Barnard Stationery Co., who left a $400,000 trust estate.

PRESSURE GROUP CURB ON SCHOOLS ASSAILED

John Dewey Society Calls Ancestor-Worship a Peril to Academic Freedom.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Curtailment of academic freedom by pressure groups which seek to impose their doctrines on the school children was held by the John Dewey Society today to be "definitely on the increase."

Describing the movement as one of the most vital issues of the day, the society said in announcing its 1938 yearbook that teachers have been reprimanded and "even dismissed from their jobs for teaching accepted facts about history, science and civics which, for one reason or another, were disagreeable to certain groups in their communities."

Noted historians, like David S. Muzzey, have been forced to rewrite some passages in their books and to delete others, the society said, because they clashed with local prejudices "even though undeniably true."

The yearbook, publication of which was announced at the national conference of the Progressive Education Association, said a reference to David B. Hill, once Mayor of Elmira, N. Y., was dropped from Muzzey's high school text on American history after that city barred the book.

A similar bar by the City of Savannah, Ga., caused the deletion of a remark that Georgia's early settlers were "poor debtors and criminals," the society said.

Progressive as well as conservative organizations which seek to hamstring teachers with rules and regulations, both during and after school were denounced in the yearbook as enemies of democracy.

Assails Ancestor Worshippers.

Among them were listed the "ancester worshippers" — with the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution, and the United Daughters of the Confederacy included in that category—military organizations like the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and patriotic organizations like the National Civic Federation, the Paul Reveres, and the Key Men of America.

"These organizations sponsor a peculiar brand of patriotism and an exaggerated nationalism," the publication said. "They seek to repress teachers who do not favor their program of imperialism, huge armaments, and jingoism.

"Their social and economic views are reactionary. They would suppress all teachers who hold radical or even mildly progressive views. Indeed, they regard as dangerous anybody who disagrees with them."

The yearbook was prepared by Dr. Boyd H. Bode and Dr. Harold B. Alberty, both professors of education at Ohio State University. It was edited by several other progressive educators, including Dr. Howard K. Beale, professor of history at the University of North Carolina, and Dr. Orville G. Bain and Dr. H. Gordon Hullfish of Ohio State. The John Dewey Society is composed primarily of liberals and progressives.

Cites Bars of Racial Groups.

Criticising national-interest and racial groups, it said Irish organizations in one city recently forced the barring of an anthology by Louis Untemeyer "because one poem contained a phrase offensive to them." Jewish organizations, it said, have managed to have "The Merchant of Venice" barred from many schools.

In the last two years, German and Italian groups have sought "to dictate what the schools shall teach regarding Nazis and Fascisti," it said.

Likewise, it added, courses on the New Deal "have sometimes been media for spreading New Deal doctrines."

In support of its contention that teachers sometimes are curtailed even in their rights as citizens, the book cited the case of A. O. Roorback, "who lost his job in the public schools of Harrisburg, Pa., for opposing what he regarded as political meddling in the schools, for sponsoring a financial and pedagogical survey of the schools by outside experts, and for helping to organize teachers."

Securities Act Violators Sentenced.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—William J. Dickelman and Scott R. Weinland, convicted last week of violating the Illinois Securities Act, were sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $500 each in county court yesterday.

Judge Albert E. Isley granted the men 60 days for filing exceptions preparatory to an appeal and released them on bond of $2000. Several Peoria investors were among the complainants.

CLEARER CORPORATION ACCOUNTING PROPOSED

S E C Aid, in Address Here, Urges Reports That Give Investor True Picture.

Accounting practices which are misleading to investors when used in preparation of corporations' financial reports were described by Carman G. Blough, chief accountant for the Securities and Exchange Commission, in a talk last night before the St. Louis chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants and the Certified Public Accountants' Society of St. Louis at Hotel Coronado.

He declared that a company's financial statements ought to present a "complete and accurate exposition of the affairs of the company and the results of its operation for a reasonable period." Some corporations, he charged, "have deliberately withheld or misrepresented facts that are essential to a sound investment judgment."

"Some companies," Blough said, "have filed information of major significance with the Securities and Exchange Commission, where it is a matter of public record, but have omitted it from their published reports." The information on record with the commission at Washington is available to large investors and others, but the expense of securing it through photostatic copy or personal inspection is prohibitive to the small investors, he pointed out.

Should Give Sales Data.

The Government accountant expressed disapproval of statements which do not contain sales records. This information is necessary, he said, for an estimate of earning capacity, which financial experts use as a basis for their forecasts. The contention of management that the disclosure of these facts damages the competitive position of a company is groundless because competitors have other sources for the same information, he asserted.

Blough criticised the practice of including non-cash expenses such as depreciation or amortization of assets with sales costs or other accounts. The amounts of such expenses should be revealed in the financial statement even though they are not shown separately in the profit and loss statement, he declared.

Charges to a concern's earned surplus, which is the accumulated, undistributed profits of the past, should have some relations to past operations, Blough told the accountants.

"It is unfortunately not uncommon," he said, "to find surplus charged with items that properly belong in the profit and loss statement, either as ordinary operating charges or as extraordinary and non-recurring charges. These practices, of course, distort the current statement and result in a false determination of the earnings for the year."

Losses paid out of reserves should be charged to operations, Blough said, pointing out that "the primary purpose of a reservation of surplus is to indicate that surplus is restricted because of the possibility of a loss, not to provide a burying ground for items the management would like to forget."

For Consolidated Statements.

He recommended consolidated statements for a company and its subsidiaries prepared without regard for the legal divisions of the whole system. If a concern sells goods to a subsidiary at a price in excess of cost, its financial statement will show a profit which is not realized by the enterprise until the subsidiary has disposed of the goods, he explained.

"If corporate managements will adopt the philosophy that they are fiduciaries operating their respective enterprises for the benefit of the investors, their annual reports will be increasingly helpful and informative for those for whom they are intended," Blough said.

SEEKS TO CANCEL DRIVER'S LICENSE OF ROBBERY SUSPECT

Clayton J. P. to Act Against Man Who Admitted Speeding 70 Miles an Hour.

Revocation of the State driver's license of Victor Hieken, a magazine salesman of 1401A Evans avenue, who pleaded guilty Wednesday of speeding 70 miles an hour in Clayton road, will be requested by Justice of the Peace Louis L. Hicks of Clayton.

Hieken and a companion, William E. Knight, 5015 Delmar boulevard, also a magazine salesman, were arrested when they sought to escape from Deputy Constable Louis Sita following their arrest in Delmar boulevard in University City when he noticed the automobile being driven at a high rate of speed.

On the way to the Sheriff's office at Clayton, the men eluded the deputy but were re-arrested later after Sita heard a police broadcast of the description of two men who had held up a restaurant at Manchester and Barrett Station roads. Warrants charging the pair with robbery were issued and they are being held in the Clayton jail in default of $2500 bond.

Kidnaped Australian Boy Found.

By the Associated Press.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 25.—Two-year-old Philip Powles, whose father previously had reported receiving a ransom demand for £300 ($1500), was found yesterday in a school building. Police said kidnapers evidently became frightened and hid the boy there.

Mrs. Bilbo Dismisses Her Suit.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—A suit by Mrs. Lula R. Bilbo against United States Senator Theodore R. Bilbo of Mississippi for $100 monthly maintenance was dismissed in District Court yesterday by Justice Peyton Gordon with leave to file an amended petition. The Justice held his court did not have jurisdiction and that senatorial immunity might affect any action he might take. It was said the leave to amend Mrs. Bilbo's petition was granted to permit a search to determine whether Bilbo owned any property in the district.

Owen D. Young Threatener Freed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Richard Engler, 56 years old, scientific research worker, was freed yesterday of charges that he wrote threatening letters to Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co. In discharging Engler, Assistant U. S. Attorney T. Vincent Quinn said proof of attempted extortion was necessary to support the case, whereas the letters Young received contained only threats of bodily harm. Engl confessed writing the letters cause, he said, Young's comp stole one of his inventions 14 ye ago.

HITLER ANNOUNCES NEW STEP AGAINST JEWISH AGITATORS

Says in Nazi Anniversary Speech "Poison Mixers" Are Responsible for False Stories Abroad.

INSISTS ON RETURN OF GERMAN COLONIES

Declares at Munich No Substitute Will Be Accepted — Summarizes Party Achievements.

By the Associated Press.

MUNICH, Feb. 25.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler assured veteran Nazis last night that Germany would insist on the return of her war-lost colonies and accept no substitute.

At the same time, he proclaimed a new drive against "Jewish agitators in Germany."

The Fuehrer was welcomed tumultuously as he entered the Hofbrauhaus where, exactly 18 years ago, he announced creation of the Nazi party and proclaimed his famous program of 25 points.

Before attending the party's birthday celebration, he spent an hour listening to the broadcast of the speech in Vienna by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria.

Hitler in his speech recapitulated the stirring events of Nazidom's early years and summarized the achievements of recent years as: Consolidation of Nazi power; protection of Nazis' rights externally; the regaining of sovereignty over the whole Reich; the regaining of equality of rights for Germany among nations.

The Chancellor followed up his Sunday speech to the Reichstag attacking "international newspaper agitation against Germany" with another attack on what he called malicious rumor-mongering.

He ridiculed in particular a story published in London to the effect that 40,000 Nazi legionnaires in Germany were mobilized on the Austrian border despite the Berchtesgaden peace agreement while another 10,000 were ready to march into Czechoslovakia.

Such stories, he charged, are the work of "Jewish international poison mixers."

"We can draw a lesson from all of this," he concluded. "We soon will proceed energetically against Jewish agitators in Germany.

"We know they are representatives of an international organization and we will treat them accordingly. . . . We know perfectly well these Jewish agitators do not fight in wars but they are the only ones who profit from these wars."

When Hitler arrived at the Hofbrauhaus, his Bavarian district leader, Adolf Wagner, told his fellow Nazis there doubtless were many persons throughout the world who could not understand the Nazis' love and admiration for the Fuehrer, but that was because "they have no Hitler of their own."

U. S. ROADS CHIEF AGAINST TOLLS ON SUPERHIGHWAYS

T. H. MacDonald Says Italy Tried Plan But It Failed to Pay Costs.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. — Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, told a Senate committee yesterday the time had come for Congress to consider construction of a superhighway system, but expressed some doubt whether toll charges would finance such a program.

Testifying before a banking subcommittee, considering a bill introduced by Senator Bulkley (Dem.), Ohio, to build 10 superhighways, three running east and west and seven north and south, MacDonald said Italy attempted to finance superhighways with tolls but had to abandon the idea.

Under the Bulkley bill the superhighways would be financed ultimately by the imposition of tolls. MacDonald acknowledged that the experience with tolls in other countries was limited, and that no one could say whether the system would be unworkable here.

"All I can say," declared MacDonald, "is that people dislike to pay toll charges anywhere."

18 COMPANIES APPEAL FROM T V A DECISION

Charge That Three-Judge Court Did Not Give Them a Fair Hearing.

By the Associated Press.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 25.—Eighteen privately owned utility companies, one ready to negotiate with the city of Knoxville for the sale of its properties, joined late yesterday in an appeal to the United States Supreme Court to halt electric power activities of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

A three-member Federal court recently held at Chattanooga, Tenn., that the operations of the T V A were constitutional.

The power companies filed a petition in the United States District Court for an appeal, although with a 60-page assignment of errors.

The citation of errors alleged the three-Judge court failed to give the complainants a "full and fair" trial and refused either to hold the T V A Act unconstitutional or to hold that the primary purpose of the T V A was generation of electrcity, rather than flood and navigation control.

The appeal will be filed with the Supreme Court within 60 days.

An agreement was announced yesterday between the city of Knoxville and the Tennessee Public Service Co., one of the appellants, to negotiate the sale of its electric properties to the city. The company is a subsidiary of Electric Bond & Share.

Knoxville officials will meet Monday with representatives of the company to open negotiations that may result in the city's purchase of electric properties in Knoxville and Knox County.

O'MAHONEY MAKES RADIO TALK FOR FEDERAL LICENSING BILL

Says Only Alternative to Suit Measure Is Collectivist State.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Senator O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, said last night the only alternative to Federal regulation of large corporations was a collectivist nation.

Advocating his bill to place such corporations under a Federal licensing system, O'Mahoney told a radio audience that unless it, or "something very like it," were adopted economic and political freedom could not long endure.

"I do not propose," O'Mahoney added, "to authorize any Government functionary to interfere in the management of any business, but, recognizing that a corporation cannot come into being until some Government gives it a charter prescribing its powers and duties, I assert that when it enters the field of national commerce, the National Government is entitled to have something to say about its powers and its corporate structure.

"If a corporation engaged in interstate and foreign commerce expects the protection of the people's government, the Government is entitled to insist that one consideration for that protection, one consideration for the privilege of engaging in commerce, shall be that its officers and agents shall refrain from exploiting the public, deceiving investors, oppressing employes and restraining the trade and commerce of the people. These and only these are the requirements of the measure proposed by Senator Borah and myself."

Three Law Examiners Renamed.

HOUSE COMMITTEE FOR WAR PROFITS BILL

Measure Approved Would Draft Manpower and Industry, Limit Earnings.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. — The House Military Committee approved a bill today to give the President authority to prevent profiteering in war time.

The committee's action broke a long committee deadlock over the legislation, which President Roosevelt recommended in his national defense measure to Congress.

The measure contains a provision for a universal draft of man power and industry in wartime.

The chief executive would have power to put a celliing on prices. In addition the legislation provides for a "system of taxation which shall absorb all profits above a fair normal return to be fixed by Congress."

The committee approved the legislation shortly after President Roosevelt told his press conference in a discussion of the relative merits of airplanes and battleships that always in the past when any new weapon of warfare was invented an antidote had been discovered for it.

The Treasury Secretary would be required by the War Profits Bill to transmit to Congress on the opening day of its next session a recommendation for a tax plan provided by the measure.

The bill provides that whenever Congress declares war the President is authorized to proclaim it to be "unlawful to buy, sell, lease, or otherwise contract for any article, service, or right, or interest in property," which he might enumerate, "at a higher rate, rent, price, commission, compensation or reward," than was in effect on a date he would name.

When, in time of war, the President considered an immediate increase of the military establishment necessary, he would be authorized to draft men between the ages of 21 and 31, subject to any exemptions or other conditions he might prescribe.

The legislation would empower the President to provide Government control over material resources, industrial organizations, public services, and security, or commodity exchanges.

He also could require the registration of any or all individuals engaged in the management, or control, of any industrial enterprise and could set up a licensing system for various types of business.

Violation of the proposed law would be punishable by fines up to $100,000 fine or a year's imprisonment or both.

BRITISH AIR FORCE SEEKS BOMBER MISSING 24 HOURS

Specially-Built Long-Distance Plane Disappears in Test Flight With Three Aboard.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Royal air force planes were searching today for Britain's specially-built long-distance plane, missing more than 24 hours.

The plane, one of three R. A. F. bombers designed for an attempt to break the world's nonstop flight record, disappeared on a practice flight around the British Isles.

The ship left Upper Heyford, Oxfordshire, at 11:50 a. m. Wednesday and last was seen at 6 a. m. Thursday near Rothbury, Northumberland. The occupants were Flight Lieut. F. S. Gardner, Flying Officer G. J. D. Thomson and Sergt. George Higgs.

BARNEY WILLIAMS DISBARMENT CASE REVIEW GRANTED

Missouri Supreme Court Agrees to Rule on Decision Against Ouster of Macon Lawyer.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25. — The Missouri Supreme Court consented today to review the widely-discussed decision of the Kansas City Court of Appeals in the Barney R. Williams disbarment case that an attorney was not subject to disbarment for misconduct outside his professional capacity.

Thus, in issuing a writ of certiorari (review) on application of its State Bar Advisory Committee, the Court agreed to pass on a question considered by the committee of vital importance both to the bar and the public—whether an attorney is immune to discipline by the courts for acts of moral turpitude committed as a private citizen or public officer, unless his conduct resulted in conviction of a crime.

The writ was made returnable to the court en banc within 30 days. Consequently, arguments likely will be heard at the May term, which begins early that month.

The Bar Committee, headed by Boyle G. Clark of Columbia, contends that under the Supreme court's decision disbarring Paul A. Richards in 1933 and under its rules regulating the bar it may disbar an attorney for any act which it deems made him unfit to continue in practice, whether or not performed in his professional capacity.

Bar Committee's Contentions.

Not only was the decision of the Kansas City Court of Appeals in conflict with decisions of the Supreme Court, the committee contends, but it was unreasonable and a frustration of the inherent judicial power to regulate conduct of officers of the courts, that is, lawyers. The disbarment statute and the criminal code must give way to the Court rules, the committee contends.

Williams, an attorney, formerly Sheriff and Probate Judge of Macon County, had been accused by the Bar Committee of numerous unethical acts "showing him to be so lacking in personal honesty and good moral character as to render him unworthy of public office."

The disbarment petition was filed in the Kansas City Court of Appeals and heard before its special commissioner, John H. Taylor of Chillicothe, who upheld all but one of the 16 charges pressed by the Bar Committee and recommended that Williams' law license be revoked.

However, the Court of Appeals overruled him, holding that Williams should not be disbarred since the evidence did not establish that the acts complained of were done by him as a lawyer and none of them had resulted in his conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude.

Charges Against Williams.

Charges pressed against Williams, all concerning his conduct as a public official, ranged from an accusation that he borrowed $5000 illegally from an estate under his jurisdiction as Probate Judge to one that he accepted a "cut" of 25 cents for each hour of work done on a $30 paper-hanging job in the county jail when he was Sheriff.

The opinion of the Kansas City Court, handed down Jan. 11, was written by Commissioner Floyd L. Sperry and concurred in by Judges Ewing C. Bland and Robert M. Reynolds.

Statutory grounds for disbarment are professional misconduct, conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude and disbarment in another state. In an application to the Kansas City court for a rehearing, which was denied, the Bar Committee said the effect of the decision was to place the bar again under control of legislative enactment.

AIRPLANE HAS NOT SUPPLANTED SHIP, ADMIRAL ASSERTS

A. B. Cook, Aeronautics Bureau Head, Says Aircraft Have Added Greatly to Power of Fleet.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Rear Admiral Arthur B. Cook, Chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, testifying before the House Naval Committee on the proposed expansion of the navy, said today the 950 new planes contemplated under the program would add another $106,000,000 to the total cost.

He said the projected enlargement of the navy amply justified the provision of additional planes. Launching at once into the controverys over the vulnerability of battleships to aerial attack, Cook said, "airplanes have not supplanted ships, but they have added tremendously to the power and efficiency of the fleet as a whole."

The Admiral, an airplane pilot of 10 years' experience told the committee, "the offense mission" of the navy's air forces was not to attempt to sink enemy battleships but to "so severely injure them that the American fleet would have a marked superiority."

He said a policy of attempting to sink battleships from the air would require "a terrific, uneconomical and very probably unsuccessful concentration of forces on only a few battleships."

In response to questions by Representative Maas (Rep.), Minnesota, senior minority member of the committee, Cook declared the United States would "lose its lead in aviation, if it has not already done so," because foreign nations are spending much money in aviation research.

Knows of No Secret Tests.

Admiral Cook was asked if he knew of "secret tests" showing the extreme vulnerability of battleships. Cook said he did not and quoted Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Naval Operations, as saying the navy had not made any such tests for about five years.

Representative Maas interposed that he had checked with the army and learned that branch of the armed forces had tested only the possibility of hitting a battleship. No attempt was made to discover the extent of damage possible, Maas added.

Cook asserted one of the navy's greatest needs was for more patrol planes and suitable tenders to make them mobile. He suggested that the first two years of the program be devoted to making up this "serious shortage."

This part of the building program, he said, would cost from $24,000,000 to $30,000,000 during the fiscal years 1940 and 1941.

Plane vs. Battleship.

Questioned as to the relative efficiency of air and surface craft, Cook said it would require 450 airplanes to deliver in one hour the same offensive fire of which one battleship is capable. To equal the firing power of 15 battleships, the present number in the fleet, Cook said, would require 6750 airplanes.

From the standpoint of cost, Cook said the 15 battleships would represent an expenditure of something over $1,000,000,000 and would last 26 years. The 6750 airplanes which he said must be replaced every eight years, would cost $7,678,125,000.

Chairman Vinson (Dem.), Georgia, announced he had asked Glenn Martin, airplane manufacturer, to testify Monday concerning recent developments in military aircraft. After that, Vinson said he would move to cease hearings on the bill and begin its consideration in executive session.

New Rumanian Constitution Wins by 99 Per Cent Oral Vote

Document Greatly Enlarges Power of King—Government Officers to Take Oath Under It Sunday.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 25.—Rumanian voters overwhelmingly approved King Carol's new Constitution, drastically centering power in the crown, at an oral plebiscite yesterday. It was unofficially announced 99.87 per cent of the voters approved the new Constitution, 4,283,395 favoring and 4413 opposing. In Bucharest the unofficial count was 216,865 in favor, 323 against.

Members of workers' groups and societies marched in a body to the polls, where, instead of writing their vote, they spoke an individual "yes" or "no" to an election official. This oral voting was decreed especially for the plebiscite on the Constitution. Henceforth the secret ballot will be used as under the 1923 Constitution which Carol suspended after the fall of the anti-Jewish Government of Octavian Goga.

The Supreme Court will certify the vote Saturday and the Government will take the oath under the new Constitution Sunday.

Carol and Crown Prince Mihai appeared smiling on the palace balcony last night to view a torchlight parade celebration.

The populace displayed keen enthusiasm in voting for the Constitution Carol proposed three days ago to give himself increased power over a government organized along guild lines.

The new Constitution of 100 articles gives the King power to appoint half the Senate and veto power over all legislation. The Chamber of Deputies will be elected according to membership in three guilds: Farmer-labor, commerce and industry, intellectual professions. There was no mention of political parties in the Constitution but the guild method of election was expected to limit their influence.

The Constitution guarantees minority rights and freedom to express opinion. The right to urge a change in the form of government, however, is expressly forbidden.

The Orthodox Rumanian Church is recognized as the state religion and civil marriages are made invalid unless religious ceremonies are performed as well.

REMBRANDT PAINTING SOLD FOR $36,750 IN LONDON

Portrait of Artist's Father Purchased From Estate of W. B. Chamberlain, Collector.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Rembrandt's portrait of his father was sold today for 7000 guineas ($36,750) to the agent of Sir Edward Mountain, head of an insurance company.

It was part of the estate of W. B. Chamberlain, an English collector. Sixty years ago the picture was sold as a portrait of William Tell for 100 pounds ($500) but later was properly identified.

FOUR SPIES SENTENCED BY FRENCH COURT

Baron and Others Arrested on Line of Underground Frontier Forts.

By the Associated Press.

METZ, France, Feb. 25.—A secret military court sentenced four men, including a German baron, last night, to prison as a result of what officers said was detection of the most important spy ring ever caught on the Maginot line.

The Maginot line is the system of underground fortresses guarding the French-German frontier.

The leader of the ring, who escaped, was sentenced to 20 years in prison by default. He was named as Hans Lorenz, Berlin merchant.

The four caught and sentenced were identified by officers as follows:

Baron Rudolf von Juchen, 60 years old, born in Cologne, Germany, sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Col. William Albrecht, 58, an officer in the pre-war Austrian army, carrying a Czechoslovak passport, 15 years.

Dr. Walter Hartmann, 38, Czechoslovak, 12 years.

Henri Nolty, 26, German, once served in French foreign legion, five years.

Officers said the four were arrested "at least a year ago."

PRESIDENT CARDENAS ASSAILS BOMBERS OF CIVILIANS

Mexican Executive Urges "Popular Direct Sanctions" Against Attackers.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO, D. F., Feb. 25.—President Lazaro Cardenas urged "popular direct sanctions" yesterday against nations or factions bombing unfortified cities in international or civil conflicts.

Addressing the National Congress of the Confederation of Mexican Workers, President Cardenas termed air attacks on civil populations a "crime against civilization" and proposed that the confederation take the lead in summoning an international conference to devise methods to carry out the sanctions.

Vicente Lombardo Toledano, secretary general of the confederation, in a later speech said such a conference would be called at once.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Defense of Mr. Chamberlain.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU and Miss Dorothy Thompson, in your issue of Feb. 23, criticised Mr. Chamberlain and the British Cabinet for deserting the League of Nations and abandoning democracy to dictatorship.

Does not such criticism come with bad grace from those who for months have thundered against any suggestion of this other great democratic Power, the United States, lifting a finger or raising a voice to aid democracy abroad? Does it not occur to you that today, without the United States, without Germany, Italy and Japan, the League of Nations IS only Britain and France, and that, with France in civil turmoil, the League's power is only Britain's power? Britain has fought a lone fight for democracy as long as she was able, but today she has an even greater struggle on her hands.

How long will the world continue to ridicule Britain's "pompous weakness" and yet expect her to be powerful enough to fight all the world's battles? Today the old expression, "yellow peril," has greater meaning than it ever had; the prestige of the white race in Asia is at stake. Today, the menace of totalitarian Japan means more to Britain and to the world than the menace to Europe of totalitarian Germany and Italy.

A year ago, it was unthinkable that Japan should dominate the International Settlement of Shanghai. Next year, if Britain were tied up with war in Europe, Hongkong might fall and, after that, who cannot see the end of the white man in India, in the Philippines, in the Dutch East Indies, perhaps even in Australia, in Eastern Russia and then Alaska?

Therefore, if Britain is ever to do more in the Far East than write notes demanding the inevitable and meaningless apology, she must settle her differences with her white neighbors and reserve her strength for the greater struggle. That is good reason for patching up her quarrel with Ireland at her back door and Germany and Italy across the street.

No doubt, such a policy reveals selfish regard for her own interests—the canniness of Mr. Chamberlain rather than the knight-errantry of Mr. Eden—but is there any other country that dare cast a stone?

In Muddiest Missouri.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WOULD just like to be near enough to B. W. to pat him on the back for his letter concerning the highways and country roads near highways 40 and 54.

Last spring, we moved to a farm which we had bought between Fulton and Mexico. We are three miles from Highway No. 40, but we might as well be 50 miles, in bad weather. The mailman comes on horseback most of the bad weather. We were church-going people when we came up here, and it is distressing to sit here Sunday after Sunday when we can't get out to go to church.

We farmers would be happy with merely the blue sky to look at, if we could just have a seven-foot gravel road to drive on. It isn't funny to have sickness in the family and know that if the weather is bad, you will have to go three miles in a farm wagon for a doctor.

Money being spent to beautify the highways would do so much more good in neighborhoods where the muddy roads become almost impassable, even with a team. And we farmers who would buy in our home towns if roads were provided naturally turn to our mail-order catalogues for our merchandise. I just wish more people driving along the highways would have the consideration for farmers that B. W. has. G. E. R.

Waiting for a Tax Decrease.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

STATE AUDITOR FORREST SMITH, in making his report to Missouri retailers, showing what has been done with the sales tax money in Missouri, said:

"The payment of two-thirds the cost of insane and tubercular patients (out of the sales tax) will lift this burden from the shoulders of the county and make it much easier for the County Courts to balance their budgets and reduce county taxes.

"Thus, it appears that the tax rates upon real and personal property should be lightened as payments under the sales tax increase. . . .

"I shall continue in my efforts to reduce real and personal taxes by the businesslike administration of the sales tax law, so that the purpose for which this law was passed may be fully accomplished in Missouri."

I know all taxpayers will be anxiously waiting to see the reduction in the assessments in the City Hall next month, since the State, according to Mr. Smith's report, spent $3,744,521.08 for the care of insane and tubercular patients.

SHOULD EDUCATION BE STANDARDIZED?

There is nothing in the Constitution giving Congress the power to regulate or control the schools of the nation; this is a local function and one that has been zealously guarded from outside interference.

Yet the Advisory Committee on Education, appointed a year or more ago by the President, blithely comes forward with a proposal that the Federal Government grant $855,000,000 to the states during the next six years to improve their schools, both private and parochial.

The first question that comes to mind is the one made famous by Representative Rich of Pennsylvania, who has been asking his fellow-members of the House, when spending proposals arise: "Where're you going to get the money?"

The second question is: What becomes of local control of the schools if this measure passes? For Federal subsidies mean Federal regulation and possible eventual control. Are the American people ready to forego their supervision of school affairs, or to see that supervision curtailed, in exchange for handouts from Washington?

For a long time, the committee's proposal, in one form or another, has been kicking about Washington. Last year, for example, Senator Harrison and ex-Senator Black, now Justice Black, introduced a bill to spend a billion dollars on the schools in the next five years. Their bill reached the stage of committee approval and bore indorsement of several nationwide educational associations.

The Advisory Committee's premise, that the schools of the country are in need of improvement, may be a sound one. There are undoubtedly many places in the United States where schools are inadequate. But on what phase of government have the people been more generous? In Missouri, for instance, $1 of every $3 that finds its way into the State Treasury is distributed to the schools, plus large sums from local taxation. A similar situation exists in many other states. One would say, off-hand, that if the Government is going to spend an additional $855,000,000, there are places besides the schools where it could be spent to greater immediate advantage.

Above and beyond the question of need, above and beyond the question of the ability of the Treasury to stand this added drain, is the graver one as to whether the march toward Federal empire is to be given this added impetus.

They have standardized education in Germany and Italy. Do we want to court the danger of it here?

THE CONSCIENCE OF A GERMAN.

As guest of honor at a dinner in New York Wednesday night, Dr. Ernst W. Meyer disclosed that he had resigned last May as first secretary of the German embassy in Washington. In a statement marked by obvious sincerity, he explained why he could no longer keep silence.

The news informs us that Dr. Meyer, a World War veteran, had been in the diplomatic service 16 years. The full import of his action may thus be appraised. In the circumstances, it is eminently permissible for him to cite his conscience as his counsel. His indictment of "the utterly anti-German, anti-European, anti-Christian character" of the Hitler regime commands a hearing by the authority of honor and knowledge.

Dr. Meyer served in Washington six years under two Ambassadors. The capital, officially, journalistically and socially, knew him well and held him in high esteem. When he declares that he could no longer serve a Government "which I saw to be the foe of so many things I had been taught Germany stands for," the burden of proof rests heavily on that Government.

One wonders how many Germans look with sorrowing eyes on today's Germany, as Dr. Meyer does.

INDIANA'S MAGNIFICO.

Paul V. McNutt has launched his campaign for the presidency with a splash. He has sounded a new and super-elegant note in American politics. He has appealed for popular support with patisserie Viennoise, with mousse of pheasant, with vol au vent fin de siecle. He has said it with flowers, too—gladiolas, snapdragons, iris and willows—and tri-colored candles. Make no mistake about it, this McNutt is the McCoy.

The country has known McNutt as the Governor of Indiana. It has known him as the Philippines' High Commissioner. Along the way, he has collected honorary degrees, Greek-letter designations, ribands of foreign renown to stick in his coat. Now a brighter glory glitters. The country knows him today as the Epicurus of the Wabash, the Sybarite of Hoosierdom.

In the dazzling function, Indiana ideology was revealed. Gov. Townsend speaking. The homespun vernacular may seem incongruous, but the idea is clear enough. "We've got a product to sell, but this is a big country and you have to start a selling campaign early." Started it they have, and with grand-ducal splendor.

Farewell to the symbolic log cabin. Farewell to the simple annals. Farewell to Tom Marshall and his good 5-cent cigar. Other days, other manners. Time is a satirist. Experience a repeater. That Washington hotel may be a far cry from the humble auspices in which our presidential booms were once cradled. But a descendant of Hugh Capet beheld himself as the State in the mirrors of Versailles.

McNutt of Indiana, a reincarnation of Petronius and Chesterfield. Will he make the grade? What'll you bet?

FASCISM IN ILLINOIS.

Three coal miners of Westville, Ill., are under $2000 bond on charges of violation of Illinois' seldom-used criminal syndicalism law. The train of events which led to their arrest begins with a meeting of the American Patriotic Club of Westville, Jan. 13, after which a member of the audience, who had questioned a speaker, was beaten and then placed in jail without bail by order of the State's Attorney. After the trial of the beaten man's assailant, four coal miners were arrested without warrant and held without charge. Protests brought about release of three of the four, but after the Danville Commercial News encouraged the Fascist tactics of the local and county authorities, two more miners were taken into custody. At first it was said that they were to be charged with "inciting to riot." Today the three bewildered defendants are awaiting trial on charges of violation of the so-called anti-treason code of Illinois, enacted during the post-war hysteria.

What Vermilion County does about this case is a matter of concern beyond its borders. Four years ago, Montgomery County, Ill., held some 15 men in jail for weeks at Hillsboro under the same fantastic statute, and then was glad enough to get rid of the case by a compromise which was in effect a victory for the defendants. As a result, Montgomery County and Hillsboro received national notoriety for their invasion of elemental civil rights. The Westville case has essentially the same elements. The wise thing would be to avoid repeating a demonstrated mistake.

PRICE-FIXING IN COAL.

In abolishing its schedule of minimum prices on soft coal, the National Bituminous Coal Commission did the only thing it could do under the circumstances. While not all the 50,000 prices set last December were in suspension, enough of the minimums had been set aside by Federal courts in Chicago, Washington, New York and elsewhere to make it useless to attempt to proceed without a thorough revision.

It is to this task that the commission now addresses itself. Presumably, the price-fixers will take up the many complaints lodged against them and attempt to work out a second set of minimums which will satisfy the objectors. The best the commission can hope to achieve is a reduction in the number of complaints against its prices—a reduction sufficient to permit the law to operate on the basis of a continual process of trial and error.

The seven-member commission, which strangely contains no representative of the Illinois coal industry, although Illinois is one of the three leading coal-producing states, has not indicated whether it will hold public hearings on the new prices. If Chairman Hosford and his colleagues do not want to repeat their mistake, they will make every effort to obtain the benefit of the consumers' point of view. For it was their failure to heed the plea of their consumers' counsel, John Carson, one-time secretary to the late Senator Couzens, which made it almost certain from the beginning that the first minimums would not stand for long.

Meanwhile, the commission ought to be on the steps of the Capitol at Washington asking Congress to take its personnel out of spoils politics. However near its minimum prices may come to pleasing everyone, the commission will be under a tremendous disadvantage so long as it must mix patronage with its difficult business.

Price-fixing by government starts with a tremendous handicap, economic as well as psychological. It can be argued with much persuasion that coal presents a special case, and perhaps it does. But it is yet to be proved, even in this special case, that price-fixing can be operated without mulcting the consumer. The results to date have not been promising.

BEHIND THE CAMOUFLAGE.

Stripped of all its camouflage and the protestations that Austria has preserved her independence, Chancellor Schuschnigg's speech before the Austrian Parliament reveals his country has become a fief of Nazidom.

Without firing a shot or making a hostile gesture, Hitler has accomplished, in effect, the Anschluss which for years has been a major point in his foreign policy. It is a masterpiece of infiltration, agitation and, finally, negotiation.

Just as we now have wars without declaration, Hitler has demonstrated how to annex a country, without formal transfer of sovereignty.

If this were the end of the Nazi dream of conquest, it could be received complacently enough. There are many reasons—ethnical, geographical, commercial—which draw Germany and Austria together.

But it is not the end. It is rather the beginning, the sinister prelude, to further incursions of Nazi-ism in Middle Europe. Next on the program, unless Britain and France find a way to stem Hitler, is Czechoslovakia.

THE WAR DEBT FANTASY.

The immediate semi-official reaction to the Hungarian Government's proposal to pay its debt to the United States in full but without interest indicates that official reasoning on the subject of the war debts has undergone but little change. Hungary borrowed $1,685,000 for the purchase of American wheat. If not a war debt, it was a war-caused debt, and it is feared that an acceptance of the present proposal would create a precedent that might be used for the scaling down of the other foreign debt settlements.

The idea that these settlements will ever be carried out is so fantastic that not even the most credulous member of Congress can be suspected of having any serious belief in it. Yet collection of the debts on the arranged terms remains a national policy in the face of every admitted economic reality.

It should be apparent by now that the collection in full of the outstanding war debts would involve a consumption of foreign goods by the United States to a degree that few Congressmen would think of, much less propose. That being so, the sensible course would be to take the largest payments we could reasonably hope to get and end the matter.

Whatever money we received would put us that much ahead. Moreover, a chronic source of international irritation would have been removed.

Unfortunately, the fiction of a collectible debt and a perversely malingering debtor seems politically more useful to our representatives than any possible result of a more practical policy.

THOSE PROPOSED NEW JUDGESHIPS.

Congress should take its time with the bill to create 27 new Federal judgeships. If it is demonstrated that certain District Judges are behind in their work to such an extent that new Judges are the only solution, then the creation of the new posts is not only desirable but urgent. On the other hand, the creation of new judgeships for political reasons is downright vicious and should be guarded against with all vigilance.

We do not presume to say that the latter situation exists in any district for which a new judgeship is proposed, but a warning signal, at least, has been run up in Kansas. The bill now before the Senate Judiciary Committee calls for a second Judge in the Kansas district. According to Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins of Topeka, there is "no reason in the world" for an additional Judge. This is essentially the testimony of Senator Capper, who told the committee that a second Judge was "unwanted and unnecessary."

Let us have as many Judges as litigation and circumstances require, but let us not make the sorry mistake of creating new ones for patronage purposes.

THE WORLD AND INDIANA.

War Debts—Not Dead, But Sleeping

English are now anxious to settle indebtedness to America, writer finds, but they feel the amount should be scaled down, as sums due them from other countries have been canceled and the money was used in a common cause; international exchange is available to British, and we might even accept payment in kind.

H. B. Elliston, Financial Editor, Christian Science Monitor, in Atlantic Monthly.

THE war-debt issue is a trap for the unwary. Simple was the debt-creating process. All that America did was to open a credit account for Allies buying in the United States. Simple, too, is the domestic financing of rearmament. All that needs to be done is to tax or borrow from your own citizens.

Paying a bill contracted abroad, however, is more complicated. First, the debtor government has to raise the money from its citizens; but then, with the tax receipts, it has to buy dollars. And it all depends upon prior American foreign purchases and lending whether those dollars are available.

It would make the complications worse to rehash the old war-debt arguments: whether the war debt is ethically different from commercial debts; whether some of the war debt was ethically liquidated by service rendered when military America was preparing to enter the lists; whether the war debt is bound up with reparations.

A British signature in 1923 nullified at least the dialectical value of most of these arguments. That was when Mr. (now Lord) Baldwin headed a war-debt mission to Washington. The object was to put the accumulated war-time promises to pay in some permanent debt form equipped with an amortization table. The agreement, concluded after considerable haggling, provided for payments spread over a period of 62 years, and carried an interest rate of 3.3 per cent.

It is one of the ironies of post-war history that the agreement which was thought to be necessary to build up the currency edifice in Europe helped to pull it down again. British policy on both German reparations and inter-allied debts had been based upon the American treatment of the war debts.

It was called the policy of the Balfour note of 1922. Britain was owed more than she owed, apart from reparations; but in the Balfour note, she declared her willingness to join in a general write-off, debts and reparations included. In no circumstances, it was added, would more be asked of British debtors and Germany than was necessary to pay the United States.

Thus the Balfour note implied: no receipts, no payments. When the United States, therefore, insisted upon a settlement, Britain insisted upon settlements from her debtors, and moreover aided France in milking Germany of reparations. No doubt, the burdensome shifting of debt and reparations payments over international borders promoted the exchange crisis in Europe that brought the Humpty-Dumpty of currency stabilization tumbling off the wall.

The Balfour note may be forgotten in the United States. But it still animates much of the war-debt discussion in London. In 1923, the British were not successful in inserting a "safeguard clause" in their debt settlement by way of protecting the principle of the Balfour note.

But no doubt they made a mental reservation that all the debts and reparations stood or fell together, as the French made a written reservation. The reservation may not be cricket, but the British know it.

And yet it must be observed that, in spite of this effort to wriggle out of the Baldwin agreement, the wriggling has not damaged British credit, even in America. Two years ago, I made a canvass of American investment banking opinion on the price that Britain would have to pay for a commercial loan in lump-sum settlement for the war debt. Without hesitation the bankers agreed that such an offering could be marketed in the United States at 3 to 3¼ per cent.

At the Treasury in London, I was shown the accounting, as of last June. It is still being carried in red ink in British Government ledgers, as follows: Reparations paid to Great Britain amount to $610,000,000, war-debt receipts to $350,000,000; total, $960,000,000. Against this sum, the British have paid the United States on war-debt account no less than $2,025,000,000, or twice as much as they have received. Incidentally, this is about half of the amount originally borrowed, which was $4,074,000,000.

For five years, there have been no receipts on reparation and debt account. For five years, consequently, there have been no war-debt payments to the United States beyond a "token" payment or two.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross arrived in the fall of 1933. He proposed, according to gossip, a 10 per cent settlement of the present value of the debt.

But I think the British would better the offer today as part of a general economic entente with the United States. At any rate, I gathered in London that they are anxious to settle. At least, they can no longer proffer the commercial arguments concerning the difficulty of obtaining dollar exchange.

Secretary Hull is offering to reduce any transfer difficulty contained in the Hawley-Smoot tariff. He has even offered to consider deliveries in kind—that is, payments in the same form in which the debts were made.

Americans, in case an offer comes from Britain, should again ask themselves some basic questions.

The first concerns "capacity to pay," one of the American formulas of settlement. Was it ever feasible to assess the ability of debtor nations to pay into the dim future 60 years? And was it not absurdly discriminatory to charge Britain 3.3 per cent, while charging Italy 0.4 per cent?

Was it just to try to collect any interest at all on a debt contracted in a common cause?

There are precedents for the sacrifice of interest in the history of war loans. For instance, French help to America in the Revolutionary War.

To Senator Hiram Johnson and other die-hards, the motto of "all or nothing" may involve a certain pride. But Americans in general, with the prospect of further tax bills ahead of them, may feel that war-debt pride is an expensive luxury.

Moreover, Secretary Hull is a shrewd negotiator. He can be depended upon to combine a reasonable approach with an ability to get the maximum amount on account; possibly, as a side concession, he might obtain the amelioration on behalf of the American consumer of rubber and tin monopolies which thrive under British management. On both sides, however, the main desideratum is an independent determination to come to agreement.

The Kansas Way

From the Anderson Countian (Garnett, Kan.)

UNDER our present system of social welfare, the State of Kansas requires every applicant for old-age assistance to give it a lien on all his real property. This provision is being attacked by many persons on the ground that it is "cruel" and that it discourages old people from being thrifty and acquiring a little property for their old age.

It is hard to see how anyone could object to the law, as the present social welfare scheme is set up. In the first place, one must realize that the people get "old-age assistance" and not an "old-age pension." The former term implies money granted by the State to one in need; the latter means a regular income given as a matter of right to those who have earned a rest by a lifetime of labor.

In other words, old-age assistance is an emergency relief measure, not a pension for services rendered. The lien provision of the law is intended to keep persons who do not need the money off the rolls. It may be argued, of course, that one who lives on a piece of property that is bringing no income, as so many do, may still be unable to provide for himself.

That is true. Many are in this unhappy situation. Yet, at the same time, when an old person of this description dies, what is to become of his property? If he has children, it will go to them. But why did not these children provide for him during his lifetime?

The answer is that in many cases they were able to provide for him and did not. They would rather let the Government do it.

The logical way to do away with the lien is to change the whole idea back of the law. If the lien provision is unsatisfactory, aid to the aged should be in the form of a pension, not a relief grant. If everyone over 65 received $30 a month as an outright pension, there would be no excuse for a lien provision. For under a law of this type, it could be assumed that every person over 65, whether in dire need or not, actually would have "earned" that amount by his lifetime of work.

TEN MILLION $50 CARS.

From the Pittsburgh Press.

TEN million people in this country, says the American Petroleum Institute, are driving used autos which have an average value of only $50. They pay in automotive taxes every year, chiefly in state and Federal taxes on gasoline, as much as their cars are worth.

The A. P. I. cites its figures as evidence that gasoline taxes are too high, and that they fall most heavily on those least able to pay them. Both points, it seems to us, are indisputable. But the figures also suggest some additional thoughts:

1. What remarkably good cars are built by American manufacturers—cars that continue to run, and give reasonably good service, even after they're so old as to be worth only $50 each.

2. What a remarkable country this is, in which 10,000,000 families with incomes ranging downward from $25 a week can own any sort of auto.

3. What a remarkable market there would be for new cars and better used cars if the buying power of each of these 10,000,000 families—more than one-third of all the country's auto owners—could be increased by a few dollars a week.

The Knight With the Wooden Sword

IN a time like this when so much is hidden, when the policies of so many states are backed by sudden violence and are meant to surprise, it is not easy to estimate confidently the consequences of an event like Anthony Eden's resignation. For it is necessary to remember that though Mr. Eden sincerely believes in the principles of the League and of democratic resistance to the designs of the military dictatorships, in fact his term of office has been marked by a series of humiliating surrenders and submissions. Between what Mr. Eden has wanted to do and what he has been compelled to do there has been a very great difference. It cannot be a bad thing to liquidate a situation which can cause the friends of democracy to look upon Mr. Eden as their champion when he defines his principles and to feel betrayed when they look at the record.

The crux of the matter, it seems to me, is that ever since the Ethiopian affair Mr. Eden has been in an impossible position. The failure of Mr. Eden's conduct of British foreign policy is due in the last analysis to the fact that the democracies have wanted policies for which they were not prepared to pay the price. Mr. Eden has voiced their aspirations. But he has not controlled their behavior. They have been unwilling to admit that the adversaries of democracy are ready to kill and to be killed in order to achieve their purposes, and that as against men who are in this mood, words, moral attitudes, economic threats and blank cartridges are altogether unavailing.

What is more, the democracies have not realized that to take the high moral attitude with the dictators when the dictators believe that it is a pious bluff is the most dangerous of all courses which a government can pursue. For the high sentiments do not restrain the aggression, and the constant yielding encourages it. It arouses the kind of contempt which Hitler displayed on Sunday, and in the end is almost certain to lead to some incident where the government is trapped and compelled to fight anyway.

Mr. Eden's resignation brings the democracies to a point where they have to make up their minds to fish or cut bait. If they are going to stand by Mr. Eden's principles, then in the world as it now is, they must convince themselves to begin with, and then the dictators, that at some definite point they will stand and fight for those principles. In dealing with these warrior statesmen, the democracies must not delude themselves with the idea that there is any bloodless, inexpensive and pleasant substitute for the willingness to go to war. Collective security, economic sanctions, moral pressure can be made effective only by nations known to be willing to go to war if necessary.

If that willingness to fight does not exist, then Mr. Chamberlain is right when he concludes that he must try to make tolerable terms with the dictators. It is one thing or the other. For more than three years, Europe has been denouncing aggression and retreating before it, and this disparity between principles and practice is so utterly demoralizing that, if it continues much longer, the contempt of the dictators for the democracies will become so great that they will become utterly reckless and their actions without bounds.

It is far better, so at least it seems to me, for Mr. Chamberlain to test out to the limit the possibility of a bargain with Italy and Germany, and to have Mr. Eden on the outside, if the bargain cannot be concluded or if the terms are too severe and too dishonorable, prepared for a return to power with a real mandate from the British people.

Fortunately, Great Britain is a democracy, so that the terms of the bargain will have to be submitted to popular debate. If they are in any way tolerable terms, the maintenance of peace will be worth a heavy price. If the terms are intolerable, then at last perhaps the democratic peoples may decide that their heritage is worth defending and they may set up governments that do not have to brandish wooden swords. Then, it may be, we shall see an end to the proclamation of noble principles just before and just after they have been in practice abandoned.

SCHOOL BOARD DEFERS ACTION ON TAX RATE

Compromise Proposal to Cut Levy to 80 Cents for 1938 Goes Over to March 8.

Action on a proposal to reduce the school tax rate from 85 to 80 cents on the $100 valuation for 1938, at a cost of $500,000 in revenue, was deferred by the Board of Education yesterday until the regular meeting March 8.

The suggestion, as made by Arthur A. Blumeyer, chairman of a special committee for contact with city officials, would not change the proposition in the special election April 5, which would authorize an 85-cent maximum rate for the next four years. Blumeyer's proposal also provides for the levy by the city, for this year only, of a special 5-cent tax rate which would yield $500,000 toward the cost of public relief.

In making this suggestion, Blumeyer sought to arrange a compromise with the municipal Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which has announced it would not support an 85-cent school tax rate but would favor a 75-cent levy, allowing the city to impose for an unlimited time a new 10-cent tax to provide funds for relief, without increasing the aggregate tax rate.

Whether the compromise, intended to win support for the school tax proposition from Mayor Dickmann's Democratic machine, would be acceptable to the Board of Estimate has not been learned by the School Board. Blumeyer's committee, of which Mark D. Eagleton and Thomas F. Quinn also are members, held a private discussion for an hour and a half yesterday with the Board of Estimate, comprising the Mayor, Comptroller Nolte and Aldermanic President Mason. It was learned that there was resentment on both sides about statements being made for or against the school tax, and the conference was outspoken.

As a result, school board members were called to a special informal meeting yesterday. No vote or canvass was taken, but several of the 10 members present indicated varying degrees of opposition to the proposal. Others were inclined to adopt the compromise.

The school board was informed by the special committee that the Board of Estimate would co-operate in an effort to have the Legislature amend the method of distributing the State school fund so that St. Louis would receive an additional $800,000 a year. However, this additional income would not be available before about November, 1939.

Blumeyer suggested that the loss of $500,000 revenue in the next fiscal year could be met by delaying construction of the new Stowe (Negro) Teachers' College, which might be necessary anyway because condemnation of a small part of the site is pending. Alternatives would be reduction of the board's surplus of working capital below the minimum the board has considered necessary, or curtailment of the next year's budget. Heretofore the board has unanimously opposed the city's proposition.

Employes of the school board, with the board's informal approval, have been soliciting voters' pledges for the 85-cent proposition. Some voters, they have reported, have expressed approval in the belief that whatever cut might be made in the school tax rate would be absorbed by the city, while others have objected that their taxes were too high.

Carpenters' Local Union No. 47 today announced its approval of the 85-cent rate.

TRAFFORD TAYLOR, KIWANIS PRESIDENT, VISITS ST. LOUIS

Canadian and Wife Pause Here Briefly on Tour in Interest of San Francisco Convention.

Trafford Taylor of Manitoba, Canada, president of the Kiwanis International, was in St. Louis yesterday on a tour of inspection of Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States. He departed last night.

While here Taylor conferred with local officers of the organization and went on a sight-seeing tour of the city, remarking afterward that he had never "seen a finer public park system or zoo."

The work being performed by Kiwanis International, he believes, has been and will continue to be a means of better co-operation and understanding between the United States and Canada. Elected president at an annual Kiwanis convention last June, one of his purposes on this trip is to arouse interest in the approaching convention at San Francisco. His wife is accompanying him.

H. J. Henninger Dies.

Henry J. Henninger, 71-year-old vice-president of the Herzler & Henninger Machine Works, which manufactures mining machinery, died of heart disease yesterday at his home, 824 South Church street, Belleville. Surviving is his wife, Bertha.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

PARTIAL plans for the wedding of Miss Carol Crane Lucas, daughter of former St. Louisans, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver G. Lucas of New Orleans, and Morton Qvistgaard Petersen, have been announced. The ceremony will be read at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, March 29, at Trinity Episcopal Church. A reception will follow at the home of the parents of the bride-elect, 21 Audubon place. A complete list of attendants has not been concluded but a St. Louis girl will be among the bridesmaids: Miss Nancy Houser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas B. Houser, 6470 Ellenwood avenue.

The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaga Qvistgaard Petersen, also of New Orleans.

Mrs. William Watkins Moulton, 1 Lenox place, left yesterday for Venice, Fla., where she will join Mrs. David D. Walker III, of Overhills drive, and Mrs. Dumont G. Dempsey, 7515 Buckingham drive, who left Wednesday for the resort. They plan to remain about three weeks, and will be joined later by Mr. Moulton, Mr. Walker and Mr. Dempsey.

Mrs. Arthur Frederick Miller of New York, the former Miss Carolyn Bailey of St. Louis, is expected here later in the spring with her two children for her annual visit. They will visit Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bailey, 4556 West Pine boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will have as their guest in April their sister-in-law, Mrs. Howard Bailey, who has been living in Los Angeles for the past two years.

St. Louisans, who have spent the late winter in Mexico, D. F., are returning home. Tomorrow is the date set for the return of Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Eakin, 56 Kingsbury place, and their daughter, Miss Rosemary. The Eakins were accompanied on this month's trip by Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Norcross of Tyronza, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Farrar, Edgewood road, have been motoring through Mexico the past few weeks and will return to St. Louis next week. Dr. and Mrs. Howard A. Rusk, Litzsinger road, are other recent sojourners in the southern country. They have returned home.

Two debutantes of this winter, who left for college after the Christmas holidays, will return to St. Louis for a short spring vacation next month, arriving about March 26 and staying until April 6. They are Miss Dorothy Lee Post, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. Hayward Post, 501 Clara avenue, who is attending Sarah Lawrence College, and Miss Elizabeth Warren Funsten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Funsten, McKnight road, a student at Vassar College.

Miss Post will be entertained at a party by Mrs. Truman Post Young, 1 Harcourt drive, Clayton, who will give an all-day outing at her country place near Eureka, Mo., Sunday, April 3.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss June Mershimer, daughter of Mrs. J. Wesley Huss, 1109 South Orchard avenue, Urbana, Ill., and Rene G. DuBois, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gaston DuBois, 8 Crestwood drive. The wedding will take place Sunday, March 13, in Urbana, where Mr. DuBois is a senior in the Law School of the University of Illinois. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Miss Mershimer completed her studies at Illinois University last month.

Mr. DuBois' parents, his debutante sister, Miss Marguerite, his brother, Fred, who is to be best man, and a group of friends will motor to Urbana for the ceremony, which is to be performed by a Presbyterian minister, in the chapter house of Alpha Omicron Pi, to which Miss Mershimer belongs.

After greeting their friends informally at a reception, Mr. DuBois and his bride will leave for California to sail for Manila, where they will remain indefinitely. Mr. DuBois is a statistician.

Five St. Louis girls visiting the ski resort, Jackson, N. H., were joined there last week-end by Miss Claire Angert, daughter of Mrs. Borden S. Veeder, Kent and Clayton roads, who is at the Stuart School, Boston. The debutantes from St. Louis include Miss Nancy Lee Morrill, Miss Frances McPheeters, Miss Frances Moore, Miss Eleanor McCarthy and Miss Mary Lee Smidt.

Also at Jackson last week-end were Edward Grace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Grace, 246 Spencer road, Webster Groves; Frederick B. Ewing Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Ewing, 212 North Kingshighway, both students at Dartmouth College; Eugene Pettus Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pettus, 4949 Pershing avenue, and Allan Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan L. Snyder, 484 Lake avenue, students at Harvard University.

The four young women, prospective debutantes of next winter, who are traveling abroad under the chaperonage of Mrs. Atwell T. Lincoln, have arrived in Greece, following journeys in Egypt. They are Miss Becky Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells; Miss Martha Bixby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bixby; Miss Suzanne White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. White, and Miss Marian Spink Merrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Walbridge Merrell.

After a few days in Greece, the party will go to Genoa, Italy, thence to France. Nice will be the first stop in the latter country, to be followed by two or three weeks in Paris. The final stage of the tour will be in England. The five will sail for home April 20, aboard the Queen Mary. They will reach St. Louis a week later.

Mrs. Alvan B. Goodbar of the Fairmont Hotel has returned from Scarsdale, N. Y., where she had been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albin K. Schoepf.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton Farish, 5221 Westminster place, are spending two weeks in Gulfport, Miss. They are expected home next week.

Mrs. George E. Hoffman, 4 North Kingshighway, is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Ellen Lee Hoffman Breshear and Mrs. Breshear's young daughter, Ellen Lee, in La Jolla, Cal.

Mrs. Warren Burnet Lammert of Ladue and Denny roads and her young son, are spending three weeks with relatives in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Mrs. Lammert's sister-in-law, Mrs. Elliot Kingman Ludington Jr., of Greenwich, Conn., formerly of St. Louis, is with her. They will remain a week longer.

Mrs. Thomas M. Meston of the Kingsbury apartments, 501 Clara avenue, and her debutante daughter, Miss Susan, will leave here tomorrow morning for Hollywood, Fla. They shipped their car and trunks 10 days ago, but were delayed because of illness. They will motor to other Florida resorts. They will be away several weeks.

Mrs. James Lee Damron of Memphis, Tenn., has arrived to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McFall Megginson, 28 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves. Mrs. Damron is the former Miss Eloise Megginson. Mrs. Megginson returned recently from Memphis after visiting her son-in-law and daughter.

Mrs. Clarence L. Fisher of "Four Winds," Kimmswick, Mo., accompanied by Mrs. M. W. Brown, has gone to Corpus Christi, Tex., for the month of March. They will also visit San Antonio, Tex., and New Orleans.

Mrs. Ernest W. Stix, 6470 Forsythe boulevard, has recently returned from a visit to New York, and Cambridge, Mass., where she was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Merle Fainsod, and her son, Ernest W. Stix Jr., a senior this year at Harvard University. Mr. Stix, who accompanied her East, preceded her home.

'THE PLOUGH AND THE STARS' PRESENTED BY ABBEY GROUP

Celebrated Sean O'Casey Tragedy to Be Repeated Tonight at American.

One of the most famous of Abbey Theater plays, "The Plough and the Stars," which was not presented on the previous visit of the group in 1935, was brought forth last night at the American Theater and will be repeated there this evening.

Having to do with the Easter week rebellion of 1916 in Dublin, "The Plough and the Stars" is a four-act tragedy written with uncompromising realism. In it Sean O'Casey not only depicted "the trouble" and its cost in lives but the general misery of the poor and the division of Irish feelings themselves and added a generous amount of good humor.

Up to the middle of the third act the play moves in a leisurely and even genial fashion and it is in such a period that the Abbey Players have their best opportunities for character sketching. Maureen Delany as the British-sympathizing slattern, Bessie Burgess; Denis O'Dea as the hot-headed young Covey, May Craig as Mrs. Gogan, Michael Dolan as Peter Flynn and P. J. Carolan as Fluther were especially appreciated.

Later on, the bitter outcome, which was prettied up in the Barbara Stanwyck-Preston Foster picture version last year, is not so convincing and the tragedy does not elicit much sympathy for its victims. Staging of the show, too, is feeble, with the riots and revolution from offstage mere clicks and clatter and thump of drums.

The closing play in the Abbey engagement will be Lennox Robinson's comedy, "The Far-Off Hills," to be given tomorrow afternoon and evening. —C. Mc.

FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW FOR JOSEPH W. KUESER

Vice-President of Knapp-Monarch Co. Succumbs at Home in Webster Groves.

The funeral of Joseph W. Kueser, vice-president of the Knapp-Monarch Co., who died of a kidney ailment yesterday at his home, 455 West Swon avenue, Webster Groves, will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow from the Oscar J. Hoffmeister undertaking establishment, Chippewa street and Gravois avenue, to Mary Queen of Peace Church, Glendale. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Kueser was 45 years old. He had been vice-president of the company, which manufactures electrical appliances, since 1929, when he assisted in its organization.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Grace Carrigan Kueser; three sons, John J., Donald W. and Robert A. Kueser; a daughter, Miss Mary Jane Kueser; his father, John W. Kueser; and two sisters, Mrs. William H. Curran and Mrs. Hugo Albrecht.

STRING QUARTET PLAYS AT SOUTHWEST SCHOOL

Audience of 800 Hears Concert, the Second of a Series.

CHAMBER music as popular entertainment was exemplified in the second of a series of concerts by the St. Louis String Quartet presented before an audience estimated at 800 persons last night at the handsome new Southwest High School, 3115 South Kingshighway.

Since chamber music audiences have been better known here for enthusiasm than for numbers, it might be well to seek the formula here.

First, it's all in a worthy cause, that of scholarships in Washington University supported by the Public School Patrons' Alliance. The admission fees are decidedly "popular." The audience is numerously youthful, and, if occasionally restless, yet youthfully appreciative. The concerts are homey affairs, judging by last night's performance, with frequent brief and chatty speeches by educators and patrons.

But these aspects would apply to the series as a whole. To show why last night's audience was larger by more than 200 persons than the first concert's, one has to consider the main business of the evening, the music.

The program had substance, grace and songfulness in the Mozart Quartet in G Major and the Schubert Quartet in A Minor, Opus 29. Three brief and familiar numbers were interposed between the main works, but only one, the devious Bridge arrangement of Londonderry Air, could fairly be considered the ham between generous slices of the musical bread of life. As performed, the others, "Molly on the Shore" and the Pochon arrangement of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," were out of that category.

Any incidental lacks in the ensemble could be forgiven in the fact that it is yet young, and could be quite forgotten in a total effect singularly gracious and pleasing. The members, all Symphony Orchestra men, include Max Tartasky, first, and Harry Melnikoff, second violin; Richard Dickler, viola, and Martin Teicholz, 'cello. One may expect their engaging quality to grow no less and their suavity to increase in the remainder of the series—March 10 at Beaumont High School and March 24 at Soldan. —H. E. D.

How to be Popular—

IN ONE EASY LESSON

DON'T WORRY ABOUT BEING POPULAR—YOU CAN WIN THAT BEAU! MEN ALWAYS FALL FOR LOVELY SKIN
DON'T RISK LOSING THE CHARM OF LOVELY SKIN. USE COSMETICS ALL YOU LIKE, BUT REMOVE THEM THOROUGHLY WITH LUX TOILET SOAP
THAT'S HOW I PROTECT MY COMPLEXION. LUX TOILET SOAP IS WONDERFUL FOR KEEPING SKIN SOFT AND SMOOTH
LUX TOILET SOAP

VIRGINIA BRUCE'S LESSON on how to be popular is easy to follow.

It's when pores get choked with dust and dirt, stale cosmetics that complexions get dull and lifeless. Lux Toilet Soap's ACTIVE lather removes cosmetics thoroughly—keeps skin really lovely.

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. Why don't you make it your regular complexion care? Use it before you renew make-up—ALWAYS before you go to bed at night. You'll find it pays!

9 OUT OF 10 SCREEN STARS USE LUX TOILET SOAP

TWO HOLD UP 8 CUSTOMERS IN $40 GROCERY ROBBERY

Five Women in Group Herded to Back of Store by Man Armed With Revolver.

Two holdup men who entered a chain grocery at 3901 Greer avenue about 6:15 p. m. yesterday, forced the manager, clerk and eight customers, including five women, to stand together at the back of the store. While one robber, holding a revolver, guarded them, his companion removed $40 from two cash registers. The robbers fled after warning Harold Black, manager, Ruben Nations, clerk, and the customers to stay where they were.

Herbert and Carl Parks, brothers conducting a confectionery at 2424 South Tenth street, were held up about 6:40 p. m. by two men, armed with revolvers, who took $31 from Herbert Park's pockets and $51 from the cash register, then fled.

A drug store at 3101 California avenue was robbed by a man who threatened the proprietor, Robert A. Otto, with a revolver and forced him to hand over $17 from the cash register. He ordered Otto, a clerk and a customer to stand behind the prescription counter, then ran from the store.

F C A EMPLOYE ORDERED TO PAY STATE INCOME TAX

Missouri Supreme Court Rules Against Woman Who Claimed Immunity.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25.—The State Supreme Court en banc ruled today that an employe of the Federal Farm Credit Administration must pay a State income tax. It affirmed a ruling of a St. Louis Circuit Court that Marion Bowles must pay a $3.48 State levy on her 1934 salary as a joint employe of four units of the F C A. The suit was filed by William F. Baumann, St. Louis City Collector. The defendant argued in her appeal that she was an employe of a Federal instrumentality and thus immune to taxation under the United States Constitution.

The opinion said: "It is admitted that the four units of the Farm Credit Administration are Federal instrumentalities, created for public purposes. Even so, the business of said units is of a private nature. Furthermore, the activities of the Farm Credit Administration are not traditional Federal governmental activities."

A St. Louis Chauffeur with the Brashear Trucking Co. writes:

"A year ago I purchased through your Mr. Grover Hess a reconditioned Chevrolet coach. I have driven this car 9,000 miles and my only expense for repairs has been $1.00 for adjusting brakes. I am so well pleased that I can heartily recommend your reconditioned OK used cars to all my friends."

Alan R. Hawley Will.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Alan R. Hawley, who established the world's long-distance free balloon record in 1910, made cash bequests of approximately $70,000 and established trusts totaling $75,000 for individuals in his will filed yesterday. He died Feb. 16. He also provided a residuary trust mainly for two Episcopal schools here. To Maj. Augustus Post, who was his companion on the 1910 flight which ended after two days in the Canadian wilderness, Hawley left $3000 and the income from $10,000.

OAKLAND RESIDENCE BURNS; $25,000 LOSS

16-Room House of Reed B. Timmers Destroyed by Flames.

Fire last evening destroyed the 16-room frame residence of Reed B. Timmers at 725 East Monroe avenue, Oakland, with a loss estimated at $25,000.

Timmers, an insurance consultant, and members of his family were away when the fire started from an undetermined cause. His son, Joseph, 11 years old, returning from school shortly after 5 o'clock, saw the flames and called the Oakland fire department about 'the same time an alarm was turned in from the nearby Ursuline Academy.

Fire departments of Webster Groves and Kirkwood were also summoned, but their combined efforts did not check the blaze. Starting near a stair well which ran from the basement to the third floor, the fire spread rapidly, fed by a draft up the stair well.

The nearest fire plug was a quarter of a mile away in Kirkwood, three lines of hose were laid to the house. Firemen continued pouring water on the embers until after 1 o'clock this morning.

Timmers, his son Richard, 9; and his daughter, Jane, 5, left the house about 4 o'clock and walked to Kirkwood, where they met Mrs. Timmers. They did not return until after 6 o'clock. Unable at first to find Joseph, they feared for his safety until he was found in the gathering of several hundred spectators.

Built 27 years ago at a cost of $38,000, the residence was acquired by Timmers a year and a half ago for $14,500. Its furnishings, he said, were appraised recently at $9500. Insurance on the house and contents totaled $22,500.

Designed in the style of old Virginia manors, the house had across its front imposing wooden pillars which reached from the foundation to the eaves. It was once the home of Orville Jennings, at that time the head of the electricians' union in St. Louis.

15-DAY TERM, $150 FINE ON CARELESS DRIVING CHARGE

Motorist Arrested After Auto and Truck Collide Pleads Not Guilty and Appeals.

Andrew McKinnis, Negro laborer, 4247 Garfield avenue, was sentenced to 15 days in the workhouse, had his driver's license suspended for three months, and was fined $150 yesterday for careless driving by Police Judge Edward M. Ruddy, who also fined him $10 for failure to make a boulevard stop.

McKinnis, who pleaded not guilty and appealed, was arrested Jan. 22, after his automobile struck a truck at Channing avenue and Delmar boulevard. He testified he observed the stop, but that the truck approached the intersection at too high a rate of speed for him to avoid hitting it.

Man Missing After Barge Fire.

By the Associated Press.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Feb. 25.—George Leardvick of Toledo, O., engineer of the barge Hygrade No. 16, carrying 900,000 gallons of gasoline, was thought to have been killed yesterday in an explosion and fire aboard the craft in Long Island Sound. Gunnar Eltoft of Brooklyn, N. Y., the master, was thrown from his bunk, but he leaped overboard and was rescued.

EVEN BILLIONS PAID IN TAX ON GASOLINE

atistics on 19th Anniversary of First Levy—Missourians Paid $136,725,000.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

ASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Today is nineteenth birthday of the gaso- e tax in this country, the first sessment of this sort, at a rate of cent a gallon, having been ied by Oregon in 1919. In ob- rvance of the anniversary, the erican Petroleum Industries mittee has issued a table of sta- tics showing, among other facts, at Missouri motorists during the t 12 years have paid a total of 6,725,000 in State and Federal xes on gasoline. The total for the untry at large is estimated at 7,144,584,000.

The Missouri State tax on gaso- e was imposed in 1925, and has elded to date $108,523,000, of which 1,490,000 was collected in 1937. e Federal tax began in 1932, and issouri's contribution since that me is put at $28,202,000, of which 650,000 was paid in 1937.

California leads all the States in al gasoline taxes paid —$527,180,- since 1923. Pennsylvania is cond with $487,379,000 paid since 1, and New York is third with 73,172,000 since 1929. Other large xpayers in the grand total column clude Ohio, $469,762,000; Texas, 85,145,000; Illinois, $321,326,000, d Michigan, $305,567,000. New rk stood first of all states in th local and Federal taxes col- cted during 1937, with a total of 3,465,000.

Oregon's example spread about e country until, by 1929, all of e States were imposing gasoline xes, with a progressive increase f rates. It has been generally stipulated that revenues from this source must be devoted to the construction and maintenance of highways. But in recent years the practice of diverting larger and larger sums to non-highway purposes has grown, until today, on a country-wide average, 20 per cent of all gasoline taxes collected are thus diverted. New York leads in this respect; it has turned over a total of more than $300,000,000 to "general purposes," a sum equal to one-third of the total diversions in all States.

Literary Digest Reorganizing.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—The Literary Digest announced yesterday its suspension from publication for two issues in connection with a reorganization of the company. Regular weekly publication probably will be resumed, the announcement said, with the issue of March 12, adding the magazine was solvent.

LAZZERI NAMED ON CUBS' FIVE-MAN BOARD OF STRATEGY

FORMER YANKEE ALSO ELIGIBLE AS INFIELDER

Reds Have Five and White Sox Four Players Unsigned — Lloyd Waner Signs Contract.

By the Associated Press.

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Feb. 25.—The curtain of mystery hiding the connection Tony Lazzeri will have with the Chicago Cubs this season was lifted today.

Lazzeri, after 12 years with the World Champion New York Yankees, will serve as one of the principal members of Manager Charlie Grimm's newly created board of strategy, organized to bring the 1938 National League championship to Chicago.

The other members will be Charles Leo "Gabby" Harnett, rated as the outstanding catcher in the major leagues, and the two veteran coaches, John "Red" Corriden and Roy Johnson. Hartnett, in addition to signing as a catcher, also signed a coaching contract this season.

Lazzeri also will be available as utility infielder.

Have Made Last Offer.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 25.—Warren Giles, front office boss of the Cincinnati Reds, issued an ultimatum to holdouts as the team assembled here today for spring training which gets under way tomorrow.

"Holdout members of the squad can sign at our figure or stay out of baseball," he said.

Five headliners, Paul Derringer, Ernest Lombardi, Chick Hafey, Buck Jordan and Linus Frey remain unsigned.

"We have made them our last offer," Giles declared with nary a twinkle in his eye. "The salary the club has offered to each of these men is fair. They can take it or leave it."

Must Pay Own Expenses.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Owner Lou Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox "laid down the law" to his four holdouts today.

"Players not signed in time to report for the opening of spring training at Pasadena, Cal., March 3, will have to pay their own training expenses until they get in shape and also will be fined $100 a day for every practice day missed," Comiskey said.

The four players still outside the contract fold are first baseman Zeke Bonura, pitcher Merritt Cain, outfielder Rip Radcliff and catcher Luke Sewell. All four sent back their unsigned contracts this week.

Lloyd Waner Signs.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 25. — Outfielder Lloyd Waner assured today the continuance of the Pittsburgh Pirates' famed brother act by returning his signed contract for the 1938 season from his home in Sarasota, Fla. Brother Paul signed up last week following a conference with President William Benswanger.

Moses Confers With Mack.

LAKE CHARLES, La., Feb. 25. —Wally Moses, the only member of the Philadelphia Athletics who has not signed a contract, arrived here yesterday for a conference with Connie Mack.

The hustling ace of the A's outfield was not scheduled to report until next week but he and Mrs. Moses motored in early to try and bridge the gap between what Wally wants and what Connie wants to give him.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 25.—Whitlow Wyatt, right-handed relief pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, was released last night to the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association as part payment for Kenneth Keltner, rookie third baseman, Secretary Frank Kohlbecker of the Tribe announced.

Stripp and Rickey Fail to Agree on Contract Terms

By the Associated Press.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., Feb. 25. —Joe Stripp, St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, conferred with Branch Rickey- vice-president and general manager of the club, for three hours today without reaching an understanding about his 1938 contract.

"I'm still a holdout," the star infielder said as he came out of the hotel. "It's up to the Cards now."

Rickey declined comment but Stripp said he was insisting on $10,000 for the season. A reliabl source reported the Cardinals offered him $7500. The Cardinals never make public terms of their contracts.

Macomb Teachers Lead.

MACOMB, Ill., Feb. 25.—Western Illinois Teachers of Macomb regained undisputed first place in the Illinois intercollegiate conference basketball race last night by defeating St. Viator, 39 to 32. It was Western's sixth victory in seven conference starts and broke a tie which Southern Teachers achieved Wednesday night by winning over Eastern.

Meet Catcher Padgett

Down at Winter Haven, Fla., Don Padgett, who played right field for the Cardinals last season, is majoring in catching in Branch Rickey's baseball school. The Redbird casting director believes Don has a chance of becoming a receiver and aid to Mickey Owen. Here he is shown in action as a backstop.

extra innings by J. Roy Stockton

The New Dizzy Dean.

THE ease with which Branch Rickey persuaded Jerome Herman Dean to decorate the dotted line of a 1938 contract is one of the most encouraging things in the picture as the Redbirds prepare for the new pennant race. For there is no question about it, Dizzy Dean is a highly important member of the Gas House Gang.

Dizzy deserves compliments and begonias. He has handled himself superbly. It matters not what caused the Big Change in Dizzy Dean. The point is that he has changed. Not a blast from Bradenton about Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey being this or that. Not a blast about the staggering ball club that fought behind Dizzy in the unfortunate season of 1937. No criticism of anybody.

Mildly hurt at being offered a contract calling for a measly $10,000—and you'll have to pardon a man who received $25,500 one year if he considers ten grand a measly offer the next—Dizzy merely shrugged his shoulders and said he didn't think the club would insist on his taking a major operation; that he was willing to take a cut.

Match that if you can. Dizzy Dean agreeing to take a cut! And then to make the picture 100 per cent amazing, Jerome Herman signed at his first conference with Rickey, after only 2½ hours. Usually it took Dizzy at least 2½ weeks to find a day open when he could spare a spot of time for Uncle Branch. And of course he had to walk out of Conferences 1, 2 and usually 3, in high dudgeon.

The New Branch Rickey.

PROFESSOR RICKEY also merits a huzza, a bravo and a blare of trumpets. He also has displayed unusual, almost unbelievable self-control. When he felt that old Rickey urge to dash off a letter or two, tantalizing despite or by virtue of their polysyllabic grandiloquence which proved his erudition beyond the peradventure of a doubt, he told Satan to get behind him. Except that he popped off late last season to the effect that Dizzy ought to retire for a year, Branch hasn't even said anything to aggravate the Dean situation.

Why Rickey charted such a tactful course is unimportant, too. Perhaps the club realized this year that it needed a great Dizzy Dean and needed him badly.

At any rate, there seems to be peace in the Cardinal family and if it can be maintained through April and May on through the months of baseball competition, the Redbirds' chances of continuing their diamond activities into October are brighter.

As Dizzy Goes, Etc.

MUCH, perhaps everything, depends on Dizzy Dean. It is true that the Cardinals won pennants without Dean. In fact, they have won four without him and only one with him. But there was a Sherdel and an Alexander and a Grimes and a Haines and a Hallahan, not to mention the Reinharts, the Rhems, the Keens and the Lindseys. They have gone now. Only Dean remains and if he is happy and right, he is enough. With Dean winning 25 or 30 games, the Cardinals are good enough, given a break or two in the recruit department, to meet all challenges in the league. A Dizzy Dean, striving always, with no sore toes, no sore arms, and no sore heads, can be a tremendous inspiration to a ball club.

Yes, Dizzy and Branch—the new Dizzy and the new Branch—are to be congratulated. Huzza and a couple of bravos!

Joe the Duck Next.

THE next important announcement from Winter Haven will be that Joseph Michael Medwick, the Hungarian Rhapsody, has accepted terms. The announcement will be made. Rickey has spoken. He has said that when the training season opens, Joe Stripp will be the only Cardinal holdout. That means that there is no serious margin between the salary that Medwick wants and the salary that the club is willing to pay. Joe has asked for $25,000. He will sign for about $20,000. And incidentally, the writer's guess is that Dizzy Dean signed for approximately that figure. This year, more than any other, the Cardinals know that they need a Dizzy Dean—a happy Dizzy—and if Jerome Herman is a happy warrior, through the short five and a half months of his year's campaign, he'll be worth far more than $20,000 to the St. Louis National League club.

Rickey, it is reported, has invited Paul Dean to enroll in the baseball school at Winter Haven and if Paul wants to come back he certainly should hasten to accept. Paul will know soon if he is through with baseball. He has shown an unfortunate tendency to take on weight, especially around the hips and thighs. Last spring the uniform trousers that he had worn comfortably in 1936, looked like a pair of tights on Dizzy's brother. Even if his arm is all right again, he faces a tremendous task in trying to get into playing condition. A pitcher must be able to move about with some agility. Last year Paul seemed to be carrying a piano on his back. It will take every day available to get him into condition—if it is possible.

BUHLER AND HUERTGEN TAKE TWO-LAP LEAD IN MILWAUKEE BIKE RACE

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 25.—The team of Ernst Buhler and Gotfried Huertgen stole a two-lap lead after a 40-minute jamming session in the international six-day bike race last night.

Kilian and Vopel, former leaders, dropped two laps behind in a tie for second place with Rodak and Korsmeier. Standings at midnight, twenty-seventh hour:

COOPER LEADING CHOICE IN OPEN AT THOMASVILLE

By the Associated Press.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 25.—Lighthorse Harry Cooper, professional golf's leading money winner of the winter campaign, said today the game's new 14-club rule had given him a chance to become acquainted with his clubs.

"It gives you more confidence, too, in the clubs you are using," said the mechanical shotmaker from Chicopee, Mass.

The English-born Cooper, a ranking candidate for the Harry Vardon low-scoring trophy, sounded the keynote of a majority of the golfing fraternity here to compete in the $3000 Thomasville open, starting today, but there were some dissenters.

On the side favoring the new rule, limiting each player to 14 clubs after Jan. 1 of this year, was Gene Sarazen, the farmer-golfer from Brookfield Center, Conn.

"Scores are lower," said Farmer Gene, "because you have less to think about. Previously, the pros had too many clubs and spent too much time studying shots. In earlier times fellows like Harry Vardon won tournaments with a few clubs they had mastered.

"No one could digest 25 or 27 clubs, anyway."

Locker room gossip established a trio of Chicagoans as favorites for the event here, Cooper, winner last Monday at New Orleans; Johnny Revolta, the former P. G. A. champion, and Dick Metz, the 28-year-old curly-haired sharpshooter who triumphed in this meet a year ago.

After some 18 hours of cold rainfall, a bright sun beamed down on the 6544-yard layout as a forerunner to what appeared as the best playing conditions the professionals have encountered on the winter circuit.

NICHOLSON NAMED REFEREE OF ANNUAL DRAKE RELAY GAMES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Feb. 25.—John Patrick Nicholson, now in his eleventh season as Notre Dame coach, has been named referee of the twenty-ninth annual Drake relays to be held at Des Moines, Ia., April 29 and 30, it was learned here today.

The honor comes as a fitting climax to a track career in which Nicholson has been prominent as a competitor and coach. He was a United States Olympic star in the hurdles in 1912, after winning several national meets while running for the University of Missouri. He had set a national interscholastic high jump record at McKinley High of St. Louis. Nicholson was twice high point man in the Western Conference meet, at that time an open affair, and he shared the world's record of 15 seconds flat in the 120-yard high hurdles.

He instituted the Rice relays while coaching at Rice University. He coached Sewanee to the Southern Conference championship. He also coached summers in Canada, turning out several Canadian championship teams at the Hamilton A. C. and the Montreal A. A. His Canadian team won the British Empire games in 1930.

Toles Declines To Fight Walker; Howell in Place

Roscoe Toles, Negro heavyweight, has refused to go through with his match with Obie Walker at the Auditorium Tuesday night, Matchmaker Jack Callahan announced today and Jim Howell, another Negro heavyweight, has been substituted for him.

Callahan declared he would present the facts to Russell Murphy, Missouri commissioner, upon Murphy's return to the city and ask that Toles be suspended.

Howell is 22 years old, six feet tall and weighs 200 pounds, Callahan says, and in a meeting with Jack Trammell boxed a draw. Trammell is to box Andre Lenglet, French heavyweight, in the 10-round main event.

Robert Sweeny Concerned About Youth of British Walker Cup Team

By the Associated Press.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 25. — Robert Sweeny, American-born British amateur champion, entertains no illusions that John Bull's youngest golf team in history will break Uncle Sam's Walker cup winning streak this year.

Sweeny, who was born in Pasadena, Cal., isn't sure whether Great Britain's sudden switch from the old guard to the youngsters is "a good or a bad thing."

"It is to be proved," he said yesterday. "Tony Torrance is a fine golfer. He never lost a Walker Cup match—and I believe he played in three—but he hasn't yet been selected for this year's team.

"After the last matches there was an outcry that the team was stuffy, that the Championship Committee didn't know the younger players. So they've gone, I think, to the other extreme."

Sweeny wasn't even sure of the names of the newcomers. "They're all so much younger than I am," he explained. Sweeny, incidentally, is a ripe old 28.

He believes, however, that at least two of Britain's golfers should come through all right.

"Leonard Crawley," he said, "is as good, I believe, as any amateur in this country. Then there is Frank Peninck, the former Oxford golfer, who won the English closed championship last year. Both of them should win their matches."

Chicago Stadium To Promote Louis And Thomas Fight

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.

JOE TRINER, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, said last night the heavyweight title fight contracted for the Chicago Stadium April 1 between Champion Joe Louis and Harry Thomas of Eagle Bend, Minn., would be promoted by the Chicago Stadium Corporation.

Triner, explaining that Promoter Mike Jacobs of New York, who holds Louis under contract, has no license to promote in Illinois, said it was his understanding that Jacobs, technically, "has released Louis to the stadium for his one fight."

The 15-round contest will be the first indoor world's heavyweight boxing bout ever promoted in Illinois.

PATTY BERG AND MRS. HOCKENJOS IN GOLF FINAL

By the Associated Press.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25. —Patty Berg of Minneapolis and Mrs. William Hockenjos of Lake Hopatcong, N. J., today won their way into tomorrow's final in the South Atlantic women's golf championship.

Miss Berg maintained her stride today by defeating Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., and Fort Pierce, Fla., 5 and 3.

The New Jersey golfer was taken to the twentieth hole by the defending champion, Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S. C.

BABE RUTH HAS AN ELEVEN ON ONE HOLE IN BERMUDA TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 25.—Playing in the face of a strong wind, C. Gilbert Waldo of Detroit posted a three-over par 74 yesterday to win medalist honors in the 18-hole qualifying round for the Mid-Ocean invitation golf tournament.

Babe Ruth, the ex-home run king of baseball and runnerup in last year's tournament, blew up with a big 11 on the fifth hole and finished with a 91, failing to qualify in the championship flight. He drove three balls into the water on his "hoodoo" fifth.

MRS. GEITZ BOWLS 619, TAKES FOURTH IN MEET

Mrs. Bertha Geitz rolled games of 194, 197 and 198 for a 589 scratch total, which with her handicap of 30 pins, gave her a 619 total and a tie for fourth place in the city bowling handicap tournament being held at the Melene Recreation alleys. Mrs. Geitz's score was high for yesterday's bowlers, and gives her a tie with Mrs. Agnes Krems for fourth place.

Mrs. Mabel Moeller and Mrs. Bertha Seifert scored 1180 in the doubles to take third place in that division.

Lancaster Wins on Kayo.

By the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 25.—Jimmy Lancaster, 133; Wilmington, scored a technical knockout over Irish Jimmy Hughes, 130½, New York, in the windup of a boxing show here last night. A cut eye prevented Hughes from answering the bell for the fifth round.

Long Island Five Wins.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 25.—Long Island University basketeers of Brooklyn handed Toledo University's quintet a 41-to-35 defeat here last night.

WRESTLING RESULTS

By the Associated Press.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Danno O'Mahony, 217, Ireland, threw Jack League, 220, Texas, 22m 2s.

HARTFORD, Conn. — George Koverly, 218, Hollywood, Cal., defeated Pat Riley, 211, Texas, two of three falls.

COLUMBUS, O.—Frankie Talaber, 175, Chicago, and Billy Weidner, 174½, San Francisco, drew, 1h, 45m.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—Otto Kuss, 228, Pine City, Minn., defeated Alford Johnson, 217, Dallas, Tex., one fall.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Can't Do Anything About It.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.

THE GREAT American worry, so far as pugilistic promotion is concerned, is much ado about nothing, in the opinion of Jimmy Bronson, formerly of Joplin, Mo., and for many years of New York.

Perhaps you don't know that the big worry has been this: "What will Max Schmeling do with the title if and when he wins it from Joe Louis next June?"

Mike Jacobs is supposed to have a string on Schmeling; but a member of his staff said this was not true—that there was nothing to prevent Max, in event of victory, going back to the fatherland and burying himself with the championship.

So, we put it up to one Jimmy Bronson. James is qualified to talk on any fight subject. He was so well qualified that, back in 1926 and 1927, when Gene Tunney was battling the Mighty Mauler for the title, he picked Bronson to be his chief adviser.

Bronson has promoted fights, managed and still manages fighters, and was in charge of A. E. F. boxing affairs abroad during the late World War. He campaigned Bob Martin, A. E. F. heavyweight champion, after the war, until that fighter was put out of the running by an automobile accident.

His opinions on fights and fighters are sound, and he doesn't go overboard on anything without cause.

Doesn't Like Max's Chance.

"YOU'RE ASKING ME, so I'll tell you—I think Max has little chance to beat Louis, and so what he'll do with the title is out," Jimmy told this writer.

"Max will be 33 when he fights Louis, and that won't do against Louis, who is 24. I saw Max fight Thomas here and didn't like him, even though he stopped Harry. He was hit regularly by his opponent for five rounds. Then that fight in Germany against Ben Foord. My friend, who was at the ringside for this show, said Max was out to do his best. Tried to stop Foord, an ordinary fighter. He couldn't.

"Louis has improved, in my opinion, and hits too hard and fast for Schmeling. I don't subscribe to the belief that Max has the 'Indian sign' on Joe because he whipped him once."

Never Really Great.

"YOU KNOW, Max at his best was not a great fighter," Bronson went on. He had courage and a fair right hand. He hasn't got the stuff the Negro fighter owns."

And that, of course, probably will represent the average fight experts' view. Still, a tough jaw, a stout heart and a good right hand go a long way when it comes to fighting—especially against an opponent who has a pointed chin and a tendency to forget what's going on when rapped on the button, like Louis. However, not all New York fistic authorities indorse Bronson's viewpoint. Many believe that Schmeling has Louis' angora; that Louis is still easy to hit with a right hand, and that Joe will succumb to that same old punch.

But even then Mike Jacobs will not reach for the crying towel.

"Where can he fight and get as much money as in America?" is the logical reply to all suggestions that Max will take the crown to Germany to defend it, with German judges, referees and public sentiment to assist in its retention.

There is the chance that Max may take it home and then retire with the title undefended. But in that case, the crown would be declared vacant, and the promoters could start all over again with an elimination tournament.

It was, in fact, in this way that Max first gained the crown. After Tunney retired in 1928, the New York commission began an elimination series, from which Jack Sharkey emerged victor. The commission then arranged the first Sharkey-Schmeling bout, the winner to be declared champion.

Schmeling won it—lying on the floor; the referee decided he had been fouled.

Montanez vs. Armstrong.

BRONSON, by the way, is still strong on his Puerto Rican fighter, Pedro Montanez, who a couple of nights ago won from Norment Quarles in Philadelphia.

Montanez, a sensation for more than a year here, suffered an almost complete loss of prestige overnight. That occurred when Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers outpointed him in a dull title bout. Montanez, who is a brilliant boxer ordinarily, fought a dull contest.

"Over-trained for the fight," is Bronson's explanation. "Now he's himself again. I expect to match him with Henry Armstrong. That probably will follow the championship battle between Ambers and Armstrong, which will be won by the Negro, in my opinion. California promoters have offered $100,000 for that fight. They have seen both men in action.

"Montanez will defeat Armstrong. The Negro is a great fighter, but he has yet to meet an opponent with Montanez' stuff. I'm not saying that just because I am helping to advise Montanez. He was and still is an outstanding fighter."

But, Jimmy, so is Armstrong! And he has proven it so many times against so many foes of various weights that until Henry is whipped we can't see who is going to beat him.

Bronson's Background.

BRONSON, the late Ben Steinel of Milwaukee and Harry Sharpe were the three outstanding referees abroad during the ring campaign for A. E. F. battlers. Sharpe was an officer in the Red Cross and Bronson was in the Y. M. C. A. Bronson commandeered Sharpe for refereeing purposes, and the three of them officiated in practically all the championships abroad.

"Sharpe was a splendid official and won the respect of both the military officers and the fighters by his handling of bouts," commented Bronson. "I can't understand how such a fine official and such a fine character can be inactive in St. Louix boxing affairs. They need a man like Sharpe anywhere.

"I've always admired him from the time I saw him battle 77 rounds to win on a knockout from Frank Crosby at Nameoki, Ill. That was in 1893, and I was in short pants—just a kid. A railroad conductor took me to the fight, and I have never seen anything to equal it since. And, of course, never will now."

He referred to the memorable battle which lasted more than five hours, through rain, sleet and snow, which Sharpe, then a young printer, paid dearly for by spending almost a year in the Edwardsville jail. Fighting then was against the law.

FLYERS ENGAGE SAINTS TONIGHT

The St. Louis Flyers and the St. Paul Saints will try out the widened blue line in their meeting tonight at the Arena, an innovation that was recently used in a National League game and one which is seriously being considered for adoption next year.

The four-inch stripe is being made 12 inches for the experiment. The wider line is expected to prevent the many offsides and speed up the game. Frank Calder, czar of hockey, is considering the move for next year, and Bill Grant, American Association Hockey League president, has requested that all his teams try out the plan before the season closes.

Local feminine athletes are to be introduced at the game tonight, which has been designated "Family Night," and which E. C. Steffen, Flyers' president, says is to be made an annual affair. Outstanding representatives of virtually all branches of St. Louis women's sports will be presented during the intermission. Women and girls will be admitted for 25 cents.

The Flyers are leading the association while the Saints are the cellar inhabitants. Four former Flyers, Hap Harnott, Duke McDonald, Gordon Teel and Roy Burmister, are with St. Paul. Harnott and McDonald, still Flyers' property, will be recalled at the end of the season.

ODDS 1 TO 10 ON ARMSTRONG K. O.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—With the odds 1 to 10 he will score the thirty-third knockout of his sensational career, Henry Armstrong, world's featherweight boxing champion, makes his Chicago debut at International Amphitheater tonight against Everett Rightmire of Sioux City, Ia.

Even though the 10-round bout will be a non-title affair, fans here have evinced such interest in the punching power of the titleholder that a crowd of 10,000, and a gate of $20,000, was likely.

Few observers give Rightmire much chance to go the distance, even though the Iowan has won six fights and drew in another in his last seven contests. In six years Rightmire has engaged in 147 bouts, losing only 10.

"Hurricane Henry," hailed as one of the greatest fighters of the day, is a trigger puncher who constantly crowds into short range to draw a lead and then counter viciously. He stays on top of opponents from the opening bell. There was little or no wagering on the bout.

Armstrong has not lost a match since Tony Chavez beat him on a foul in St. Louis Dec. 4, 1936. In a rematch, Armstrong sent Chavez to the canvas in the tenth round. Rightmire has been knocked out only once, Chavez turning the trick at Butte, Mont., in 1935.

Armstrong weighed 132¼ pounds today and Rightmire scaled 130 pounds.

By Reno Hahn.

Semifinal games are scheduled tonight in the district basketball tournament, with the B division contests opening the program at Washington University's Fieldhouse at 6 o'clock. John Burroughs opposes Hancock in the opener, with Chaminade meeting Valley Park in the second game of the B division. Christian Brothers High plays McBride in the first A game, and Normandy meets St. Louis University High in the final game, starting at 9 o'clock.

C. B. C. should have little trouble in scoring a third triumph over McBride, but Normandy may have more than it can handle in a strong Junior Billiken five.

The Junior Billikens opened its tourney play with a 30-20 triumph over Clayton and last night trounced Webster by the unexpectedly one-sided score of 41-29. Normandy, however, also showed greater strength than expected in winning from University City, 34-17.

The B games' feature should be the meeting between Chaminade's high-scoring team that has tallied 40 or more points in its two victories, and Valley Park. John Burroughs is favored to win from the surprising Hancock team in the opening game.

Yesterday's contests went according to form in both divisions, with Burroughs eliminating Taylor School, 38-14, and Chaminade defeating Eureka, 42-26 in B games, and C. B. C. winning from Kirkwood, 37-21, with its second team in action half the game, Normandy turning back University City, 34-16. St. Louis University High beating Webster Groves, 41-29, and McBride winning from Ritenour, 36-29.

Only the Ritenour-McBride game was close. Ritenour led for three-quarters of the game, but in the final period McBride tallied nine points in a row and went on to victory.

Cheer Up!

AWAY with melancholy, though the Browns are over due,
Conditions are but relative—
—it's in the point of view;
Every cloud is lined with silver we have often heard it said,
And it looks like first division when you're standing on your head.

Connie Mack says he is going to try to put a team on the field next season that will fight in every game.

FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT.

OLD Connie's gettin' cockey as a stick of dynamite;
His slogan in the future will be
"fight, fight, fight."
From the college football player he decides to take a leaf,
And for the opposition there'll be grief, grief, grief!

Connie's teams in the past have been noted for their mechanical skill and unemotional conduct on the field. Indicating the old Mahout has gone on a raw meat diet.

Strange as it may seem, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs are going over in a big way. Wonder whatever became of the Singer midgets.

Johnny Adamick reminds Doc Kearns a good deal of Jack Dempsey. His first name is John.

Glenn Cunningham tucked another Baxter mile under his belt the other evening. Glenn has won them all except the well-known "country" mile. That's going a little too far.

Speaking of miles, Brutus Hamilton says a four-minute mile is impossible. As the world record held by Glenn Cunningham is 4:06 7-10 he may be right.

Of course, six or seven seconds isn't a whole lot but it seems like an eternity to a guy who is on his last mile.

Try that on your front page.

The birthdays of George Washington and Bill Klem fall on the same day. They had much in common. Whether it was cutting down cherry trees or calling balls and strikes they both hewed to the line and let the chips fall where they may.

It is said that the signing of Rollie Hemsley kind of put Frank Pytlak's nose out of joint. But an application of Doctor Longreen's famous salve soon straightened out the old snozzle.

Gus Mancuso knows just how Frankie felt. First string artists are funny that way.

See where Dizzy Dean signed his 1938 contract after a two-hour-and-a-half conference with Branch Rickey. That's cutting two weeks and six days off the track record.

The signing of Ol' Diz in 2½ hours is certainly stepping and indicates that the professor is improving with age.

With Ol' Diz's scalp dangling at his belt the professor is now prepared to take the two Jersey Joes, Medwick and Stripp in stride.

Panama Wins Games.

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 25.—The fourth Central America "Olympic" games ended yesterday, with Panama winning the athletic title with 106 points. Mexico was second with 94 and Cuba next at 56.

Panama won in horsemanship, wrestling and weight-lifting and the women's titles in fencing and gymnastics. The basketball competition was a tie between Mexico and Panama in both men's and women's divisions. Mexico won men's titles in tennis, football, boxing and fencing and the women's championship in volleyball.

The next games were scheduled for 1942 in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Bierman Goes by Chart and "Fears" Gophers Are Slumping

By Harold Tuthill.

Minnesota alumni who hope that the Gophers will retain their Western Conference football championship in 1938 will get scant encouragement from the one man in a position to know the team's possibilities—Coach Bernard W. (Bernie) Bierman.

At least, that is the impression left by the Gopher coach, who spoke here last night at the annual business meeting of the Downtown Branch of the Y. M. C. A.

"Football is similar to other business," Bierman said. "We have graphs and charts to show our rise and decline, and, after being on the top for a number of years, I am afraid we are on a toboggan. I just hope that we don't slip down into the valley too far to get out.

"The time was when some of early games were set-ups. Next fall, I do not know of a set-up on the schedule—unless, of course, WE may be easy for some team. We will play eight games, and I am confident that one will be as hard to win as another.

"Everyone asks me what kind of a team we are going to have. There is just one answer to that. 'I don't know. Our boys may be in perfect physical shape and in a fine psychological frame of mind, but I can't tell how they will react until after the first game has been played."

That coming from a coach whose Minnesota teams have lost only six games in as many years is significant. Last year the Gophers won the Big Ten title with five victories and no defeats. They were turned back by Nebraska and Notre Dame. That marked the first time since Bierman's first year at Minnesota that a team lost more than one game in a campaign. The Gophers dropped three in 1932. Then after winning four and tying four, they went through two seasons undefeated, winning eight games in each. The loss to Northwestern in 1936 was their only setback. So that in six years at Minnesota, Bierman's charges have won 38, lost six and tied four games.

The Gophers' coach, rated as the outstanding football coach of the country in Jimmy Conzelman's introductory remarks last night, began his career at the University of Montana, where his teams won nine games, lost nine and tied three from 1919-21. He was made coach at Mississippi State in 1925 and in two seasons there he won eight, lost eight and tied one.

It was at Tulane that Bierman's position on the chart of success began to curve upward. In five years there, his teams won 35 games, lost 10 and tied two. One of the defeats was suffered in the 1931 Rose Bowl game.

In recapitulation, Bierman as a head football coach has a record of 90 victories, 33 defeats and 10 tied games in 16 years.

Bierman was on his way back to Minnesota today by way of Chicago. He said that the freshmen were working indoors now as a start to intensive spring training scheduled to begin March 29, weather permitting.

HERBERT FACES STELLAR FIELD IN A. A. U. GAMES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—James Bruinel Herbert, last of indoor track's Big Four to achieve real stardom, places his new won fame in jeopardy tomorrow night when he faces a crack field in the 600-meter race of the National A. A. U. championship meet.

Compared with the task before Herbert, Glenn Cunningham, Don Lash and Ben Johnson face mere warmups.

No. 1 opponent of the New York U. Negro, who won nine straight races, is Ray Malott of Stanford, the National A. A. U. and N. C. A. A. 400-meter champion. He has not raced indoors this season but he is probably the best quarter-miler on the Pacific Coast. Wesley Wallace of Fordham is another threat. First man to beat Herbert this season, Wallace is believed by track observers the coming runner of the East.

Just behind these stalwarts come Charlie Beetham of the Curb Exchange, late of Ohio State; Doug Raymond, the Boston University runner whose tremendous "kick" almost caught Herbert in the Buermeyer 500 last week, and two fine college quarter-milers, Eddie Cook of Williams and Dick Gill of Boston.

Such a field may take the play away from the 1500 meters, the metric mile in which Cunningham will shoot for one of the few records he doesn't hold at his favorite distances, Gene Venzke's 3:49.9 indoor standard. It will be a surprise if he cracks the mark. His chief competitors, Venzke and Archie San Romani, the titleholder, haven't been able to push him thus far this season.

Johnson and Lash have comparatively smooth sailing ahead.

Ben's closest pursuer this year has been Lanky Perrin Walker, who is not at his best in the indoor sprints. Johnson's terrific start gives him an edge indoors and the 60-meters should provide him with another victory, if not another record. He holds the mark of 6.6 for the distance jointly with Jesse Owens.

Lash has been supreme at two miles since he stopped doubling in the mile and there is little chance that Norman Bright of San Francisco, his chief rival can catch him in the 5000 meters. He will try for two records, the 5000 meters and the three miles.

The 1000 meters has attracted a smart field headed by Ross Bush and Ray Manhannah. The 65-meter hurdles offer another chapter of that thrilling serial, Tolmich or Towns. Then, too, there is a series of fine relays.

The National A. A. U. high and prep school championships will be held at the garden in the afternoon, along with heats for the 600 and 1000 meter races and the Swedish and 600 meters relays of the senior games.

OKLAHOMA AGGIES WIN IN OVERTIME

FULTON, Mo., Feb. 25.—Westminster College's Bluejays fought the Oklahoma Aggies to a 33-33 tie in regular playing time before succumbing in an extra period, 41 to 35, in their basketball game here last night.

Elimination of four regulars on personal fouls kept the Bluejays from a possible victory over the Missouri Valley Conference Cowboys. Westminster, member of the Missouri College Athletic Union, led at the half, 19 to 16. Krueger scored 14 points for the victors.

WALTER EMERY, GOODMAN WIN

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 25—Walter Emery, 1935 U. S. amateur and former Walker Cup player, dropped Reynolds Smith, Walker Cup star, from the Houston Country Club invitation tourney yesterday with a fine display of golf.

Barely able to squeeze into match play after being forced to go four holes in a playoff after the qualifying round, Emery came back in the first round to eliminate, one up, a youngster who turned in a 69, two shots under par.

Johnny Goodman, National amateur champion, sliced two strokes off par to eliminate Bobby Riegel, Beaumont (Tex.) former Southern amateur titleholder, 5 and 3.

BILLIKENS RALLY TO BEAT ROLLA FIVE, 44-37

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROLLA, Mo., Feb. 25.—A whirlwind finish enabled the St. Louis University Billikens to nose out the Missouri School of Mines basketball team here last night, 44 to 37. Les Dudenhoefer furnished the necessary points after the Miners had led most of the game.

Behind, 25 to 19, at the half, the Bills came back strong in the second stanza to score 25 points, the lead changing hands at the 10-minute mark. After that St. Louis had little trouble in keeping ahead of the Miners.

Before Rolla could hit the basket in the first half, Denny Cochran and Walter Songer had slipped in for field goals. However, at that point Floyd Watts, Miner forward, took a hand, and with Herb Kamper, his running mate, kept the capacity crowd on its feet. Tied up, 6-all, Cochran came back with a free throw to give the Billikens a one-point lead.

Watts Gets Long One.

This was short-lived, however, as Watts hit a long one-handed shot from the corner. Bill Cochran then came through with a long shot from the center of the court to put St. Louis ahead, 9 to 8. Jim Wilson, miner guard, then sank a short shot. The Miners increased their lead on long shots by Kamper and Watts.

Seven minutes went by in the second half before either team was able to hit the basket, Sidney Mudd, St. Louis guard, slipping through for a setup. Three straight free throws pulled the Billikens up within two points of the Miners, when Mudd came through with a long shot from the middle of the court, tying the score at 25.

Les Dudenhoefer put St. Louis into a temporary lead with a free throw, but Kamper came back with a long shot to again put the Miners out in front.

Dudenhoefer Finds Range.

For the next few minutes the two teams stayed within two points of each other, until Les Dudenhoefer put on his scoring spree of four field goals, gained mostly on setups after a desperate Miner defense was pulled out of position.

The game was of the usual Miner-St. Louis caliber, with both teams running wild and hitting shots from all over the court. Neither team had any set offense and neither had much of a defense.

Mudd was ejected from the game in the last two minutes on fouls.

It was the end of a dismal season for the Miners. They won only two of their 17 games, one in the M. I. A. A. conference and one against non-conference competition.

Creighton Beats Grinnell.

THE WILKEN FAMILY BLENDED WHISKEY

Harry E. Wilken
It usen't take Grandpa a second to spot the real thing!
If there ever was a distiller with the knack of putting his finger on the kind of grain calculated to turn out tasty whiskey, Grandpa Wilken was him. Harry E. Wilken

Grandpa taught us how to spot grain that makes extra tasty whiskey!
Just take note of the special tastiness this grain gives to Our Family's Recipe!
You'd be real surprised at how much extra tastiness us distillers can put into our whiskey by knowing all the little tricks of sorting out the particular kind of grain that's exactly suited for good whiskey making. That's where our family is so lucky. There never was a distiller that had the hang of it like Grandpa Wilken—and it was off him we learned all the ins and outs of picking the kind of grain with the makings of real tastiness in it. In making our recipe we don't bother with any other kind of grain at all. And that's got a lot to do with the special tastiness Our Family's Whiskey has got!

Collyer Picks Pasteurized in The Flamingo

By Bert E. Collyer.

(Copyright, 1938.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 25. — The Flamingo Stakes finds 11 named overnight to start in the $20,000 added event at Hialeah. With a well-balanced band accepting the issue, it is difficult to tab the likely favorite. This old dopester is taking a chance with Pasteurized, which has been brought up to the race in splendid shape. As a matter of fact, the latest workout was :48 3-5, 1:01, 1:13 1-5 and a mile in 1:40 2-5, eased up at the end. Stout has been engaged to do the riding and that 4-1 indicated in the "overnights" may be low. Lawrin, once declared out of the race but now back in good racing trim, is coupled with Joe Schenck as the Woolford entry and may be the choice. Lavengro, Norman Church's winner of the Bahamas Handicap, and Co-Sport, which went a mile and an eighth last Saturday, are others that are entitled to consideration. Nor is the race without its dark horse, for there is the much-improved Mythical King, which is coupled with Crepe as the Whitaker entry. Frankly, it looks like a splendid race.

Out at Santa Anita, the $7500 San Antonio Handicap at a mile and an eighth is expected to serve as a warm-up for the Santa Anita Handicap a week later. Last year Rosemont prepped for his rich victory by winning this race, and Seabiscuit may do that this season. The Howard horse gets in with 130—the same weight he will carry next week-end—and has no Pompoon to beat. As a matter of fact, the principal menace may be J. A. Manfuso's Aneroid, which is second high in the weight allotment. Calumet Dick, still waiting for the rain to fall, is another threat.

The unchallenged high test headliner... at no increase in price ... is Phillips 66 Poly Gas.

No wonder that this sensational winter gasoline is way out in front for starting icy motors with split-second speed.

More! It snaps up pick-up ... peps up power ... and steps up mileage. You don't have to fight the choke or baby the clutch. You get touch-and-go starting every time your toe taps the button.

Phillips can afford to give motorists highest test at the price of ordinary low-test motor fuels because Phillips is the WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCER OF NATURAL HIGH TEST GASOLINE. And every gallon of Phillips 66 Poly Gas, as the name indicates, has extra energy units added by the scientific POLYmerization process.

Why close your eyes to the possibility of getting more for your money? ... to the certainty of getting higher test which means a higher level of performance?

Just stop at any Orange and Black 66 Shield ... fill up ... and you'll sure feel the difference ... that dramatic difference which has won for us the steady patronage of millions of economy-minded motorists.

TIGERS' TRACK TEAM FAVORED OVER KANSAS U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 25.—Two dual meet records are endangered and three are certain to be established by the University of Missouri and University of Kansas when they renew indoor track rivavlry, which dates back to 1904, in a dual meet tomorrow night at Brewer Field House here.

Based on past records, it is apparent that "Lonsome John" Munski, Lewistown (Mont.) Tiger sophomore, can better the mile-run record which has existed since 1927 and a strong possibility exists that the two-mile mark, set in 1909, may be shattered. Whatever the outcome of these races, standards will be set in the dash and two hurdle events since the teams have not competed before over a 60-yard course.

Track teams of the two schools have met before on 27 occasions, the Tigers holding the whip hand with 20 victories. The meets always were held in Kansas City, and an interruption has existed since 1931 when officials of the two schools were unable to agree on a date in Columbia and the conference prohibited contests except on campuses of the schools. With Missouri favored by large odds to win the contest, it will be a matter of vengeance, since the last contest in 1931 resulted in a Jayhawker victory by 72 to 13 points.

The dual contest will be the final preparation for both schools for the Big Six indoor championships which are scheduled next weekend in Columbia.

The entry list:

60-YARD DASH—Missouri, Dixon, Priesmeyer, Klamm, Porter, Hofman; Kansas, Foy, Richardson, Masoner and Hardacre.

60-YARD LOW HURDLES — Missouri, White, Welch, Bates; Kansas, Foy, Cox, Masoner.

60-YARD HIGH HURDLES — Missouri, White, Welch, Bates; Kansas, Cox, Clark, Knight.

SHOTPUT—Missouri, Ellis, Ewing, Hydron; Kansas, Freidland, Turner.

HIGH JUMP—Missouri, Aiken, Brown, Miller; Kansas, Cox, Bird.

POLE VAULT—Missouri, Gordon, Wager, Bearce, Case; Kansas, Bird, Lawrence.

BROAD JUMP—Missouri, Porter, Klamm, Irick, Denny; Kansas, Clucas, Replogle, Bird, Cox, Billrips, Richardson.

440-YARD RUN—Missouri, Gee, Berg, Priesmeyer, Bushyhead, Begany, Yuille; Kansas, Wiles, Cox, Williams, Clucas.

880-YARD RUN — Missouri, Munski, Bradley Friesz, Bob Friesz, Tull, Penner; Kansas, Klann, Heckendorn, Sells.

MILE RUN—Missouri, Collins, Rucker, Munski, Farrant; Kansas, Clann, Heckendorn, Toberan.

TWO-MILE RUN — Missouri, Burrus, Munski, Whaley; Kansas, Toberan, Ryan, Hepner.

MILE RELAY — Missouri, Gee, Berg, Priesmeyer, Bushyhead; Kansas, Williams, Masoner, Wiles, Cox.

Wichita, Tulsa Skaters Tie, 1-1

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 25.—Tulsa's Oilers and Wichita's Skyhawks fought to a 1-1 overtime tie last night as the Oklahoma team tried to nudge the Kansans aside for a share of the fourth rung of the American Hockey Association ladder.

Wichita Wingman Papike shot the Hawk goal unassisted at 14:17 of the opening period. The Tulsa point came at the end of a furious 17 minutes in the third period when Williams, defense man, drove the disc in on a pass from Winger Gross.

Missouri A. A. Handball.

J. J. O'Toole defeated Dave Remley, 21-2, 21-4; William Odell defeated Charles Hoffman, 21-6, 21-10, and Paul Jones won over Arthur C. Lippold, 16-21, 21-14, 21-1, yesterday in the Missouri Athletic Association annual handball tournament. They played in Class B. Outcome of other matches:

CLASS C—Lennie Woods defeated N. L. Harms, 21-12, 21-14; E. W. Weaver Jr. defeated John Annin, 21-11, 19-21, 21-14.

CLASS E—John Biggs defeated J. J. Fox, 21-18, 21-10; N. J. Stupp defeated H. Simpson, 21-15, 21-10; Ben Knox defeated J. B. Grotewell, 21-13, 21-2; Richard Roberts defeated William Dougherty, 11-21, 21-20, 21-18.

CLASS F—Joseph J. Mason defeated R. B. Brooks, 21-15, 21-9; J. A. Grady defeated Dr. A. Rust, 21-10, 21-14; G. J. Nooney defeated Will Willert, 21-19, 21-14.

White Wins Decision.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 25.—Jimmy White, dusky Cleveland lightweight, took an easy decision over Wesley Martin, of Akron, O., in the headliner of a boxing card at Duquesne Garden last night. White weighed 136½, Martin 140.

"THIS 'MAKIN'S' TOBACCO TASTES BETTER ALL THE TIME!"—SAYS ED DURRELL TO HIS WIFE
70 fine roll-your-own cigarettes in every 2-oz. tin of Prince Albert
ED DURRELL'S been getting some real smokin' comfort as he settles down and fixes himself a mild, tasty Prince Albert "makin's" cigarette. Says Ed to his better-half, Eugenia: "This P. A. 'makin's' tobacco tastes better all the time. Plenty of rich body, yet it's real mild on the tongue and there's no bitter taste." Says Mrs. Durrell: "Well, if it tastes as good as it smells, I can understand why you and your friends praise Prince Albert." (A tip for you pipe-smokers, too!)

$50,000,000 INCREASE IN EXCESS RESERVES

Federal Bank Board Reports Total of $1,410,000,000—Week's Statement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. — The Federal Reserve Board reports excess reserves increased $50,000,000 to $1,410,000,000 in the week ended Feb. 23.

Total reserves of the banks increased $24,000,000 to $7,240,000,000, principally because of the putting into circulation of $32,000,000 of money which the Treasury had on deposit with the Federal Reserve system.

The Federal Reserve banks made no changes in their portfolios of Government securities during the week, discontinuing, at least temporarily, a movement to reduce holdings of long-term Government securities and to increase short-term holdings by an equivalent amount.

The board's statement said: "During the week ended Feb. 23 member bank reserve balances increased $24,000,000. Additions to member bank reserves arose from decreases of $6,000,000 in Treasury cash, $32,000,000 in Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve banks and $11,000,000 in non-member deposits and other Federal Reserve accounts and increases of $3,000,000 in gold stock and $3,000,000 in Treasury currency, offset in part by an increase of $22,000,000 in money in circulation and a decrease of $9,000,000 in Reserve bank credit. Excess reserves of member banks on Feb. 23 were estimated to be approximately $1,410,000,000, an increase of $50,000,000 for the week. Inactive gold included in the gold stock and in Treasury cash amounted to $1,214,000,000 on Feb. 23, unchanged for the week."

Changes in member bank reserve balances and related items during the week and the year ended Feb. 23, 1938, are reported as follows (in millions of dollars):

LATE REACTION CARRIES COTTON DOWN 30-50 CENTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—The cotton market lost its mid-session gains today when increased liquidation, commission house and Southern selling put final prices 6 to 10 points net lower.

May sold up from 9.18 to 9.26 and in mid-afternoon was quoted at 9.24, when prices generally were 1 point net lower to 1 higher.

Cotton futures opened off 5 to 6 on lower markets abroad, eight March notices and under liquidation and foreign selling. March, 9.15; May, 9.19; July, 9.27; October, 9.34; December, 9.32; January, 9.35b.

bBid.

After an overnight accumulation of selling orders had been absorbed by the trade and a little scattered buying, a steadier tone developed and prices recovered partially in quieter trading. Hedge selling proved to be small.

A late reaction due to increased liquidation and commission house and Southern selling put final prices 6 to 10 lower.

WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE ON EXPORT SALES

Futures Reach Highest Level of Two Weeks but Profit-Taking Wipes Out Most of Gains.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Wheat moved up today to the highest price level that has been reached in two weeks.

Increased European takings of United States wheat were largely responsible for lifting Chicago quotations 1⅛ cents. Profit-taking on bulges, however, wiped out most of the gains.

At the close Chicago wheat futures were ⅛@½ above yesterday's finish, May 94⅛@¼, July 90@90⅛, corn unchanged to ⅛ higher, May 59¾@⅞, July 61¼, and oats ⅛ up.

It was estimated sales of United States wheat alone would reach 750,000 bushels, principally dark hard winter grain. The United Kingdom took a half million bushels and the continent also bought moderately. No important business in Canadian wheat was confirmed early.

Helping also to impart an upward trend to wheat were trade predictions that, unless wonderful spring rains occurred in the United States and Canada, it would be unlikely importers could obtain wheat much cheaper in the future than at present.

Corn, rye and oats responded to wheat market bulges. Export buying of upwards of 600,000 bushels of corn was noted.

Provisions rallied with grains, despite hog price setbacks.

Opening ⅛@⅛ cent up, May 94⅛@¼, July 89⅞@90c, Chicago wheat futures then rose further. Corn started unchanged, May 59¾@⅞c, July 61⅛c.

Open interest in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade: Wheat—Wednesday, 92,245,000 bu.; Monday, 92,816,000; week ago, 89,993,000. Corn—Wednesday, 48,419,000 bu.; Monday, 48,811,000; week ago, 48,139,000.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 7,663,000 bushels, corn 1,965,000. Open interest in wheat was 92,402,000 bushels and in corn 48,187,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 25.—May wheat was bid 95½c at the close. May corn was offered at 59¾c.

Liverpool wheat was ¼d higher at the opening and ¼@½d up later. The close was ½@⅝d higher.

Winnipeg was ⅜@½c higher at outset and early was 1⅛@1¼c up. The close was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher.

Argentine wheat opened ¼c higher and corn unchanged. At noon wheat was ⅞c up and corn ¼c higher.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market today wheat was 1½c higher. Corn was unchanged to ½c lower. Oats were unchanged.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Wheat—No. 2 red winter, 99½c; No. 3 red winter, 98½c; No. 4 red winter, 91@½c.

Oats—No. 2 white, 34c; No. 3 white, 33¾c; No. 1 mixed, 34c; red, 33¼c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 19,500 bu., compared with 61,500 a week ago and 28,500 a year ago, included 11 cars local and 2 through. Corn receipts, which were 111,000 bu., compared with 231,000 a week ago and 84,000 a year ago, included 72 cars local and 2 through. Oats receipts, which were 24,000 bu., compared with 14,000 a week ago and 58,000 a year ago, included 11 cars local and 1 through. Hay receipts were 9 cars through.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Sugar futures were irregular today and, after easing slightly during early trading to establish new low levels for the season in some positions, recovered on increased trade buying and covering.

May No. 3, which declined to 2.21, was ruling at 2.22 at the beginning of the last hour, when the list was about net unchanged. In the No. 4 September, after selling at 1.05, rallied to 1.06½, with the market generally ½ point net higher.

Futures No. 3 closed 1@2 lower. Sales 5950 tons.

Wabash Cleared in Train Wreck.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—The Illinois Commerce Commission exonerated the Wabash Railroad Thursday in connection with the collision of its fast Chicago limited and a truck, causing derailment of the train Tuesday. Blame for the wreck of the six-car train was placed upon Frank Gregson, truck driver, who was killed. The report said he ignored flasher signals and drove into the path of the train.

STOCKS TAKE THE UPTRAIL AFTER SHAKY DAY'S START

Shares Slip Early on Chrysler Dividend Omission, Then Gain, With Pickup Slowed at Finish by G. M. Salary Cuts.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—After a jumpy opening, occasioned mainly by the Chrysler dividend omission, stocks took the upward trail in today's market. Initial losses running to a point or more generally were transformed into advances of fractions to more than two points, and activity picked up on the reversal of trend.

Top marks were reduced, however, in the final hour, when General Motors announced salary cuts ranging from 10 to 30 per cent for some 40,000 white collar employes.

There was a delayed opening of more than 10 minutes in Chrysler which, on a block of 3000 shares, showed a decline of 2¾ points. The loss was subsequently reduced substantially. General Motors was a shade higher the greater part of the day.

Volume expanded on buying intervals and tended to dry up during sliding periods. Transfers were 897,970 shares.

Stock Gainers, Commodities.

Steels, aircrafts, rubbers, coppers, mail orders, farm implements, utilities and specialties took turns in the advancing parade.

Giving a good account of themselves most of the time—a few retreated at the last—were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, United Aircraft, United States Rubber common and preferred, Goodyear, Yellow Truck, Anaconda, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Consolidated Edison, Western Union, North American, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, United States Gypsum, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Atlantic Coast Line.

Ahead at the finish were Electric Auto-Lite, National Supply, American Steel Foundries, Seaboard Oil, Pullman, America Tobacco B and Crane Co.

Bonds were inclined to tilt forward, as were major commodities. Wheat at Chicago was up ⅛ to ½ of a cent bushel and corn was unchanged to ⅛ cent improved.

Cotton was down 30 to 50 cents a bale.

At mid-afternoon, the French franc was up .01 of a cent at 3.26⅜ cents. Sterling was ¼ of a cent higher at $5.01⅞.

Board Room Topics.

The financial district seemed mildly disappointed over the action of Chrysler directors, a dividend of at least 50 cents naving een expected by some traders. At e same time, the point was ressed the company had paid an gregate of $22 a share in the st two years. The passing of a idend at this time was interpreted most traders as on the conserive side. In the first quarter of year the company voted $1.50 hare.

here was little change in busi- news, but it was not over- ed that a number of earnings ements were better than had looked for.

n & Bradstreet found public ding for the country as a whole ged unchanged to 7 per cent last week and was 3 to 8 cent below the corresponding a year ago.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Trading in the stock market was on a more active scale today, but yesterday's setback in Wall street and settlement of week-end accounts caused traders to move cautiously. The American section closed generally lower, with Chrysler selling about three points down at one time, following Thursday's dividend accouncement. Copper and tobacco issues sold higher and oils and industrials were in good demand. British funds and foreign bonds were about steady.

PARIS, Feb 25.—Price movements were mixed in the Bourse with industrials closing generally higher and rentes registered net gains of 20 to 25 centimes. Suez Canal lost 200 francs and Bank of France was off fractionally.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 25.—Wheat futures gained ½d to ⅝d net, on the improved demand for Australian, Indian and American wheat, coupled with the firmness in North American grain markets today. Trade calling was small in today's cotton market and prices closed unchanged to 1 point down on scattered liquidation.

STRUCTURAL STEEL SALES OFF

Hogan says that after paying dividends of $1.50 a share for the year, the company added $87,996 to its surplus, and uncompleted work on hand at the beginning of 1938 amounted to $7,185,543.

DIVIDENDS: AUTO-LITE CO., ABBOTT, LIQUID CARBONIC

Directors of Electric Auto-Lite Co. have declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock, payable April 1 to holders of record March 18. Payment of 40 cents a share was made in the preceding quarter. Company manufactures ignition equipment at plants in the Middle West, New York and California. Net earnings for 1937 were $4,128,109, equal to $3.43 a share on common stock against $4,196,768 or $3.51 a share on same basis in 1936.

Directors of Liquid Carbonic Corporation, Chicago have authorized a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share of capital stock, payable April 1 to holders of record March 16. On Jan. 3 a payment of 40 cents was made.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Abbott Laboratories directors have voted an extra dividend of 10 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 40 cents on the common stock, payable March 31 to stock of record March 11. Directors also have voted $1.12½ a share on the 4½ per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock, payable April 15 to stockholders of record April 1. The company makes pharmaceutical preparations and has plants at North Chicago, Philadelphia, Montreal and Mexico City.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Feb. 25 (U. S. D. A.).—A number of wool men in Boston were expressing more optimistic views of the near future outlook for the wool market Friday. In line with these views, they were not offering greasy shorn domestic wools as freely at current quotations as they were in the previous two weeks. Actual trading, however, was very slow and prices continued irregular. Distress lots of wools apparently were not appearing quite as frequently as earlier in the week.

BONDS PUSH AHEAD: UPTURN IN U. S. LIST

Gains of One to Two Points or More in General Advance —Foreigns Higher.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Gains of 1 to 2 points or more dominated a general advance in the bond market today. Some inactive issues were up more.

U. S. Government obligations were generally 2-32nds to 6-32nds higher, while the few losses in this list were narrow.

Alleghany 5s, Rock Island 4s, International Hydro Electric 6s, International Telephone 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New Haven 6s, Northern Pacific 4s, Nickel Plate 4½s were all around a point or more higher.

Foreign issues were generally higher. Polish, Austrian and Czechoslovakian issues led in the advance.

The market maintained a quick pace to the finish, with early gains in some cases extended. Armour of Delaware 4s ended 1⅛ up at 92¼ and American & Foreign Power 5s added 1¼ at 54.

Week's Review of Business

By Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Retail buying at leading centers of distribution this week averaged unchanged to 7 per cent under last week and 3 to 8 per cent under a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reports. "Unfavorable weather and unemployment spread stemmed the course of retail distribution, with deep price cuts failing to attract consumer interest," said the credit agency.

Cautious buying, it was pointed out, throttled wholesale markets, and lengthened the dip from 1937 levels. Though retail trade lagged, some bright spots were noted.

"Winter apparel was well cleared in sections where cold and snow predominated," the agency reports. "Women's spring coats, checked tweed suits, dresses, hosiery, gabardine shoes, infants' wear, and wash goods were among the most active items.

"While men's suits moved well, the call for furnishing diminished. Students' clothing was in strong demand. February promotions of furniture and housewares were better patronized than when launched. Except for the slump at some industrial centers, dollar volume of grocery sales was about even with last year's."

Regarding wholesale trade, the agency says: "Observance of Washington's birthday reduced the number of visitors in the principal wholesale markets this week. . . . While some markets were back almost to last year's showing, others still were 20 per cent below it, and the decline for the week reduced the estimated wholesale volume 8 to 15 per cent under the 1937 comparative. Mail orders continued heavy, however, for piece goods and domestics."

ST. LOUIS—Because of flood conditions a year ago retail sales were ahead of the 1937 total by 4 to 7 per cent; rise from the week preceding was nearly 8 per cent. Demand for furniture light. Wholesale volume well maintained, but remained under last year's. Steel rate advanced 5.9 points to 27 per cent; first gain of consequence this year. Additional orders will keep shoe factories close to capacity until April 1.

KANSAS CITY—With icy streets curbing shopping, retail sales were cut about 8 per cent from previous week's total; slide from last year's level lengthened to 8 to 12 per cent. Despite good flow of orders for some lines, wholesale volume was 10 to 15 per cent smaller than for 1937 week. Diminished receipts advanced quotations on most livestock. Bank deposits unchanged; loans fewer.

CHICAGO—Mild and rainy weather interfered with shoppers' plans, retail sales sinking 5 to 7 per cent under last year's; promotions featuring marked-down prices attracted little attention. Wholesale orders increased for week, which narrowed the decline from the 1937 volume to around 10 per cent. Industrial situation unimproved. Steel rate continued at 23.5 per cent of capacity.

CLEVELAND—Lack of response to even money-saving clearance events, lowered retail sales for week, widening drop from 1937 total to an average of 7 per cent. Wholesale buying sluggish; no evidence of spring pickup. Except shoe factories, many of which were near capacity, manufacturing operations were unchanged. Steel rate remained at 33 per cent of capacity for third week in a row.

DETROIT — Unfavorable shopping weather let retail sales down about 5 per cent from previous week's, and deepened to 12 per cent the fall from the corresponding 1937 period. Spring goods started to move fairly well. Wholesale buying still cautious. Industrial employment index at mid-February unchanged from Jan. 31 position. Automobile productions rose to 59,100 from 57,810 units for week preceding, and contrasted with 88,740 last year.

BALTIMORE—Quick changes in temperature confused consumer demand somewhat; retail sales about steady for week and 2 per cent under 1937 total. More interest shown in spring merchandise. Wholesale orders about even with previous week's; volume about 5 per cent smaller than last year's. Industrial operations gained less than 1 per cent; both employment and payrolls continued under the 1937 level.

LOUISVILLE—In spite of unemployment situation, retail sales locally and in surrounding territory continued satisfactory. Comparisons with 1937 week impossible, as it was at the end of the flood period. Wholesales of groceries, dry goods and notions 10 to 15 per cent under their 1937 volume. Manufacturing operations still curtailed; employment and payrolls down 40 to 50 per cent in some divisions.

PITTSBURGH—Despite heavier purchases of spring apparel, retail sales were approximately 15 per cent under last year's. Wholesale distribution uneven; collections dragging. Industrial activity about 50 per cent under comparative 1937 level. Steel rate advanced to 30 per cent, a gain of 2 points over the previous Monday. Uncertain price situation reduced orders for coal. Scrap market nominal, though slightly weaker.

YOUNGSTOWN—Retail sales held to previous week's level, but the decline from last year's total deepened to about 10 per cent. Sales of installment houses were up somewhat for week. Wholesale buying slackened; volume about 12 per cent below 1937 week. Steel schedules at 29 per cent, an advance of 4 points from last Monday's rate. Finishing mills recalled several hundred med.

WASHINGTON BUSINESS NOTES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The Commerce Department's lumber survey committee says that "since the middle of January larger bookings (at sawmills) have been reported than in any previous week since last October."

The committee reported lumber stocks totaling 8,900,000,000 feet were on hand at the mills on Jan. 1, 13 per cent larger than a year before and 6 per cent larger than last Oct. 1.

Consumption last year was estimated at 24,000,000,000 feet, about 4 per cent larger than in 1936.

The National Coal Association estimates bituminous coal production totaled 6,500,000 tons in the week ended Feb. 19, compared with 6,750,000 tons the preceding week and 10,840,000 tons in the comparable week last year. Production for 1938 to Feb. 19 aggregated 49,407,000 tons, compared with 70,412,000 tons in the similar period of 1937.

United States exports of dried fruits increased 24 per cent last year and shipments of canned fruits and vegetables averaged 4 per cent higher, the Commerce Department reports.

Business advices to the Commerce Department from representatives abroad include:

GERMANY—Berlin firm seeks permit to manufacture three-color cameras for printing offices in the United States.

ENGLAND—Repair insurance offered to stimulate used car sales.

SOUTH AFRICA—1937 foreign trade highest on record.

INSULL SETTLEMENT GIVES 6.2 CENTS ON $1

Court Approves Payment of $4,635,088 by Banks to Two Companies.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Law suits through which creditors of two Samuel Insull investment trusts sought to recover collateral were wiped from court records after Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday approved payment of $4,635,088 by Chicago and New York banks to trustees.

The money will be paid to the trustees of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., once known as a $250,000,000 investment trust, and the Corporation Securities Co., known at one time as a $150,000,000 investment trust.

Creditors, in suits originally filed in October, 1932, sought to recover collateral held by banks for loans made to the two Insull companies. Five Chicago banks held approximately $15,000,000 and six New York banks, $16,000,000.

The settlement approved by the court climaxed a long legal fight between the banks and the creditors, who sought to recover the collateral on the ground that it had been pledged improperly in violation of agreements. Under terms of the settlement the banks were permitted to retain the collateral pledged for loans. All banks and other claims, excepting noteholder and debenture holder claims against the two investment trusts, were withdrawn.

On the basis of the settlement it was estimated that debenture holders of Insull utility will receive approximately $62.40 on each $1000 face value of the bonds and noteholders of corporation securities will receive an estimated $61.50 on $1000 face amount.

Both investment trusts were placed in receivership on April 16, 1932.

Of the total payment $3,435,088 will be paid to Insull utility investments and $1,200,000 to Corporation Securities.

INSURANCE FUND'S TRANSFER ORDERED

Supreme Court Directs State Superintendent Distribute $1,750,000 to Policyholders.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25. — The Missouri Supreme Court en banc today directed the Cole County Circuit Court to "immediately return" to the State Insurance Department about $1,786,000 of impounded excess insurance premiums, which have been in custody of the lower court during most of the more than seven years of litigation over a 16 2-3 per cent increase in fire insurance rates in Missouri.

The transfer was ordered through a modification of a recent opinion in which the Supreme Court held the Circuit Court had no jurisdiction of the rate case and that the excess premiums, representing the increase, had been unlawfully collected from the policyholders by the insurance companies.

The Supreme Court, in the previous opinion ruled that the impounded premiums should be returned to the policyholders. The court today declared the Superintendent of Insurance was the lawful custodian of the funds, pending return to the policyholders.

Companies Denied Rehearing.

A motion by the insurance companies for a rehearing was denied.

Suits were filed by the insurance companies in State and Federal courts after the State Insurance Department denied the 16 2-3 per cent increase in May, 1930. The higher rates were collected until late in 1935, under injunctions obtained by the companies in 137 separate suits in the Federal District Court in Kansas City.

Impounding of the excess premiums was ordered by both the Federal and State courts, pending a final decision.

In the State Court case involving 74 companies the impounded funds were placed in the custody of the Insurance Department from June, 1930, until January, 1933, when Circuit Judge Nike Sevier ordered the fund transferred from the department to his court.

Fund Invested by Department.

While the fund was in the possession of the department it was invested in Government and State bonds. The earnings from the investments were sufficient to pay the expenses of handling the impounding, and a surplus of several thousand dollars was turned over to the Circuit Court. After the transfer interest was collected on the fund for a short time, from the three banks in which it was deposited, by order of the Circuit Court, but interest payment was discontinued when banks generally stopped paying interest on demand deposits, under Federal Reserve regulations.

During the slightly more than five years the impounded fund has been in direct custody of the Circuit Court a total of $133,411 has been expended in handling the fund.

In November, 1935, the companies filed a new schedule of rates, in accordance with the compromise agreement, relinquishing about two-thirds of the 16 2-3 per cent rate increase, and announced some of the risks would be reclassified to provide a further scaling down of the original increase.

Movie Bill Passed by Commons.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The Government's film bill, designed to enment's film bill, designed to protest the British movie industry, received the third reading in the House of Commons last night and was sent to the House of Lords. Representatives of United States interests have expressed fears the measure would virtually shut them out of the British market.

MACHINISTS AND MILLRIGHTS REACH TRUCE ON BREWERY JOB

Five-Week Layoff Ends as Unions Agree to Split Work on New Installations.

A truce has been declared in a jurisdictional dispute between union machinists and millwrights at Anheuser-Busch brewery and members of both crafts returned to work yesterday after a five-week layoff.

The dispute involved the installation of new bottling machinery, which a brewery spokesman said is part of a $3,000,000 expansion program for 1938. The machinists were reported to have claimed the entire installation, and the millwrights, affiliated with the Carpenters' International Union, protested. Under the truce, which is for six months, the work will be divided between the two crafts, as was formerly done. About 12 men from each craft are required for the present installation.

It is hoped that before the truce period expires a permanent settlement will be reached through the American Federation of Labor.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

IT don't take a very smart policeman to detect crime after it's been committed. There wouldn't be near as much law-breakin' in this country if all officers could anticipate crime and stop it before it started like Grandpa Snazzy when he was Chief of Police down home.

One day he walked up to Doc Meier's soda fountain and took a stranger by the arm and said "You're under arrest for violatin' the 'Anti-noise Law'—you just drank a bi-carbonate of soda!" The man says "Well, what of it? I ain't made a noise yet!"

Grandpa says "No, but you will in a minute! Let's go."

A Lucky Mistake

By Ely Culbertson

Scene: A bridge table.
Time: The present.

Characters.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornett, respectively West and East. (What they think of each other's bridge is unprintable, and they're both right!) Mrs. Blank, North, and Mr. Meek, South.

Mrs. Blank (coquettishly): Now, partner, dear, both sides vulnerable, and we simply must take the rubber! Remember, we're only 8410 points ahead.

Mr. Hornett: Of course, we all understand you mean "approximately." You're so careless about odd points.

Mr. Meek (hastily): My deal!

As usual, Mr. Meek gets a little giddy upon picking up a big hand. He intends to open up with "three hearts" but, to his horror, hears himself say "three spades" and, before he can correct the misnomer, Mr. Hornett steps in with a resounding "double!" The bidding then proceeds as follows:

South	West	North	East
3 spades	Double!	Pass	Pass
4 hearts	5 diam'ds	5 hearts	6 diam'ds
6 hearts	7 diam'ds	7 hearts	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Mr. Hornett viciously slaps down the king of diamonds and, from that point on, the defenders can do nothing more constructive than moaning and groaning. Mr. Meek, still quivering from his initial slip of the tongue, does not require much composure to ruff the opening lead, draw the one outstanding trump, and discard dummy's spades on his own long clubs. Feeling like a pickpocket, Mr. Meek then nervously spreads his hand, revealing the two spades. Mr. and Mrs. Hornett stare at them silently, then. . .

Mrs. Hornett (to Mr. Hornett): This is the end! I've played my last game as your partner! I'd rather join the circus and be shot out of a cannon!

Mr. Hornett: I strongly approve that idea. The job just fits your mental capacity! May I point out, Snow White, that it was you who doubled seven hearts?

Mrs. Hornett: Well, we could have taken two spade tricks, couldn't we? Of course, I should have realized that it would be a major miracle if you were to lead the right suit!

Mr. Hornett: O, sure! A spade lead was marked! I was supposed to know that Meek, of all people, had psyched in spades!

Mr. Meek (slightly insulted): I didn't psyche. The spade bid just slipped out!

Mr. Hornett: Some slip! (He thinks for a moment.) Jumping jelly fish! We could have made seven spades against anything but a diamond opening by North. It would have been cold against any lead if my esteemed partner had become declarer!

Mrs. Hornett: O, I'm sorry, dear! Of course I should have bid seven spades!

MEN WHO ARE PAST FORTY

By Dale Carnegie

THIS country has been going through a period of "doom the middle-aged." Just why, no one seems to understand. This trend of thought seems to be peculiarly American. In England, the men in the best jobs are men of experience; and England seems to know how to look out for itself very well indeed. In France, Germany, Switzerland, Scandinavia, men are not shelved because they have passed forty. I myself am past forty, and I have done more work and I believe better work during the past few years than ever before. And certainly I have no intention of stopping for years to come. The only way I can account for our attitude is that we have overestimated our youth, and our youth has underestimated age and experience. Being a young and ardent country, we have overdone the youth movement!

Let's go over this subject, and find out how much we who are over forty contribute to the theory that a man has outlived his usefulness when he reaches middle-age.

First, do we look old? That is do we fail to take care of our personal appearance?

Do we keep our clothes pressed and our hair trimmed neatly? A first glance may cause you to be classed as passe!

Do we keep ourselves physically fit by eating the right kind of food—vegetables, fruits, and just enough of the energizing foods to keep us going strong, and not enough to weight us down?

Do we practice old and tired habits, i. e., slump as we sit, shuffle as we walk? We are likely to do this if we don't feel physically fit.

Do we keep young mentally, by reading, by exercising our minds with those younger than we? Do we adapt our thinking to the modern trend or do we insist upon laying down the law on a theory of 20 years ago? Dr. Charles H. Mayo, the eminent surgeon, says "We find around us people who have been dead for years and don't know it. They do not think any more; their minds have died although their bodies live on."

Prof. Jean Broadhurst of Columbia University just recently ended her thirty-fourth career year by identifying the measles virus. She could not have been just out of college, and she is certainly making of herself a valued citizen with her work.

William de Morgan began his career as a novelist after he was 60 years old.

There comes a hopeful note from William J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Company. He says that the employment of people of 45 and older is constantly on the increase. Well, that is one indication that America is growing up.

If any of you feel that you are being regarded as old, get out and exercise; come in, take a bath, "spruce up," and see if you don't feel years younger. And read. Read inspiring, encouraging books. Don't let yourself down.

The Cause and Treatment of Amebic Colitis

Disease Becoming More and More Common in U. S., Doctor Says.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE term "colitis" implies inflammation of the large intestine. In order to understand its nature, we must know something of the structure and function of the colon.

The colon, or large intestine, has an internal lining of mucous membrane, two muscular coats of circular and longitudinous muscles, and an outside coat of serous connective tissue so that it makes a fairly tough, flexible, expansive and elongated sac. It is well supplied with nerves so that derangement of its functions are felt in the form of symptoms or pain.

Its most important function is that of holding bulky digestive products and waste until they can be conveniently eliminated. The second important function is delivering to the body the water which has been imbibed and poured into the small intestine during digestion.

Absorption of minerals, sugar, salt and some drugs takes place from the colon.

Most of the bacteria which have formed in the intestinal contents are detoxified or killed after they reach the large intestine. The chief secretion from the colon is mucus. Its function is obviously that of a lubricant.

Colitis can be said to exist only when there is demonstrable evidence of inflammation of the intestinal wall or lining.

There are various forms and causes of colitis:

(1) Amebiasis. This is becoming more and more common in the United States, and is due to the invasion of the mucous membrane of the colon by amebic parasites. Amebae usually enter the body with contaminated food. When they invade the mucous membrane of the colon they usually cause ulcerations. These ulcerations may be quite deep and lead to great intestinal unrest, with pain and cramps, diarrhea and the formation of blood, pus and mucus.

Besides the examination with the X-ray, diagnosis will depend upon the recovery of the ameba from the stool.

When treatment is promptly and properly given, acute amebic colitis responds very rapidly. Most of the treatment is designed to kill off the parasite. For this purpose a number of drugs have been used, such as ipecac and its derivatives, emetine, stovarsol, vioform and bismuth resorcinol.

As in all forms of colitis, rest with the use of a soft, low residue diet, should be instituted.

In the United States today nearly any chronic diarrhea should be suspected of being amebic.

Downtown Day To Open Spring Buying Season

THE official opening of the spring buying season will be held tomorrow with the semi-annual recurrence of "Downtown Day." Thirty members of the Associated Retailers in the downtown district are co-operating to make the day a successful sales event in department stores, men's and women's specialty shops, furniture houses, jewelry and candy stores and book shops.

Colorful spring attire for every member of the family will be on sale tomorrow. In women's coats, suits and dresses the trend for spring is toward three color combinations with navy blue the basic color. Pink or white accessories are used with two shades of blue; russet tile, a new warm brown shade, is growing increasingly popular for accessories this year.

Spring suits will be shown in styles that are less severe than those of the past season, although the two-piece suit with top coat still is popular. Hats this year will be sailors of all sizes with veils of all kinds and dimensions. Some are quite generous and may be draped loosely about the neck. There will be two-tone hats and flowered chapeaux for afternoon wear. Smart dresses with matching jackets are being shown this season for evening wear. They serve two purposes and may be worn sleeveless for formal, or with the jacket for dinner wear. Costume jewelry that is definitely fantastic will be on display in the stores and shops. Simulated colored stones still are considered proper with formal attire, while the daytime jewelry tends to the sports type.

Men's shops will show an array of suits and top coats that are in direct contrast to the more somber colors. The color trend continues toward brighter shades with gray-greens popular in English lounge double or single breasted styles. The rough fabrics that were popular in the fall will be shown again this spring and clothes for men are to be easy and comfortable. Accordingly, trousers are tapered and wide at the knee. Ease has also been extended to top coats which come in camel hair and shetland with raglan sleeves. The shirts shown will be in stripes or solid colors; brogues and brown suede shoes for men will continue popular.

The homemaker may satisfy the urge to refurnish the home in house furnishing and department stores. With the passing of the modern style in furniture, attention is again centering on the more formal English type of the eighteenth century. Seamless all-over carpets in a wide range of shades, including cedar, burgundy and driftwood will be shown. Draperies and hangings also follow the English influence with materials in linen, damask, homespun and chintz.

Gadgets of all kinds to lighten the task of home making and entertaining will be shown. Jewelry houses are featuring flat silver services. Candy shops will have sweets and cakes on sale.

In order to eliminate any delay in service the shops and department stores have added extra help to their regular sales staff.

Pineapple Fingers

Ingredients:
Two cups flour.
Three and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One tablespoon sugar.
Six tablespoons butter.
One egg yolk beaten.
One-third cup milk.
Crushed pineapple.

Sift flour; measure, add baking powder, salt, sugar; sift again. Cut in shortening with fork or pastry blender. Add milk and egg yolk to form stiff dough. Roll out to about one-eighth inch thickness. Spread with softened butter, then with crushed pineapple, well drained. Start rolling from one side until roll is three-fourths inch in diameter (about three turns) and cut off. Then cut this roll into three-inch lengths. Repeat for remainder of rolled-out dough. Bake on baking sheet. Brush with egg white diluted with water; sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a hot oven 10 to 12 minutes. Make about 24 fingers.

Among the newest kitchen utensils is a coffee pot with markings for both the amounts of coffee and water necessary for four, six and eight cups of coffee.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I WAS separated from my husband for a year and worked as a single woman due to his drinking. During that time I had dates the same as if I was never married and, of course, he doesn't know this. Now he has quit drinking, has a good job and we are fine. His drinking was a nervousness and he always drank at home, never going out, and after treatment by doctors he quit and they said liquor to him was a nerve medicine. Should I tell him that I dated while away working, as I became quite infatuated with one man whom I dated, and if he ever found it out, would he have the right to complain? Of course, he sent me as much money while I worked as I made salary but still by working was I not independent? Also I am working now and is it proper for me to accept lunch engagements? Also, if my friend comes to town, is it proper for me to go out with him since he doesn't know I am married, while my husband is away?

Would my husband have grounds for divorce if he found this out or does his former drinking overbalance this indiscretion? Am sure my husband has never looked at another woman and at times think maybe I did not do him just right as he was really sick and also sent me so much money while not knowing whether he would ever see me again. Also, he came to see me once but as my friend and I was dated up I had to make him leave. In a few weeks I lost my job and went back to live with him. I have seen my friend several times and he wants to get me a job in another town, a much better job, and my husband could live there just as well as here as he travels. Should I take it? Of course, my friend doesn't know I'm married now, as I work under my maiden name. Yours. WORRIED WANDA.

It is hard to realize that anyone, man or woman, can be so callous or so ignorant and indifferent to the decorum of married life. If every woman who is employed felt that this employment gave her the "freedom" of running around with others; the right to accept the love and loyalty and material help of a husband, sick or well, while ignoring the first principles of a sacred obligation, we would, indeed, have a shameful community.

Make up your mind to one thing or another: either shoulder your duty as you were instructed by a sacred ceremony in which you made sacred oath or leave entirely. No, his drinking would not allow you to escape the righteous laws of the divorce court.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL you please give me your opinion and suggestions on the following problem:

It seems as if the old-fashioned boy is a thing of the past. Most of the girls today will not have anything to do with him after they find out that he is not a cut-up, good-time Charlie; or they go with him only because he is well known and admired and they only wish to share in the spotlight of his popularity.

From this letter you may think that I never go out on a date. That is wrong. I go out every Saturday night but usually with a different one each week because they all seem to have the above or following faults more or less. I try to act like a gentleman, because I dislike a person who is not one, but the modern girl seems to think that gentlemen are extinct and they laugh up their sleeves at a boy who tries to act like a gentleman. A boy, on the other hand, wants to go with a girl without the above faults but he also wants her to be attractive. Is there such a thing as an attractive girl without the above faults and where can I find her?

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a young girl, a senior at high school. I have received a charm bracelet from a young man with whom I have been good friends. It was given me purely as a gift with no understanding other than friendship. We have stopped going together and I would like to know if I should continue wearing it, or should I return it?

LILLIE.

If you received this gift as a first gesture of friendship there is no reason why you should return it. To do so might seem to the young man that you have taken him more seriously than he intended. In such circumstances, the mistake which often leads to just the predicament you are in is to accept such a gift if it is of expensive quality. I think your family might decide whether or not the gift is too valuable to keep.

Relieve Their Misery this PROVED Way

TOO often, the cold that "hangs on" is a result of neglect . . . and neglect is always risky. Be extra careful of a stubborn cold, of course. But the safest course is to be careful of all colds. Don't experiment. Relieve their misery this doubly proved way.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin...

VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no stomach upsets. Just massage it on throat, chest, and back. Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

Relief starts almost at once. You begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by body warmth, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm, eases irritation and coughing, helps break local congestion. And long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working.

NOTE: If there is much irritation and coughing, or the air-passages feel clogged with heavy mucus or phlegm, even stronger vapor action is helpful. Pour boiling water in a bowl, melt a teaspoonful of VapoRub in it, and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes.

Train Children Early to Keep Bathroom Tidy

How to Cure the Dawdler During the Morning Rush Against Time.

By Angelo Patri

ONE bathroom in a family of four young people—three brothers and one sister—can become a bone of contention second to none in its possibilities for dog fights There is something about the bathroom that seems to invite the loafing soul, especially in the morning when everybody is supposed to be hurrying to get off on time.

There is always one member of the family who overstays his time. There is a sound of singing, running water, splashes, more singing; then a faint humming, then long spells of silence.

"Say, how long are you going to be there? You know it's about time for me to get going and I haven't had a chance to wash my face." Then come a series of indignant protests, loud knocks, calls for mother, who says, "Really, it seems to me—Something will have to be done about this. I simply cannot stand it morning after morning."

One of the best ways to cure the dawdler is to announce that tomorrow, having overstayed his time today, he is to use the bathroom last. Arrange a schedule giving the order of the bath, the one lucky enough to head the list one week, going to the foot the next and working to the top. The dawdler goes to the foot the day after he overstays his time regardless of his place on schedule and stays there for the rest of the week unless another of the same kind has to take the last place.

Some agreement as to the length of time each young person may have the use of the bathroom ought to be made. Let them have a conference about this and decide on the order of precedence and the time allotment. Have it typed and posted every Monday morning. Hold strictly to schedule and a great deal of the trouble will be eliminated.

Girls are usually the slowest about this, and unless there are very good reasons against it, the girls ought to be last on the list. Beauty treatments ought not to be taken first thing in the morning in the bathroom. All powdering, polishing, doing of hair, rouge and lipstick applications can well be attended to in the girls' own rooms. It is not fair to keep the boys late for school and business while such operations are performed.

There is one strict rule about the use of the bath room that all well-bred young people should accept and follow, with meticulous care. All traces of personal use of the bathroom should be removed and the place left in spotless condition for the next comer. It is very selfish, very ill-mannered, to leave towels lying in the tub, washrags on the basin, soap suds where they happened to fall. It takes only a few decisive motions to leave things in good order and those motions should, most decidedly, be made.

Provisions for this cleaning up should be made. A floor cloth that can be used for washing out tub and basins should be on hand as well as a towel for drying them when necessary. A shining basin is inviting, and the last comer ought to have that pleasant invitation as well as the first comer. A few rules about such matters will make the morning exercises much easier and a great deal pleasanter for everybody. It is well to begin early in the training of the children so that when they arrive at the Young Person stage their good bath room manners will have been established.

CHAMPION of the "LITTLE FELLOW"

"Pro Bono Publico" Lives in Person of W. T. Collins, Stanch Defender of the People's Rights.

By Marguerite Martyn

TWO VIEWS OF W. T. COLLINS IN ACTION—"NOT ONE OF YOU MEN EVER RIDE ON A STREET CAR," I TOLD THEM.

HUMBLE citizens, downtrodden taxpayers, "little fellows," forgotten men and women, meet your champion, your self-appointed defender, "Pro Bono Publico," in person, John Q. Public himself.

You've seen the name, W. T. Collins, occasionally throughout the years in accounts of public hearings before the Board of Aldermen or public service commissions. Often his has been the only voice raised in your behalf against such overwhelming odds of powerful interests that, for all the native, racial oratorical talents he brings to bear, the voice has been futile, treated impatiently by the bigwigs, sometimes humorously, by reporters.

But often the voice has been effective. There was that time when a railroad decided to abolish some grade crossings in Gasconade County, greatly to the inconvenience of the farmers, obliging them to drive miles out of their way. Collins had been on his vacation at Shady Rest and heard the farmers' grumblings.

A hearing on the subject was to be held before the Public Service Commission in Jefferson City. The farmers couldn't get away, so Collins volunteered to represent them. When the meeting opened, railroad representatives were quick to observe, "Where are the farmers? None here. Obviously, they have no objection."

"Then," said Collins, "I stepped forward with my petitions, laid them before Attorney Sam Hargus and Chairman Collet. They were convinced, granted the petition gave the railroad 10 days to get those crossings back. I've been going back to Shady Rest for six weeks every summer since," he chuckled.

And take the time the street car company was asking for a perpetual franchise and revaluation. "Gov. Caulfield came to St. Louis to hold the hearings," Collins recalled. "Among all the big bankers, big stock holders and lawyers present, I was the only one representing the street car riders," he declared. "About the only St. Louisan, for that matter. I rose up and pictured with all the feeling I could put into it the discomforts of waiting long stretches on street corners, then hanging on a strap all the way out to my home on Oakland avenue, in unheated cars. 'Not one of you men ever ride on a street car,' I told them. 'I am here as one of your best customers.'

"I don't know that my speech had any effect, but Caulfield, who was one of the fairest governors we ever had, anyway, vetoed the bill."

THERE was the matter of being on the spot to oppose paving with expensive granite blocks where asphalt would do just as well, thereby saving his neighboring property owners several hundred dollars, and his alertness in following up other paving projects. As a heckler he claims to have delayed one street-making job until finally it was done by the W P A.

Just a humble citizen himself, an employe of the Railway Express Co., where he went to work at fourteen and where he will celebrate his forty-eighth anniversary next August, officially at hearings William Thomas Collins is secretary of the Mill Creek Valley Property Owners' Association. In that capacity he demands attention. His wife owns some property in the valley.

"One of our members tipped me off to some mysterious surveying he had observed going on," Collins related. "Connecting this clue with an obscure notice tacked on a telephone pole announcing a hearing on paving the street, I rounded up enough property owners to successfully oppose it. Sure enough, it wasn't long before excavation for a big building began. The builders had intended to postpone purchase of the property until we little fellows had paved the street for them."

For this and many other times he has gone to the front for fellow property owners, Collins sometimes is known as Mayor of Mill Creek Valley.

Just the other day he made one of his speeches in a stormy session before the Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen, opposing a bill to regulate installations and removal of plumbing fixtures according to some new building code. "It would work a hardship on many property owners now carrying tenants unable to pay rent," he contended.

In the tempestuous sessions on the widening of Market, Olive and Twelfth streets, Collins was always much in evidence.

"By rights, all those widenings should have been financed by bond issues," he ruminates over these lost causes, "instead of taxing property to the point of confiscation. For the widening of Market street my wife's property on Eugenia street was taxed $1230, without improving the value of the property.

Among other public questions on which Collins has raised his voice, waxed oratorical and done a good deal of arm waving in aldermanic chambers, have been regulation of the liquor traffic, the riverfront improvement, smoke abatement, daylight saving, parking regulations, one-way streets, and various bond issues. Not always is he the champion of taxpayers, not when their interests seem selfish. A South Side property owners' association asked him to represent them in opposing the bond issue to create work for the unemployed, and he refused.

"I told them if they didn't favor such measures, soon they wouldn't have any property to pay taxes on," he explained.

It all began, this public zeal and championship of the inarticulate "little fellow," back when as a lad he was an usher at St. John's Church under the pastorate of Father James Thomas Coffey, he related.

"Father Coffey was my inspiration," he said. "His great and successful anti-wineroom crusade showed me what one voice crying in the wilderness of injustice and political corruption could do.

"My first venture at meddling in public affairs, I believe started the downfall of the Butler machine. At least we made the first dent in it. Justices of the Peace in those days were used as collection agents, to serve bluff notices in the form of subpenas. A lot of people were getting tired of this. I was born and raised a Democrat and a Catholic, but when I was asked to support for Justice of the Peace in the Fifteenth Ward a good man, John J. Kirby, who happened to be a Republican ("incidentally," he interpolated, "he happened to be the father of the prettiest girl in St. Louis and afterward became my father-in-law) I took off my coat figuratively, like the Irish Catholic who said he'd have to take off his scapulars if ever he voted a Republican ticket, and went to work for him. I was judge on election day in the polls back of Bad Jack Williams' saloon. When Butler Indians came in and upset a lamp to throw the place in darkness and make off with the ballot boxes, I was prepared for them with a torch I had got from the fire department. We counted the ballots and, unheard of as it was in that day and that part of town for a Republican to hold office, Kirby was found to be elected."

Collins glories in his victories. "It gives me a thrill in here to have my side win in a debate when I know I'm right," he said, hugging his chest. But scarcely less does he glory in having at least been heard on behalf of lost causes. He doesn't mind hearing himself called "That wild Irishman," "That Busybody," or "That Public Pest" when he is plaguing elected officials in their machinations. He is never awed by them. Once one of our Mayors became impatient at a hearing and said, "Well, come on, come on. We can't be here all day." Collins called him with the retort, "Why, can't you? We pay you for all day."

THE point is, he has made himself heard, if not always listened to, and although a mild-mannered little man in conversation, compactly built and wearing thick-lensed glasses, it is apparent, when he gets wound up, he enjoys orating. He extemporized one of his speeches with gestures for the photographer. He does monologues, too, in imitation of other orators. A favorite is Al Smith. And he can turn on a rich brogue telling long Irish stories. But his heart is in the right place, even when he isn't orating, and not all his benevolences are expressed in oratory.

When some little customer of the express company asks some out-of-the-way accommodation, Collins is the man they turn it over to. Such as the man who pawned his false teeth here. Later, in a distant city, he couldn't remember which pawn shop. It was somewhere on Market street, between Broadway and Eighteenth. Collins canvassed them all, finally located, redeemed and sent the denture sealed by express C. O. D.

"Pawnbrokers have the reputation of being pretty hard hearted," he commented, "but here was one who had taken a chance on something he never could sell. I come across things like that all the time.

"There was a poor tubercular who pawned his watch to help pay his expenses to Tucson. He probably thought he wouldn't need his watch long. Then to his surprise he began to get well, he wanted his watch again and the ticket had lapsed. I had some trouble tracing it, but finally got it out to him, I love to do things like that," he concluded.

Collins' great regret is that not all public hearings at the City Hall are held at night, so he wouldn't have to switch his lunch hour around and sometimes go without lunch in order to attend. He believes he would have a good deal more support from the common people if hearings were not held when these very people who ought to be most interested in public affairs are at work.

Parent Whose Children Will Not Entertain

They Accept Invitations but Decline to Give Parties in Own Home.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

CAN you tell me how I might induce my children to give parties in return for those to which they accept invitations? They are not especially shy except in this one instance of not wanting to be host and hostess. They are 13 and 14 years old and like very much to go to the parties and dances of their friends. Their stubborn and unfriendly attitude is placing me in an increasingly awkward position since I feel that the other mothers believe that I don't let them ask any one to the house. Whereas, on the contrary, I have talked and talked to them and tried to make them understand that simple entertaining should be a normal part of their lives. But it is of no use. I should be so delighted to let them give any kind of party they want.

Answer: Since you say that they like to go to the parties given by others, which means that they like to be among people, the only reason I can think of for their inhospitality is something connected with their own home which makes them imagine that a party would not be a success. I have of course no definite idea what this could be. Merely at a guess, I would suggest the trouble may be their fear that you would make too much of a fuss. Half-grown children intensely dislike anything which throws the limelight upon themselves. If everything about the running of your house is simple and smooth and it couldn't possibly be that, perhaps you can find out from their most intimate friends, whom you also know well, what the trouble is.

Toasted Rolls

Eight finger rolls.
Four tablespoons butter.
One tablespoon salad dressing.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.

Cut rolls in halves lengthwise. Spread with rest of ingredients. Toast well on both sides and serve hot.

Fried Macaroni Slices

One-half pound macaroni, two eggs, one-half cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt. Cook macaroni in salted water until tender. Drain and mix with beaten eggs, salt and milk. Press into a greased mold and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. When thoroughly cold, unmold, slice and fry in butter until a golden brown. Serve with crisp bacon for a change in breakfast dishes.

Wooden Boards

If you have a wooden sink board or use a meat board a great deal, it may be kept in good condition by adding a teaspoon of baking soda to the water when washing it off. It will keep it sweet-smelling.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE by WYNN

For Saturday, Feb. 26.

ROUTINE the daylight hours; get things done and out of the way; pay your bills. Evening gets better for serious thinking, planning and deciding. Till Monday: too much tendency to say or do more than you really mean; wait.

Make a Written Plan.

If you would become truly happy and remain that way for the rest of your life, start now to plan your future. This will require an honest inventory of what you are—plus a good deal more. Write down on paper what you know you can accomplish in the next 12 months. Then, assuming you have done it, plan the year to follow. Do this over a 10-year period. You can do it.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead revives old financial ambitions, if this is your anniversary. Slow and sure is your motto. Feature yourself in occupation; push personal plans. New ideas due. Danger: April 26-June 7; Sept. 4-Nov. 2; Feb. 2-March 28, 1939.

Sunday.

Look ahead; make plans; check up on money matters.

Soak and cook slices of lemon with fried apricots, prunes or peaches. One thin slice of lemon will be enough for each two cups of dried fruit.

Albrecht von Haller (1708-1777) was a native of Berne, Switzerland. His fame, however, is associated with Germany, where he was for many years professor of anatomy and surgery at the University of Gottingen, and where he was known as the premier surgeon of his age. He established the Anatomical and Gynecological Institution and many others which made the university famous, he taught a thousand of the most famous surgeons of the century, but he never performed an actual surgical operation himself in his entire life.

DAILY MAGAZINE

ALIBI GIRL

By ROB EDEN

Nancy Is Kidnaped from Her Home by a Lone Intruder, Who Places Her in an Auto and Drives Away.

SYNOPSIS.

NANCY ROLAND of Los Angeles, falsely accused of murdering her wealthy uncle, DODGE ROLAND, is the victim of fake evidence furnished by her cousin, ALAN JORY. Alan testifies he was with Nancy the night of June 30, when actually they were together July 1—the night of the murder. To corroborate his statements Alan furnishes two witnesses who swear to having seen him with Nancy June 30 and who identify her by the black hat she wears. JULIAN HOWARD, popular detective story author present at Nancy's hearing believes her innocent and secures her immediate release from jail by posting $30,000 bond. But later OLIVE TEARLE, Nancy's roommate, arriving home one evening, discovers Nancy gone! CAPT. WYMAN, officer in charge of the case, angrily declares she ran away. Julian receives the news calmly.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN.

AT FIRST Nancy had tried struggling. She didn't any more. It was useless, just as useless as it was to wonder where she was going, and why she was here, and who the man was who was driving the car.

Not a heavy big car she knew although she hadn't seen it. A light sedan with a good bit of rattle in the body, and some noise in the motor.

There was a pad underneath her where she lay on the floor of the tonneau—but the pad evidently was not too thick, as now and then she felt the bumps of the road, and once in a while at a bad bump her body fell against the back of the driver's seat, and bounced to the metal foot rail which was against the tonneau seat.

She was so cramped. Her legs ached from her position which she had tried to make more comfortable, but hadn't succeeded. The tonneau was not long enough for her body.

If she could have moved around, but she couldn't. What she was wrapped in she didn't know, but it seemed like some heavy blanket pinned tightly around her body from her feet to her neck.

The material was rough and coarse when she rubbed her chin against it, for her chin was the only bit of flesh in her body that could feel it any more.

At first she had felt it on her hands, bound as they were behind her back under the blanket or whatever it was.

But they were quite devoid of feeling now, and the little prickles of pain had left them.

At times it seemed as if she had no hands, no feet, only a chin, and forehead. That was bare, and it lay against the pad which was rough, but not as rough as the sacking or blanket that bound her.

There was something in her mouth. It had been disagreeable at first, too. Some kind of a gag, and over the gag a towel she thought.

A linen towel—pinned, too, like the blanket or sacking. She had heard the safety pins clasp when the man had fastened them.

Over her eyes was something else—not linen, but cotton. It blotted out the sight of everything, but it wasn't too tight, nor too uncomfortable.

That, too, had been fastened with pins as the towel around her mouth, and the material enclosing her body.

The sound of the pins shutting, the feeling of strong hands—nothing else. Not another sound, except his breathing, which was quick and labored.

His breathing. Only he in the front seat. She was sure of that, because she had heard no conversation since she had been put in the car. Certainly in the hours of riding if there were two people in the front seat, they would have exchanged a word by now—even if it was a whispered word.

There hadn't been a sound but the motor racing on, and the gears grinding to a stop once in a while, and the brakes suddenly gripping.

NO, THERE must be only one in the front, and no one in the back with her. There was no sound of breathing back here, no feel of legs when she bounced against the seat.

She and the driver of the car were alone on the road. He was smoking. The odor of his tobacco drifted back to her with the other smells of the night — the fresh sweet scent of orange blossoms which came at times, the rancid smell of gasoline that told her they were passing a truck, the barny odor of stables and cattle.

Any smell you could detect at night on any road in California. Flowers and stables and cheap gasoline, and the cool night air that was bracing even to Nancy, bound as she was.

She had been afraid at first, but she wasn't any more, because she didn't dare to be. She wanted her head clear for any emergency that might arise.

She went back over it all, from the start as she had done many times since her strange ride had begun.

She saw herself going into the bedroom to answer the phone, hurrying. But she didn't get to the bedroom, she got as far as the living room—right by the closet where there was another bed that made the sleeping accommodations of the bungalow four instead of two.

That was where she felt the arms thrown tight about her, that was where she felt something thrown over her face, that was where she tried to scream and couldn't get a sound out from her lips.

There wasn't much of a struggle, and hardly any sound. She knew he had dragged her into the closet, because she felt the metal of the standing bed against her thigh.

She had thought she was going to die, but she didn't. She was helpless, but she didn't die.

What he had done he had done very fast, as if time were important. Tying up her arms, her ankles, putting the heavy blanket around her. She trying to scream and the screams losing themselves in the gag in her mouth.

She hadn't seen him—even before her eyes were blindfolded because the closet was dark, and he hadn't turned the light on.

She had heard him that was all, and she had felt the power of his arms, and the smooth texture of his suit, and the cotton like gloves on his hands, those things she had felt in her first quick struggle.

After the blindfold was on, and she was helpless, still struggling within her bonds because she knew no better, she heard the closet light snap on, and he left her.

There were his footsteps going through the living room, into the bedroom. It seemed as if he had been gone a long time, but he couldn't have.

When he came back, he went into the kitchen before he came to her.

All the time that wild panic roaring through her. What is he going to do to me? And the cry that she could utter but not hear, the cry that was stifled in the gag in her mouth and the towel about it, "Help!"

NANCY heard something drop in the kitchen, and then he came back, and he rolled her in something. She could hardly breathe.

After that she was lifted and carried through the kitchen and out the back door. Again she tried to free herself, but couldn't. Half running he was, half walking as he went with her up the narrow path. Once he stumbled.

His walk wasn't a long one—not the whole distance to Groton street through the alley. He stopped with her over his shoulder like a log and she heard a car door open, and she was eased rather gently onto the pad where she was now.

The car, she decided, was in the entrance to the court garages—that broad space of cement back of the courts.

The tonneau door was barely closed and his front door opened and closed when she heard the motor start. The gears meshed and they started. Slowly at first, stopping for signals.

She tried to call the familiar streets to herself as they passed them, but then the panic was pretty bad, and she lost track.

The thirst, too, that was so bad. Her mouth was so dry. She thought she would die if she didn't get a drink of water; if some way she couldn't move that gag away. She wasn't so thirsty now.

Kidnaped. Kidnaped. Why? And who was the man who was driving the car; the man who had surprised her in the bungalow?

He must have come in by the back door—with a key of his own. While she was dressing.

He must have been in the house when she went through the kitchen and out on the porch to get a breath of fresh air.

She must have walked past the closet where he was hiding. Why didn't he take her then—that first time?

The door must have been open when she passed the closet the second time, but she hadn't noticed it. She had been so intent on getting to the phone.

The phone had rung for a long time—most of the time she was struggling with him in the closet. It stopped, she remembered, when he put the gag in her mouth.

How long had they been riding? She couldn't tell that; she had no way of knowing, except that the ride seemed endless to her, and the ringing of the phone days back; years back.

She had tried spacing the time, counting it, but only for a while. She was too excited to keep it up for long.

Sixty seconds make a minute, 60 minutes make an hour. She had counted 10 minutes in succession and then lost track. That was miles back; hours back.

It was still night, though. She could tell that by the smells, and the air. And they were going up the inland route to Northern California, she thought, because of the curves on the Ridge.

It was the only road she knew in the State with so many curves—and they had to be going some place.

Besides, there was no smell of the sea, as there would have been if they had been going the coast road—the ocean beside you for a good part of the way. There was no fierce heat that would have meant they were in the desert.

San Francisco? What would he do with her there? Who was he?

So many questions she wanted answered.

"Oh Julian; Oh, Olive"——

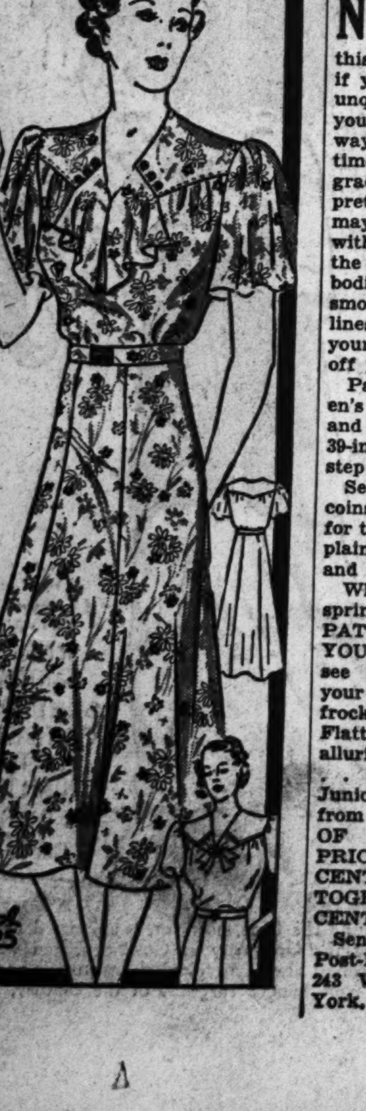
TODAY'S PATTERN



NOTHING can get you into a gay spring mood quite as fast as a pretty flowered dress like this one from Pattern 4725. And if you want flattery, too, then it's unquestionably the perfect style for you. Soft, simple lines, which always come into their own at this time of year, are found in the graceful, flared sleeves and in the prettily draped jabot. The dress may be made to look equally smart with puffed sleeves and a bow at the neck. Attractive fullness in the bodice is cleverly controlled by the smooth-fitting yoke. The paneled lines of the skirt add height to your figure and seem to take inches off your hips.

Pattern 4725 is available in women's sizes, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3⅝ yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

See for yourself how much easier, faster, cleaner, Oxydol washes your clothes—how safe it is for all washable colors. If you don't find Oxydol far superior to any other soap you've ever used, return the large package, get your money back!*

HERE'S an amazing opportunity—to try sensational new Oxydol at a bargain price without risking a penny! To prove how Oxydol ends washday drudgery, saves worlds of time, gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter—yet does it safely!

We can make this remarkable offer, because Oxydol is an utterly new soap discovery. It is the result of a patented process that makes soap far faster acting. And a miraculous new formula that makes mild, gentle soap 2 to 3 times whiter washing—yet keeps it safe. Once you've tried Oxydol, you'll join the millions who use it always, for easier washdays, whiter, cleaner clothes.

Perfected by the Ivory Soap people at a cost of more than $1,000,000, Oxydol does these four astonishing things:—

First—Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Saves hours on a big washing.

Second—Soaks dirt out in 15 minutes! No scrubbing or boiling needed. Even "tough" spots come clean and white with a few quick rubs.

Third—Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter as proved by scientific Tintometer tests. These tests showed that, cup for cup, Oxydol soaked clothes as white in 15 minutes as less efficient granulated soaps did in three-quarters of an hour.

Fourth—Yet Oxydol is safe for every washable color, safe for hands. Even sheer cotton prints have come through 100 consecutive Oxydol washes, without any perceptible sign of fading.

What's more, Oxydol is extremely economical. Tests against popular package soaps show that, cup for cup, Oxydol gives 28% to 60% MORE SUDS—goes ⅓ to ½ again as far as even the most modern soap flakes!

Don't Wait—Offer Limited

Act now! Prove for yourself that Oxydol does everything we say. Find out what an amazing improvement it is over other soaps—how much time it saves—what washday drudgery it ends. See why millions of delighted women have discarded old-fashioned bar soaps, flakes, chips and less energetic granulated soaps, and changed to Oxydol. But don't delay. This bargain offer of a 10 cent-size package for 1 cent is good while your dealer's special supply lasts! Procter & Gamble.

NO OFFICE WANTS A LISTLESS MAN TODAY. THAT'S WHAT YOU ARE WITH YOUR HABITUAL CONSTIPATION. LETS STOP AT THE GROCER'S AND I'LL FIX YOU UP ARE YOU CRAZY? WHAT HAS THE GROCER....
BILL, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN CAN PUT YOU BACK ON YOUR TOES. IT SUPPLIES THE BULK YOUR TYPE OF CONSTIPATION NEEDS
IF YOU SAY SO IT MUST BE GOOD
SOME TIME LATER
TODAY'S MY FIRST DAY AS OFFICE MANAGER... AND I'M STARTING IN RIGHT WITH A BOWL OF THIS CRUNCHY ALL-BRAN
IT CERTAINLY MADE A "REGULAR" FELLOW OUT OF YOU

WHY NOT JOIN THE "REGULARS"?

If you are troubled with common constipation, here's some common sense advice. This difficulty is usually due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. So instead of seeking temporary relief, why not get at the cause of the trouble? Instead of emergency medicines, eat a natural laxative food. Try Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted cereal contains the "bulk" you need. And All-Bran is one of the richest of all common foods in Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1. Eat All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

APANESE OPEN ATTACK ON EXTREME WEST FLANK

Drive Aimed at Shensi Province, Hitherto Untouched by War, in Attempt to Swing Around End of Lunghai Front.

ONE FORCE 18 MILES FROM YELLOW RIVER

Heavy Fighting Near Tsing — Chinese Planes Bomb Barracks at Pengpu; 100 Men Reported Killed.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 26.—An army of 250,000 Chinese is being repelled toward the Yellow River in Shansi Province, in a Japanese westward drive to invade hitherto untouched Shensi Province, headquarters of the Chinese Red army and other guerrilla units, a Japanese spokesman said tonight.

Apparently Suiteh, in North Shensi, was the Japanese objective from which they could radiate to occupy the wheat-producing plains and rich terraced hillsides and conquer the provincial population of 18,000,000.

This phase of the campaign was directed at the Chinese about 300 miles northwest of the inland terminus of the Lunghai railway front through Central China. Broadly, occupation of Shensi Province would constitute a tremendous flanking movement against the western end of the Lunghai front.

A Japanese column claimed capture of Lishih, leaving but 18 miles between their front and the Yellow River. Thousands of Chinese were massed in that narrowing area.

The Japanese front reached to Lingshih, in Southern Shansi, where 100,000 defenders were arrayed for battle.

Chinese military dispatches said defeat of the Chinese in the Lingshih battle probably would mean loss of southern Shansi province.

Air Fighting Increases.

Aerial warfare became more severe as the Japanese, following the unprecedented bombing raid on Formosa, retaliated by attacking Chinese air bases at Nanchang and other inland points.

The Japanese navy said Japanese planes which raided Nanchang shot down 42 of the 50 Chinese ships which took the air against them. The Japanese admitted losing only two planes. Chinese reports, however, said eight Japanese planes were destroyed. The Chinese did not specify their own losses or mention any airdrome damage.

Chinese planes bombed a flour mill at Pengpu, northwest of Nanking, which was being used by the Japanese for a barracks. One hundred Japanese soldiers were reported to have been killed.

It is in the Pengpu area that Japanese troops advancing northward toward the Lunghai Railway have been held up for weeks by the Chinese. Recently the Chinese have driven the invaders back many miles, in some places forcing them to retreat across the Hwai River.

Warships Shell Chinese.

Southwest of Nanking, Japanese land forces are making preparations to carry on their long-delayed advance up the Yangtze River. Three Japanese warships shelled Chinese positions at Sanshan, 13 miles west of Wuhu, covering the advance of land forces engaged in skirmishes along the south bank of the river.

Bitter fighting was reported around Tsining, in the northern sector of the Central China war zone, where Chinese resistance has held up the Japanese advance for weeks.

Japanese Burn 15 Villages in Campaign Against Irregulars.

By the Associated Press.

PEIPING, China, Feb. 26.—Japanese troops along the railway southwest of Peiping, taking drastic action to check Chinese guerrilla attacks, sacked and burned 15 villages in the last week, reliable foreign sources said today.

The villages destroyed included the Chinese Communist headquarters at Wanhsien, west of Paotingfu. Refugees are flocking into railway towns by the thousands as a result of the guerrilla warfare.

The Chinese bands harrying Japanese in the North China area daily are destroying railway tracks and small bridges. One train was wrecked, foreign informants ascertained, but casualties were not known.
